Paris Conference Leaves Door Open For Absent Nations To Join Program

Russia, Satellites Welcome To Participate In Continent-Wide Relief Program; 16 Countries Attend Opening

PARIS, July 12.—(AP)—Britain, France and Italy told the opening session of the Marshall Plan Conference today that Russia and the absent Eastern European nations still would be welcome to help in a continent-wide effort to rebuilt a war-shattered economy.

Moreover, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared the conference was not intended to set up a permanent organization rivalling the United Nations. He said the conference members remained loyal to the U. N. and wanted to work in the fullest cooperation with appropriate U. N. organs.

Bevin also pledged the resources of the British commonwealth, insofar as the British government can influence them, to the task of European rehabilitation.

Statesmen from 16 European nations met for an hour in the gilded grand banquet hall of the French foreign ministry. They elected Bevin presiding officer and named a working committee which immediately began a study of the British-French draft for European recovery with American aid.

The working committee met for four and a half hours without achieving agreement on the organization of the conference. At its second meeting tomorrow at noon, it is to consider a compromise proposal designed to meet demands of smaller nations that all 16 nations at the conference be represented on the projected international cooperation committee. Britain and France originally proposed that this committee have only five or six members.

The conference was called by Brit-

SOVIET ATTEMPTS TO SPLIT EUROPE APPEAR DOOMED

Russia Believed Playing Losing Game Trying To Wreck Marshall Program

ONCE GREAT VETO POWER IN WORLD AFFAIRS CUT

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, with its once great veto power in world affairs much curtailed, is playing a losing game in trying to split Europe and wreck the Marshall plan for European recovery, American officials said today.

The plan will go through to the fullest extent possible without them and in spite of threats and protests, it was said here. There is considerable speculation even that in the long run they will be unable to hold their own Eastern bloc countries in line.

"The Russians appear to have won an empty victory," said one official.

Surprising new evidence that the Soviets themselves as well as their satellite governments may be beginning to realize this was seen today in an extraordinary outburst of reports that Russian bloc countries would like to share in American assistance to Europe despite their boycott of the Marshall plan meeting at Paris.

This sudden and perhaps very significant turn of events found Ameri-

CONGRESS TO GET FLOOD PROGRAM

White House Prepares Bill To Control Unruly Waters Across Nation

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—The White House tonight prepared to send Congress a flood control plan to harness unruly waters "from the Rockies to the Applachians."

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said President Truman will recommend the vast program in a special message to Congress next week.

Senator Murray, Democrat, Montana, told a reporter that "if we want to do a good job," a $2,000,000,000 program would be reasonable.

Advocates of the proposed Missouri Valley authority voiced concern lest the presidential scheme sidetrack this big power, flood and conservation project, despite Mr. Truman's assurance at a Thursday news conference that he still favors MVA.

Murray said he has received sufficient White House assurances, however, that the new plan "will recognize MVA as the right way to handle the problems of a river system."

"The president's recommendations will be framed along lines which recognize that terrible floods cannot be controlled by building levees along the main stem of the Missouri-Mississippi system," he said.

"This is no longer a local problem,

RAMADIER APPEALS TO CIVIL WORKERS

PARIS, July 12.—(AP)—Premier Paul Ramadier, facing the prospect of a strike by civil service employes, appealed to the 1,200,000 government workers tonight to moderate their wage demands. He said the demands could not be met fully without the printing of worthless francs.

The premier rejected the union's demands for increases totaling 27,000,000,000 francs ($225,000,000) for 1947. He said the French treasury could afford no more than 21,000,000,000 francs.

Union leaders called a meeting for Monday to decide on their next move. The leaders said previously that, in any event, a strike would not be called before Tuesday.

A strike of civil servants would tie up postal and telegraph services, buses, subways, government office routine, some police and health services, arsenal, and the state-owned tobacco and match industries.

VOTING VICTORY WON BY NEGROES

South Carolina Court Rules Against 'White' Democratic Primary

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 12.—(AP)—South Carolina Negroes won a court victory today in their fight for the right to participate in the state's Democratic primary, limited by party rules since 1944 exclusively to "white Democrats."

U. S. District Judge J. Waties Waring, tall, 66-year-old Charleston-born jurist, held that "Negroes are entitled to be enrolled to vote" in the Democratic primaries. The case was brought by George Elmore, a Columbia Negro, who contended he had been denied enrollment because of his color.

Waring, in another case, turned down the petition of John H. Wrighten, Charleston Negro, for a court order directing his admission to the University of South Carolina law school, but he ruled that Wrighten would be entitled to enter unless by the opening of the next school year the state provides an adequate course in the College for Negroes at Orangeburg.

One other alternative was possible, he said. That would be that "the state furnish no law school education to any persons of either the White or Negro races."

In the argument of the Elmore case early in June attorneys for the Richland county (Columbia) Democratic executive committee and primary managers in one Columbia Democratic club, named as co-defendants, pointed out that in 1944 South Carolina repealed all statutes pertaining to primaries.

In consequence, they contended, the party had become a private organization with full authority to stipulate who was entitled to membership, and not subject to court regulation.

Taking note of this point, Waring

TWO SHOTS FIRED AT BRICKER BY DISCHARGED CAPITAL COP

Ohio Senator Escapes Uninjured On Capitol Subway Car; Accused Tells Police, "I Did It To Refresh His Memory"

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—Two pistol shots missed Senator Bricker (R.-Ohio) today in a burst of gunfire on Capitol Hill and police arrested a discharged Capitol policeman on charges of assault with intent to kill the Senator.

The accused, William L. Kaiser, calmly and cryptically told police and newspapermen:

"I did it to refresh his memory."

The shooting set the capitol in a turmoil during the midst of an unusual Saturday session of the Senate. It took place in the subway linking the capitol with the Senate office building.

Bricker was carried to safety by the little monorail subway car as it rounded a bend out of the shooter's range.

The silver-haired 1944 Republican vice presidential candidate and a companion crouched behind one of the car's seats as it slowly got underway.

Bricker, apparently undisturbed, told reporters that Kaiser blamed him for losses in a Building and Loan Association at Columbus about 15 years ago.

Records show that Kaiser was a capitol police appointee of his predecessor, Senator Huffman (D-Ohio). Bricker told a questioner that he had nothing to do with Kaiser losing his job last April.

Kaiser was arrested by metropolitan police several hours after the shooting and many blocks from the capitol, at a Massachusetts Avenue address. Police at precinct No. 1 booked him on charges of assault with intent to kill.

Bricker and two others who were in the line of gunfire at first thought the shots were blanks, but Senate sergeant-at-arms Edward F. McGinnis said after Kaiser's arrest that the gun contained live ammunition.

Bricker said he believed the shots were blanks because he did not hear any bullets strike. Later capitol police found marks in the wall and on a

"Dr. F. P. Cerniglia, of Monroe, La., says he was driving toward Texas one afternoon when the sun was making heavy shadows. His car stalled and a motorist offered aid. There was no rope or chain, so the shadow of one auto was tied to the other and a 30-mile tow was thus completed." Now who will be next???

Mrs. Frank Pettit, Jr., of South Second street, Monroe, declares that this is a small world. Why she says it lies in the fact that her daughter, Betty Jane, age 15 years, now summering in Washington, D. C., when at the Washington monument, ran right into Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Black, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, and his wife. The small-sized Monroe group was quite happy to see each other again. Betty Jane, her mother explains, is taking dancing under direction of a prominent instructor, while she visits her aunt in the capital city.

Not that Pythians are allergic to church attendance, but just the same they are being urged to attend the First Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock in a body. Dr. H. H. BRITAIN DOUBTS EGYPT'S HONESTY

Cairo Government Accused Of Attempting To Break Treaty To Grab Sudan

LAKE SUCCESS, July 12.—(AP)—British officials charged today that Egypt was attempting to break a legal treaty in a move to ensure complete dominance over the Sudan.

The officials disclosed this would be the principal argument to the Egyptian demand for United Nations security council action to force "total and immediate" withdrawal of British forces from Egypt and the Sudan.

These sources said Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britain's chief delegate, was prepared to answer the Egyptian complaint with a counter-demand that the grounds that it is not justified.

The Egyptian complaint, which grew out of failure to revise the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty which expires in 1956, is not expected to be taken up by the security council for at least one and possibly two weeks because of a heavy crush of work including the Balkan problem, establishment of an international police force, disarmament and control of atomic energy.

The Egyptian appeal filed yesterday with the security council charged that Britain had adopted a policy designed to sever the Sudan from Egypt, to

ARGUMENT LOOMS ON CANCER PLAN

Dispute Centers On How Much Atomic Commission May Spend For Research

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—A congressional argument loomed today over how much the Atomic Energy commission may spend in the battle against cancer.

Senator Reed (R.-Kan.), floor manager for the bill carrying atomic energy funds, said he is confident that the Senate will accept a $5,000,000 limit on cancer outlays—$20,000,000 less than the amount earmarked by the House.

Reed pointed out that Chairman David Lilienthal and L. L. Strauss of the commission believe radioactive isotopes may prove an effective weapon in cancer control "but also believe that $5,000,000 is a reasonable sum for these purposes during the next year."

The argument over the amount of atomic funds to be spent on cancer is part of a Senate-House dispute over total funds for the agency.

The House voted $175,000,000 cash and $250,000,000 contract authority, but a Senate Appropriations committee

FLAGS, BUNTING ARE UNFURLED AS CITY PREPARES FOR LEGION

Flag-trimmed streets and bunting-decked store fronts yesterday heralded the forthcoming confluence of an expected 3,500 delegates to the Louisiana American Legion convention scheduled from Thursday to Sunday this week.

Meanwhile, every hotel in Monroe yesterday reported it was booked to capacity with an overflow far beyond anything it could accommodate, and private families were urged by the housing committee to provide as many spare rooms as possible.

Comprising the activities will be the 29th annual convention of the American Legion, the 26th annual Grand Promenade of the Forty and Eight, and the 27th annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Registration for the Legionnaires will begin at convention headquarters at the Frances Hotel at 10 a. m. Thursday; for the Forty and Eight, at 1 p. m. Thursday, and for the Auxiliary, 1 p. m. Thursday at the Hotel Virginia.

One of the highlights of the convention, according to Elliott Thompson, general chairman, will be the appearance of National Commander Paul H. Griffith of Washington, D. C. Although not listed as a speaker, Griffith will arrive Saturday morning, accompanied by his naval liaison officer, Captain Lyle D. Armel, and his son, Paul Griffith, Jr., Thompson said.

Another outstanding feature, Thompson asserted, was guaranteed Saturday with the hiring a nationally

CHILDREN PUNISHED BY BURNING HANDS

DETROIT, July 12.—(AP)—A plea of innocent was entered today for Mrs. Phyllis Paprotske, 27, when she appeared in court on a charge of cruelty to children.

Police charged she punished her sons, Steven, 7, and David, 5, by burning their hands over a stove after they took eight dollars from her purse to buy ice cream.

Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat released Mrs. Paprotske for later trial on $1,000 bond.

Argument Arises Over Selection Of Dr. Stoke As University President

CONTENTS OF TELEGRAM REVEALED BY FAUNTLEROY

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—(AP)—J. Y. Fauntleroy of New Orleans, a member of the board of supervisors of Louisiana State University, asserted today that he would seek removal of J. M. McLemore of Alexandria from chairmanship of the board at its next meeting.

Fauntleroy took issue with McLemore over the board's selection on July 7 of Dr. Harold W. Stoke, president of the University of New Hampshire, as president of L. S. U., to succeed the late Dr. W. B. Hatcher.

The New Orleans member said that he had voted in the July 7 "storm session" in favor of Gen. Troy H. Middleton, comptroller of L. S. U., for the position.

Fauntleroy was one of four board members who opposed Stoke, while 10 others voted for the New Hampshire president.

"May I reveal it is my fixed intention to offer a resolution at the next regular meeting of the board of supervisors that Mr. McLemore be removed from the chairmanship," Fauntleroy said in a statement.

His statement was issued in reply to a statement yesterday by McLemore, in which the latter lauded the qualifications of Dr. Stoke and declared, "in our opinion Dr. Stoke

WITHDRAW BIDDLE FROM U. N. POST

Truman Breaks Deadlock Over Council Appointment; Thorp Substituted

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—President Truman today broke a five-months' deadlock over his nomination of Francis Biddle to be U. S. Representative on the United Nations Economic and Social council by withdrawing the appointment at Biddle's request.

Biddle, former attorney general under the late President Roosevelt, accused Chairman Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee of bottling up the nomination since Jan. 29. Biddle preferred a showdown, he said, but there was no chance of action before Congress adjourns.

He asked that another appointment be made since the council already had held one meeting without American representation in March and another is scheduled for July 19.

The President complied by nominating Willard L. Thorp, of Westport, Conn., now assistant Secretary of State for economic affairs. He will serve in both jobs concurrently without added compensation, if confirmed to the new post.

Thorp, a native of Oswego, N. Y., is 48. He held several high economic posts in the government after serving as an economics teacher at the University of Michigan and Amherst. He was director of the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce for the first three years of the new deal.

Republican opposition to Biddle, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family, is reported to have stemmed from his "new Deal" viewpoint. Some G. O. P. members of Vandenberg's committee expressed the view last May that such a viewpoint should not be carried to the U. N. Council.

Biddle was called before the committee last May when Democratic members said they would demand a showdown with the Republican majority on the appointment. Vandenberg at the time would not say when it was being held up. He said only that the "usual flow of complaints" had been received against the nomination, but none of sufficient force to require calling of witnesses.

Democratic members at that time

WEST MONROE TO CONDUCT ELECTION

Five candidates for mayor of West Monroe are on the home stretch, the election being set for next Tuesday. Candidates are C. C. Bell, Jr., Marlin Hattaway, J. N. (Cuz) Rogers, Jack M. Russell and Charles G. Wall, Jr.

All candidates have put in many hours of strenuous effort and have purchased advertising space in papers and given talks over the radio urging their respective candidacies.

Polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Should no candidate receive a majority of votes cast there will be a runoff held on July 29.

The total registration of voters in Ward Five, in which West Monroe is located, is placed at 3,750.

POLICE IDENTIFY MUTILATED BODY FOUND IN WOODS

LAUREL, Miss., July 12.—(AP)—The mutilated body of a man found in woods near here Thursday night was tentatively identified tonight as that of E. A. Hover, oil field geologist of Artesia, New Mexico, and Laguna Beach, Calif.

A search near the scene where the body was found today revealed a pair of eye glasses and a room key from a Middlesboro, Ky., hotel.

Earlier the name "Hover" had been found printed in the dead man's shirt and a telephone check with the Middlesboro hotel showed that E. A. Hover had been a guest there until the morning of July 5.

Meanwhile a coroner's jury in District Attorney Homer Pittman is holding two men for questioning in the country jail, but no charges have been filed.

CZECHS-RUSSIANS SIGN AGREEMENT

Five-Year Contract To Exchange Soviet Food For Czech Machinery, Goods

PRAGUE, July 12.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia and Russia announced tonight a five-year agreement exchanging Russian food for Czech machinery and manufactured goods.

It was viewed as possibly setting up a basis for an eastern European economy of barter for nations not participating in the Marshall plan.

Informed sources said it seemed likely here that Poland and other eastern European nations which turned their backs on the Paris conference at a nod from Moscow might have been offered similar increased trade pacts to make up for the assistance they had hoped for in the general European recovery plan.

The Slav nations already are bound together by trade alliances but the new Czech-Russian pact called for immediate and vast increase in exchanged goods.

A communique announcing the agreement said that in 1948 Czechoslovakia was to receive from Russia 200,000 tons of wheat, 200,000 tons of fodder and maize, 65,000 tons of potassium and sodium fertilizers, 20,-

SEEK EX-CONVICT FOR ROPE SLAYING

Semi-Nude Body Of Divorcee Found In Country Churchyard In Ohio

MARION, O., July 12.—(AP)—An ex-convict, who has a crippled wife and a four-year-old son, today was charged with slaying a pretty divorcee whose partly nude body was found in a country churchyard.

Edwin D. Young was charged with first-degree murder as police and sheriffs throughout Ohio searched for the 39-year-old truck driver and his battered 1933 Chevrolet coupe.

Prosecutor James E. Reed, of Marion county, filed the charge some 24 hours after Mrs. Zora Gerbes, 25, was found dead with a rope clothesline wrapped three times about her neck in a slip-knot. The line also was wound about her knees, which were drawn up almost to her chin.

Sheriff Leroy Retterer was not certain Young would be found alive.

"I wouldn't be surprised," he remarked, "if we found his body and automobile in a water-filled quarry."

Young did not go home Thursday night or report for work at a trucking company Friday morning.

As the state's law enforcement agencies hunted for Young, Sheriff Retterer disclosed that the man found with the woman's body in the yard of St. Paul's Lutheran church, 5 miles southeast of here, had offered to surrender the night of the slaying.

The crime was discovered by two brothers, Charles Yeager, 20, and Harry, 22, about 2 a. m. Friday when their automobile headlights illuminated a car in the church driveway.

The Yeagers saw Mrs. Gerbes' body lying beside an automobile and took the license number, which later was traced to Young.

The stranger remarked, "there's my license number, what are you going to do about it?"

The brothers said they intended to

PROBE DEATHS IN CAMP BREAK; WARDEN CLAIMED 'HALF DRUNK'

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 12.—(AP)—A Negro convict told a coroner's jury today that Warden W. G. Worthy opened fire with a pistol and yelled to guards "Let 'em have it" as 27 prisoners raced for a high wire fence in an attempted escape yesterday.

Another convict testified the warden was "half drunk" and "wanted to kill me."

Five convicts in the all-Negro state highway road camp near here died instantly in the blast of pistol and shotgun fire. Two others died later in a hospital. Six were wounded.

Warden Worthy and County Chief of Police Russell B. Henderson both denied the warden had been drinking and Worthy testified:

"I did not say 'let 'em have it.' When they ran they (the guards) knew to let 'em have it. Those are my orders."

The investigation, conducted at the prison camp by 80-year-old Coroner J. D. Baldwin and attended by five Negro members of the local chapter of the National Association for the advancement of colored people, adjourned without a verdict.

Baldwin said it would be withheld until after the Glynn superior court grand jury meets here next Wednesday to investigate the shooting.

Willie H. Bell, described by Warden Worthy as the ringleader of the massed break, testified the warden asked him to step away from the group of convicts lined up in the prison yard.

He said he refused "because I knew

Senate Agreement For Passage Made

Members Adjourn After Ten Hours Debate; Eight Amendments Turned Down; Community Property Law Faces Test

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—Republican sponsors failed in an effort to ram the $4,000,000,000 income tax cut bill through at a night Senate session tonight, and final action was put off until Monday.

A vote then—with passage assured—was arranged in an informal gentlemen's agreement between leaders of Democratic and Republican parties.

The GOP leaders once turned down such an agreement, but accepted it later after Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky told them he believed President Truman will veto the measure promptly without waiting the usual ten days.

Barkley, in giving his ideas of what the president will do, shouted that he was "astonished" what some Republicans apparently feared that either Senate Democrats or Mr. Truman "would indulge in some kind of chicanery" to delay adjournment of Congress July 26.

That adjournment goal is bound up in the action on the tax measure. The president, even if he desires, waits ten days—not counting Sundays—between the time he gets the bill and the time he gives it his promised veto. Delay in acting on the bill would cut the time for a vote to override close if the president took the full ten days.

With the informal agreement accepted the Senate recessed at 7:49 p. m. eastern standard time to noon Monday.

The decision came after nearly ten hours of debate during which eight amendments by Senator Morse, Re-

THOS. L. HARDIN SERVICES TODAY

Retired Sicily Island Postmaster Was Catahoula Educator Many Years

SHREVEPORT, July 12.—(Special)—Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church at Sicily Island for Thomas L. Hardin, 70, retired postmaster of that town, who died here Friday.

He was a native of Catahoula parish and served as principal of several schools in that parish. He retired from teaching in 1930 to accept the postmastership at Sicily Island. He retired from this position last Jan. 8.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Florence Meyers Hardin; two sons, Thomas L. Hardin, Jr., of Sicily Island, and Dr. Rollin Hardin of Shreveport; a brother, Dr. John Hardin of Shreveport; four daughters, Mrs. Arnold Rosenzweig of Lake Providence, Mrs. Isadore Rosenzweig of Tallulah, Mrs. E. G. Morehead of Shreveport, and Miss Lorraine Hardin, of Shreveport; and a sister, Mrs. R. N. Vickers of Smackover, Ark.

Hardin was a cousin of the late J. Fair Hardin and Evans Hardin, attorneys of Shreveport and Lake Charles, respectively.

The late Prof. T. R. Hardin, who passed away a number of years ago in Shreveport, where he resided during the latter part of his life, was an uncle of the deceased.

The late Dr. John C. Hardin of Catahoula, who also was an educator in North Louisiana and for many years was superintendent of schools of Catahoula parish, was Hardin's uncle.

NEGRO WOMAN KILLED, 4 HURT IN TRUCK-BUS CRASH NEAR BASTROP

BASTROP, July 12.—(Special)—One Negro woman was killed and four others were injured when a truck crashed into the side of a fishing excursion bus about 10 miles north of Bastrop at 7:45 a. m. today.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Griffen said the driver of the truck, Land Doumas of Hamburg, Ark., had been arrested by state police and was being held in the Morehouse parish jail on a charge of negligent homicide.

Griffen said occupants of the bus driver, Enemal Hawkins, of Bastrop, and several of the passengers indicated that Doumas at the wheel of a Ford pickup truck, speeded from a side gravel road and rammed into the side of the bus, the impact killing Clea Moore of Bastrop.

The party of 12 Negroes was en route to Ervin's lake for a fishing outing, Griffen said.

TWO SHOTS FIRED AT BRICKER BY DISCHARGED CAPITAL COP

Ohio Senator Escapes Uninjured On Capitol Subway Car; Accused Tells Police, "I Did It To Refresh His Memory"

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—Two pistol shots missed Senator Bricker (R.-Ohio) today in a burst of gunfire on Capitol Hill and police arrested a discharged Capitol policeman on charges of assault with intent to kill the Senator.

The accused, William L. Kaiser, calmly and cryptically told police and newspapermen:

"I did it to refresh his memory."

The shooting set the capitol in a turmoil during the midst of an unusual Saturday session of the Senate. It took place in the subway linking the capitol with the Senate office building.

Bricker was carried to safety by the little monorail subway car as it rumbled a bend out of the shooter's range.

The silver-haired 1944 Republican vice presidential candidate and a companion crouched behind one of the car's seats as it slowly got underway.

Bricker, apparently undisturbed, told reporters that Kaiser blamed him for losses in a Building and Loan Association at Columbus about 15 years ago.

Records show that Kaiser was a capitol police appointee of his predecessor, Senator Huffman (D-Ohio). Bricker told a questioner that he had nothing to do with Kaiser losing his job last April.

Kaiser was arrested by metropolitan police several hours after the shooting and many blocks from the capitol, at a Massachusetts Avenue address. Police at precinct No. 1 booked him on charges of assault with intent to kill.

Bricker and two others who were in the line of gunfire at first thought the shots were blanks, but Senate sergeant-at-arms Edward F. McGinnis said after Kaiser's arrest that the gun contained live ammunition.

Bricker said he believed the shots were blanks because he did not hear any bullets strike. Later capitol police found marks in the wall and on a

South Carolina Court Rules Against 'White' Democratic Primary

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 12.—(AP)—South Carolina Negroes won a court victory today in their fight for the right to participate in the state's Democratic primary, limited by party rules since 1944 exclusively to "white Democrats."

U. S. District Judge J. Waties Waring, tall, 66-year-old Charleston-born jurist, held that "Negroes are entitled to be enrolled to vote" in the Democratic primaries. The case was brought by George Elmore, a Columbia Negro, who contended he had been denied enrollment because of his color.

Waring, in another case, turned down the petition of John H. Wrighten, Charleston Negro, for a court order directing his admission to the University of South Carolina law school, but he ruled that Wrighten would be entitled to enter unless by the opening of the next school year the state provides an adequate course in the College for Negroes at Orangeburg.

One other alternative was possible, he said. That would be "that the state furnish no law school education to any persons of either the White or Negro races."

In the argument of the Elmore case early in June attorneys for the Richland county (Columbia) Democratic executive committee and primary managers in one Columbia Democratic club, named as co-defendants, pointed out that in 1944 South Carolina repealed all statutes pertaining to primaries.

In consequence, they contended, the party had become a private organization which was entitled to membership, and not subject to court regulation.

Taking note of this point, Waring

Under the caption, "Tall Stories Make Head Liar Chuckle," "GRIT," (widely circulated weekly newspaper) in connection with the enrollment of the "Liar's Club," of Burlington, Wis., states as follows:

"Dr. F. P. Cerniglia, of Monroe, La., says he was driving toward Texas one afternoon when the sun was making heavy shadows. His car stalled and a motorist offered aid. There was no rope or chain, so the shadow of one auto was tied to the other and a 30-mile tow was thus completed." Now who will be next???

Mrs. Frank Pettit, Jr., of South Second street, Monroe, declares that this is a small world. Why she says it lies in the fact that her daughter, Betty Jane, age 15 years, now summering in Washington, D. C., when at the Washington monument, ran right into Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Black, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, and his wife. The small-sized Monroe group was quite happy to see each other again. Betty Jane, her mother explains, is taking dancing under direction of a prominent instructor, while she visits her aunt in the capital city.

Not that Pythians are allergic to church attendance, but just the same they are being urged to attend the First Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock in a body. Dr. H. H. Baur, chairman of a special committee, says he'll root 'em out this morning and so, his being a persistent somebody, we would advise that they not try to hold out against his powers of persuasion.

At this same service there should be quite a good-sized attendance for Rev. and Mrs. Raynard Arehart, well known Monroe people, now home from Brazil to Monroe just to spend Sunday here, in Mrs. Arehart's old home. They have been engaged in

BRITAIN DOUBTS EGYPT'S HONESTY

Cairo Government Accused Of Attempting To Break Treaty To Grab Sudan

LAKE SUCCESS, July 12.—(AP)—British officials charged today that Egypt was attempting to break a legal treaty in a move to ensure complete dominance over the Sudan.

The officials disclosed this would be the principal argument to the Egyptian demand for United Nations security council action to force "total and immediate" withdrawal of British forces from Egypt and the Sudan.

These sources said Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britain's chief delegate, was prepared to answer the Egyptian complaint with a counter-demand that it be tossed out of the council on the grounds that it is not justified.

The Egyptian complaint, which grew out of failure to revise the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty which expires in 1956, is not expected to be taken up by the security council for at least one and perhaps two weeks because of a heavy crush of work including the Balkan problem, establishment of an international police force, disarmament and control of atomic energy.

The Egyptian appeal filed yesterday with the security council charged that Britain had adopted a policy designed to sever the Sudan from Egypt, to

ARGUMENT LOOMS ON CANCER PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—A congressional argument loomed today over how much the Atomic Energy commission may spend in the battle against cancer.

Senator Reed (R-Kan.), floor manager for the bill carrying atomic energy funds, said he is confident that the Senate will accept a $5,000,000 limit on cancer outlays—$20,000,000 less than the amount earmarked by the House.

Reed pointed out that Chairman David Lilienthal and L. L. Strauss of the commission believe radioactive isotopes may prove an effective weapon in cancer research, but said he felt that $5,000,000 is a reasonable sum for these purposes during the next year.

The argument over the amount of atomic funds to be spent on cancer is a side issue of a Senate-House dispute over total funds for the agency.

The House voted $175,000,000 cash and $250,000,000 contract authority, but a Senate Appropriations committee

FLAGS, BUNTING ARE UNFURLED AS CITY PREPARES FOR LEGION

Flag-trimmed streets and bunting-decked store fronts yesterday heralded the forthcoming confluence of an expected 3,500 delegates to the Louisiana American Legion convention scheduled from Thursday to Sunday this week.

Meanwhile, every hotel in Monroe yesterday reported it was booked to capacity with an overflow far beyond anything it could accommodate, and private families were urged by the housing committee to provide as many spare rooms as possible.

Comprising the activities will be the 29th annual convention of the American Legion, the 26th annual Grand Promenade of the Forty and Eight, and the 27th annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Registration for the Legionnaires will begin at convention headquarters at the Frances Hotel at 1 p. m. Thursday; for the Forty and Eight, at 1 p. m. Thursday, and for the Auxiliary, 1 p. m. Thursday at the Hotel Virginia.

One of the highlights of the convention, according to Elliott Thompson, general chairman, will be the appearance of National Commander Paul H. Griffith of Washington, D. C. Although not listed as a speaker, Griffith will arrive Saturday morning, accompanied by his naval liaison officer, Captain Lyle D. Armel, and his son, Paul Griffith, Jr., Thompson said.

Another outstanding feature, Thompson asserted, was guaranteed Saturday with the hiring a nationally

CHILDREN PUNISHED BY BURNING HANDS

DETROIT, July 12.—(AP)—A plea of innocent was entered today for Mrs. Phyllis Paprotske, 27, when she appeared in court on a charge of cruelty to children.

Police charged she punished her sons, Steven, 7, and David, 5, by burning their hands over a stove after they took eight dollars from her purse to buy ice cream.

Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat released Mrs. Paprotske for later trial on $1,000 bond.

SEEK TO REMOVE BOARD CHAIRMAN IN LSU DISPUTE

Argument Arises Over Selection Of Dr. Stoke As University President

CONTENTS OF TELEGRAM REVEALED BY FAUNTLEROY

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—(AP)—J. Y. Fauntleroy of New Orleans, a member of the board of supervisors of Louisiana State University, asserted today that he would seek removal of J. M. McLemore of Alexandria from chairmanship of the board at its next meeting.

Fauntleroy took issue with McLemore over the board's selection on July 7 of Dr. Harold W. Stoke, president of the University of New Hampshire, as president of L. S. U., to succeed the late Dr. W. B. Hatcher.

The New Orleans member said that he had voted in the July 7 "storm session" in favor of Gen. Troy H. Middleton, comptroller of L. S. U., for the position.

Fauntleroy was one of four board members who opposed Stoke, while 10 others voted for the New Hampshire president.

"May I reveal it is my fixed intention to offer a resolution at the next regular meeting of the board of supervisors that Mr. McLemore be removed from the chairmanship," Fauntleroy said in a statement.

His statement was issued in reply to a statement yesterday by McLemore, in which the latter lauded the qualifications of Dr. Stoke and declared, "in our opinion Dr. Stoke

WITHDRAW BIDDLE FROM U. N. POST

Truman Breaks Deadlock Over Council Appointment; Thorp Substituted

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—President Truman today broke a five-months' deadlock over his nomination of Francis Biddle to be U. S. Representative on the United Nations Economic and Social council by withdrawing the appointment at Biddle's request.

Biddle, former attorney general under the late President Roosevelt, accused Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee of bottling up the nomination since Jan. 29. Biddle preferred a showdown, he said, but there was no chance of action before Congress adjourns.

He asked that another appointment be made since the council already had held one meeting without American representation in March and another is scheduled for July 19.

The President complied by nominating Willard L. Thorp, of Westport, Conn., now assistant Secretary of State for economical affairs. He will serve in both jobs concurrently without added compensation, if confirmed to the new post.

Thorp, a native of Oswego, N. Y., is 48. He held several high economic posts in the government after serving as an economics teacher at the University of Michigan and Amherst. He was director of the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce for the first three years of the new deal.

Republican opposition to Biddle, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family, is reported to have stemmed from his "new Deal" viewpoint. Some G. O. P. members of Vandenberg's committee expressed the view last May that such a viewpoint should not be carried to the U. N. Council.

Biddle was called before the committee last May when Democratic members said they wanted to bring a showdown with the Republican majority on the question. Vandenberg at the time would not say when it was being held. He said only that the "usual flow of complaints" had been received against the nomination, but not of sufficient force to require calling of witnesses.

WEST MONROE TO CONDUCT ELECTION

Five candidates for mayor of West Monroe are on the home stretch, the election being set for next Tuesday. Candidates are C. C. Bell, Jr., Marlin Hattaway, J. N. (Cuz) Rogers, Jack M. Russell and Charles G. Wall, Jr.

All candidates have put in many hours of strenuous effort and have purchased advertising space in papers and time over the radio urging their election.

Polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Should no candidate receive a majority of votes cast there will be a runoff held on July 29.

The total registration of voters in Ward Five, in which West Monroe is located, is placed at 3,750.

POLICE IDENTIFY MUTILATED BODY FOUND IN WOODS

LAUREL, Miss., July 12.—(AP)—The mutilated body of a man found in woods near here Thursday night was tentatively identified tonight as that of E. A. Hover, oil field geologist of Artesia, New Mexico, and Laguna Beach, Calif.

A search near the scene where the body was found today revealed a pair of eye glasses and a room key from a Middlesboro, Ky., hotel.

Earlier the name "Hover" had been found printed in the dead man's shirt and a telephone check with the Middlesboro hotel showed that E. A. Hover had been a guest there until the morning of July 5.

Meanwhile a coroner's jury in District Attorney Homer Fitts' man is holding two men for questioning in the country jail, but no charges have been filed.

Investigating the brutal slaying in which the man's head was crushed with a heavy weapon, adjourned until Wednesday without returning a verdict.

Five-Year Contract To Exchange Soviet Food For Czech Machinery, Goods

PRAGUE, July 12.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia and Russia announced tonight a five-year agreement exchanging Russian food for Czech machinery and manufactured goods.

It was viewed as possibly setting up a basis for an eastern European economy of barter for nations not participating in the Marshall plan.

Informed sources said it seemed likely here that Poland and other eastern European nations which turned their backs on the Paris conference would get similar increased trade pacts to help make up the assistance they had hoped for in the general European recovery plan.

The Slav nations already are bound together by trade alliances but the new Czech-Russian pact called for immediate and vast increase in exchanged goods.

A communique announcing the agreement said that in 1948 Czechoslovakia is to receive from Russia 200,000 tons of wheat, 200,000 tons of fodder and maize, 65,000 tons of potassium and sodium fertilizers, 20,-

PROBE DEATHS IN CAMP BREAK; WARDEN CLAIMED 'HALF DRUNK'

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 12.—(AP)—A Negro convict told a coroner's jury today that Warden W. G. Worthy opened fire with a pistol and yelled to guards "Let 'em have it" as 27 prisoners raced for a high wire fence in an attempted escape yesterday.

Another convict testified the warden was "half drunk" and "wanted to kill me."

Five convicts in the all-Negro state highway road camp near here died instantly in the blast of pistol and shotgun fire. Two others died later in a hospital. Six were wounded.

Warden Worthy and County Chief of Police Russell B. Henderson both denied the warden had been drinking and Worthy testified:

"I did not say 'let 'em have it.' When they ran they (the guards) knew to let 'em have it. Those are my orders."

The investigation, conducted at the prison camp by 80-year-old Coroner J. D. Baldwin and attended by five Negro members of the local chapter of the National Association for the advancement of colored people, adjourned without a verdict.

Baldwin said it would be withheld until after the Glynn superior court grand jury meets here next Wednesday to investigate the shooting.

Willie H. Bell, described by Warden Worthy as the ringleader of the massed break, testified the warden asked him to step away from the group of convicts lined up in the prison yard.

He said he refused "because I knew

Members Adjourn After Ten Hours Debate; Eight Amendments Turned Down; Community Property Law Faces Test

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—Republican sponsors failed in an effort to ram the $4,000,000,000 income tax cut bill through at a night Senate session tonight, and final action is now put off until Monday.

A vote then—with passage assured—was arranged in an informal gentlemen's agreement between leaders of Democratic and Republican parties.

The GOP leaders once turned down such an agreement, but accepted it later after Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky told them he believed President Truman will veto the measure promptly without waiting the usual ten days.

Barkley, in giving his ideas of what the president will do, shouted that he was "astonished" what some Republicans apparently feared that either Senate Democrats or Mr. Truman "would try by some kind of chicanery" to delay adjournment of Congress July 26.

That adjournment goal is bound up in the action on the tax measure. The president, can if he desires, wait ten days—not counting Sundays—between the time he gets the bill and the time he gives it his promised veto. Delay in acting on the bill would cut the time for a vote to override close if the president took full ten days.

With the informal agreement accepted the Senate recessed at 7:49 p. m. eastern standard time to noon Monday.

The decision came after nearly ten hours of debate during which eight amendments by Senator Morse, Re-

2 EX-SERGEANTS NABBED BY FBI IN ATOMIC CASE

Charges Filed Against Pair For Taking Confidential Bomb Documents

MAY GET PRISON TERM, $2,000 FINE, OR BOTH

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—The Department of Justice announced today the arrest and formal charging of two former army sergeants in connection with the disappearance of atomic bomb documents from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic testing station.

The men, arrested by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, were identified as:

Alexander von der Luft, arrested at his home at 418 Serpentine drive, Mt. Lebanon, Pennsylvania.

Ernest D. Wallis, of 151 West Burton Place, Chicago, arrested in Chicago where his studio, known as the Paul Stone Raymore Photography Studio, is located at 168 North Michigan avenue.

SEEK EX-CONVICT FOR ROPE SLAYING

Semi-Nude Body Of Divorcee Found In Country Churchyard In Ohio

MARION, O., July 12.—(AP)—An ex-convict, who has a crippled wife and a four-year-old son, today was charged with slaying a pretty divorcee whose partly nude body was found in a country churchyard.

Edwin D. Young was charged with first-degree murder as police and sheriffs throughout Ohio searched for the 39-year-old truck driver and his battered 1933 Chevrolet coupe.

Prosecutor James E. Reed, of Marion county, filed the charge some 24 hours after Mrs. Zora Gerbes, 25, was found dead with a rope clothesline wrapped thrice about her neck. She was on her knees, with her dress drawn up almost to her chin.

The line also was wound about her knees, with her dress drawn up almost to her chin.

Sheriff Leroy Retterer was not certain Young would be found alive.

"I wouldn't be surprised," he remarked, "if we found his body and automobile in a water-filled quarry."

Young did not go home Thursday night or report for work at a trucking company Friday morning.

As the state's law enforcement agencies hunted for Young, Sheriff Retterer disclosed that the man found with the woman's body in the yard of St. Paul's Lutheran church, 5 miles southeast of Marion, had offered to surrender the night of the slaying.

The crime was discovered by two brothers, Charles Yeager, 20, and Harry, 22, about 2 a. m. Friday when they drove into the church driveway.

The Yeagers saw Mrs. Gerbes' body lying beside an automobile and took the license number, which later was traced to Young.

The stranger remarked, "there's my license number, what are you going to do about it?"

The brothers said they intended to

THOS. L. HARDIN SERVICES TODAY

Retired Sicily Island Postmaster Was Catahoula Educator Many Years

SHREVEPORT, July 12.—(Special)—Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church at Sicily Island for Thomas L. Hardin, 70, retired postmaster of that town, who died here Friday.

He was a native of Catahoula parish and served as principal of several schools in that parish. He retired from teaching in 1930 to accept the postmastership at Sicily Island. He retired from this position last Jan. 8.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Florence Meyers Hardin; two sons, Thomas L. Hardin, Jr., of Sicily Island, and Dr. Rollin Hardin of Shreveport; a brother, Dr. John Hardin of Shreveport; four daughters, Mrs. R. N. Vickers of Smackover, Ark., Mrs. Arnold Rosenzweig of Lake Providence, Mrs. Isadore Rosenzweig of Tallulah, Mrs. E. G. Morehead of Shreveport, and Miss Lorraine Hardin, of Shreveport; and a sister, Mrs. J. H. Green of Shreveport.

Hardin was a cousin of the late J. Fair Hardin and Evans Hardin, attorneys of Shreveport and Lake Charles, respectively.

The late Prof. T. R. Hardin, who passed away a number of years ago in Shreveport, where he resided during the latter part of his life, was an uncle of the deceased.

The late Dr. John C. Hardin of Catahoula, who also was an educator in North Louisiana and for many years was superintendent of schools of Catahoula parish, was Hardin's father.

NEGRO WOMAN KILLED, 4 HURT IN TRUCK-BUS CRASH NEAR BASTROP

BASTROP, July 12.—(Special)—One Negro woman was killed and four others were injured when a truck crashed into the side of a fishing excursion bus at about 10 miles south of Bastrop at 7:45 a. m. today.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Griffen said the driver of the truck, Land Doumas of Hamburg, Ark., had been arrested by state police and was being held in the Morehouse parish jail on a charge of negligent homicide.

Griffen said accounts of the bus driver, Enemal Hawkins, of Bastrop, and several of the passengers indicated that Doumas at the wheel of a Ford pickup truck, speeded from a graveled side road and rammed into the bus, the impact killing Clea Moore of Bastrop.

The party of 12 Negroes was en route to Ervin's lake for a fishing outing, Griffen said.

can officials privately emphasizing what Secretary Marshall is reported to have told the Senate Foreign Relations committee's secret session yesterday:

As a matter of policy the United States does not yet admit a split Europe, is working with a very fluid situation in relation to Russia at the moment and has a wait and see attitude toward the Paris conference and the whole European recovery picture.

However, several other points describing state department view toward the current critical issues can be added on excellent authority:

1. The American government is determined to support to the limit any reasonable plan for European recovery worked out at Paris and no amount of Russian opposition will change this. Russia no longer has the veto she once had by virtue of an Anglo-American conviction that great power unity was more important than anything else.

2. The American government does not now desire to force a showdown with Russia all along the line of political and economic relations and in the United Nations—where, of course, Russia's veto is still good. But it will meet any challenge the Soviets force. Thus in Germany it is pressing economic revival jointly with the British and in spite of major Soviet disagreements on this point.

3. There are some Russo-American issues the American government will press in all probability. Among them are political conditions in Hungary and perhaps throughout the Balkans due to Russian domination. This probably will be one of the great controversies of the United Nations Assembly meeting at New York in September.

4. The United States government is unwilling at this time to close any avenue of cooperation between Eastern and Western Europe. It does not recognize fixed Eastern and Western blocs. If the Eastern countries can figure out some way to cooperate they may yet benefit to the extent of any contributions they can make to overall European trade and economic revival.

5. The great test which is involved in the present struggle over Europe is a test (as seen here) between the total political and economic resources of the United States and those of Russia, American capitalism and democracy against Soviet Communism and dictatorship. This test will go on for many years and European economic recovery is one phase of it in which the states are very high.

Against the background of these policy views state department officials studied mounting reports from Eastern Europe today that powerful forces are working below the surface there to overcome the effect of the Kremlin's edict that barred eight Russian satellite governments from attendance at Paris.

In Moscow itself two writers asserted in Pravda, Communist party paper, that "foreign credits are required" to fulfill planned economic developments in all countries under Russia's thumb. They implied that Russia could not furnish the volume of credits needed, and that American could, but said the would-be borrowers would prefer to deal directly with America rather than through the Paris conference countries.

This was more or less in line with sentiments expressed by various spokesmen in such satellite capitals as Helsinki and Warsaw where willingness was expressed on the part of the Finns, Poles and others to cooperate in a general way with European recovery efforts even though not represented at Paris.

Behind all these offers of cooperation, it is said here, is the fact that only out of American industrial production can the countries of Eastern Europe, like those of the west, obtain the help they need to recover.

The United States probably would be willing under some future arrangement to supply this help, but emphatically not on any terms laid down by Russia or in a manner to tighten Russian control over its bloc.

'BUGSY'S' NIGHT CLUB SOLD IN LAS VEGAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 12. —(AP)— Sanford D. Adler, Las Vegas and Los Angeles business man, said today he had purchased the gaudy Flamingo night club, hotel and gambling casino here, for which Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, slain racketeer, was front man and part owner.

Adler, who owns the Rosslyn and Normandie hotels in Los Angeles, the Del Mar at Del Mar, Calif., and the El Rancho Vegas here, said the purchase price was $3,000,000 and that he would take over the Flamingo's operation next Wednesday. The Flamingo, one of the most ornate of Las Vegas' many casinos and hostelries, reportedly cost between $5,500,000 and $6,000,000 to build.

Adler said he hoped within a few weeks to take a number of Las Vegas' casino operators and other businessmen into partnership in the Flamingo enterprise. The Flamingo reportedly had been losing money heavily for Siegel and his associates.

Adler made his purchase, he announced, from the Nevada Projects Corp., in which Siegel held 33 1/3 per cent of the stock. Siegel, former public enemy, was killed June 20 by a rifle fusillade through the window of a Beverly Hills residence.

was the best qualified young educator available."

Fauntleroy also made public a copy of a night letter, dated July 10, which he sent to Dr. Stoke and to which, he said, Dr. Stoke had not replied.

In the night letter Fauntleroy questioned validity of the action taken at the meeting at which Dr. Stoke was selected to head L. S. U.; and advised Dr. Stoke "that you do not sever your connections with the University of New Hampshire until you are satisfied beyond reasonable doubt the assurances you have received and rely on are fully warranted."

Meantime, Dr. Stoke has announced his formal acceptance of the position at Louisiana State.

In his night letter Fauntleroy said:

"Because of my serious illness in the latter part of May, I was prevented from having the pleasure of meeting you on your visit of May 31 to the L. S. U. campus when you met eleven members of the L. S. U. board of supervisors. As you know the board is constituted of fourteen members and a fifteenth vote is lodged in the Governor of Louisiana, should he wish to exercise it.

"It was my understanding appropriate authority would be afforded me to make your acquaintance in event you received a favorable vote from the president board committee, composed of five persons (which interviewed prospects).

"But at last Saturday's board gathering and Monday's gathering of this week, to my surprise, I discovered that a majority of the board had determined to master an extremely high unruly horse and was booted and spurred to effect its purpose, to-wit: your selection or election.

"As a board member my view is I should have been extended the privilege of meeting you for a frank, clear exchange of views. But understand that at Monday's meeting attended by all members of the board, four members thereof, of whom I was one, advocated and voted for the election of General Troy H. Middleton, comptroller, for the presidency in preference to yourself. Also that the result was had in a stormy session from Which Mrs. Frances P. Mims, the elected board secretary, was excluded. Because of this and other action there is a question in my mind of the validity of the meeting."

"Also," Fauntleroy told Stoke, "please understand in sending you this telegram, there is no intention on my part to embarrass you in the slightest degree, and that the frankness I am indulging is solely because I want to be of help in enabling you to grasp clearly a situation I doubt any nonresident educator no matter how able, can obtain in a brief day or two visit."

ain and France after Russia declined to have anything to do with the Marshall plan, enunciated by the United States secretary of state at Harvard university June 5.

The plan, briefly, envisions American aid to Europe after the nations of Europe have decided how far they can help themselves and just what help they will need from the United States.

Soviet Russia charged that this would mean interference in the independence of the European countries and she held aloof with eight neighbors. However, the red hammer and sickle flag of the Soviet and the banners of the absent countries flew in the conference hall with those of the delegates present. Observers saw this as emphasis on the conference feeling that the door always would be open to those desiring to cooperate.

Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, told the delegates in his welcoming speech that it was not the fault of anyone present that all European nations were not represented.

Then he said:

"The whole of Europe is not here. But those who are present have the right to speak in her name and act for her. Reinforcements will come, I am sure of it, when our loyal work will have proved to all what was the path of genuine independence."

Bevin said:

"It is a matter of regret that certain countries in eastern Europe have not been able to attend this conference, and if one follows the news and views expressed I am sure they regret it as much as we regret their absence.

"We fully understand, and we express our sympathy. But I think that I voice the general sentiment of all the countries, not only in this conference but outside Europe, when I say that I think it is their wish, as certainly it is ours, that the door shall remain open to all those of good will who want to contribute to the healthy life of Europe."

Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza of Italy said the conference was assembling on the eve of a "transformation of the old world."

"We shall achieve it," Sforza said, "conscious that our reconstruction will keep all the doors wide open to the confident collaboration of eastern Europe. Fear and suspicion still divides the minds of men. This conference must destroy these ills."

There has been considerable speculation how the conference would fit with the United Nations but Bevin made the sole reference to the U. N. He said that the business of the conference was not to set up a permanent organization rivalling the U. N. but to create machinery to grapple with this special problem.

He said:

"Our loyalty to the United Nations remains as it always has, complete and firm, and we are anxious to work in cooperation to the fullest possible extent with the appropriate organs of the United Nations; but I repeat again that the prime purpose of our action was to respond to the United States propoal."

Answering the charge from the east that the independence of countries would be threatened, Bevin said that was "just nonsense."

"For a country like ours and France to be accused of interfering with the sovereignty of small nations after the suffering that we have incurred in their defense in two world wars, is a charge which, history itself but our actions prove, I think, to be just nonsense."

Bidault asserted that the aim of the conference was "simply to establish an organization which can tally the balance sheet of Europe's resources and needs" and warned this must be done quickly since many nations—France is one of them—were nearing the end of their assets.

He stressed that the nations must voluntarily organize their efforts to reduce the necessary American aid to a minimum.

Referring to assertions from eastern nations that Germany might benefit from the reconstruction, Bidault said: "It has been alleged that the unavowed aim of our meeting is to rebuild Germany first. The resources of Germany ought to be utilized for Europe, Germany included. I want to emphasize in the name of the French delegation that any other interpretation is improper."

British-French invitations went to 22 nations after Russia refused to join in sponsoring the parley. Those present at the first session today were: Austria, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Eire, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Italy, Portugal, Greece, Turkey and the sponsoring powers.

Czechoslovakia accepted but reversed that decision later on receipt of a telephone call from Czech Premier Klement Gottwald in Moscow, where he had gone after his government accepted the bid. Others refusing to come to the conference were: Poland, Yugolavia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Finland. Franco Spain was not invited.

but a national problem. The American people cannot allow any part of the country to go to ruin, as has been happening; we must go right back to the tributaries and catch the rain as it falls."

A Senate appropriations subcommittee, in session all week on flood control legislation, was reported to be "generally sympathetic" to some restoration of flood control appropriations which have been sharply trimmed by the House.

It was at these sessions, where several midwestern governors have entered pleas for a permanent program of control, that the $2,000,000,000 figure gained currency.

Some witnesses estimated that a concerted attack on the flood problem would mean the spending of $200,000,000 a year for at least ten years.

Senator Young, Democrat, North Dakota, told the subcommittee today that he favored the full army engineers' corps program for the Missouri river basin, including restoration of the 50 per cent slash made by the House in the $13,000,000 budget for the Garrison dam and reservoir in his state.

Floods in the lower Missouri river valley have caused $500,000,000 damage, by agriculture department estimate in recent weeks, he reported.

can officials privately emphasizing what Secretary Marshall is reported to have told the Senate Foreign Relations committee's secret session yesterday:

As a matter of policy the United States does not yet admit a split Europe, is working with a very fluid situation in relation to Russia at the moment and has a wait and see attitude toward the Paris conference and the whole European recovery picture.

However, several other points describing state department view toward the current critical issues can be added on excellent authority:

1. The American government is determined to support to the limit any reasonable plan for European recovery worked out at Paris and no amount of Russian opposition will change this. Russia no longer has the veto she once had by virtue of an Anglo-American conviction that great power unity was more important than anything else.

2. The American government does not now desire to force a showdown with Russia all along the line of political and economic relations and in the United Nations—where, of course, Russia's veto is still good. But it will meet any challenge the Soviets force. Thus in Germany it is pressing economic revival jointly with the British and in spite of major Soviet disagreements on this point.

3. There are some Russo-American issues the American government will press in all probability. Among them are political conditions in Hungary and perhaps throughout the Balkans due to Russian domination. This probably will be one of the great controversies of the United Nations Assembly meeting at New York in September.

4. The United States government is unwilling at this time to close any avenue of cooperation between Eastern and Western Europe. It does not recognize fixed Eastern and Western blocs. If the Eastern countries can figure out some way to cooperate they may yet benefit to the extent of any contributions they can make to overall European trade and economic revival.

5. The great test which is involved in the present struggle over Europe is a test (as seen here) between the total political and economic resources of the United States and those of Russia, American capitalism and democracy against Soviet Communism and dictatorship. This test will go on for many years and European economic recovery is one phase of it in which the states are very high.

Against the background of these policy views state department officials studied mounting reports from Eastern Europe today that powerful forces are working below the surface there to overcome the effect of the Kremlin's edict that barred eight Russian satellite governments from attendance at Paris.

In Moscow itself two writers asserted in Pravda, Communist party paper, that "foreign credits are required" to fulfill planned economic developments in all countries under Russia's thumb. They implied that Russia could not furnish the volume of credits needed, and that American could, but said the would-be borrowers would prefer to deal directly with America rather than through the Paris conference countries.

This was more or less in line with sentiments expressed by various spokesmen in such satellite capitals as Helsinki and Warsaw where willingness was expressed on the part of the Finns, Poles and others to cooperate in a general way with European recovery efforts even though not represented at Paris.

Behind all these offers of cooperation, it is said here, is the fact that only out of American industrial production can the countries of Eastern Europe, like those of the west, obtain the help they need to recover.

The United States probably would be willing under some future arrangement to supply this help, but emphatically not on any terms laid down by Russia or in a manner to tighten Russian control over its bloc.

'BUGSY'S' NIGHT CLUB SOLD IN LAS VEGAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 12. —(AP)— Sanford D. Adler, Las Vegas and Los Angeles business man, said today he had purchased the gaudy Flamingo night club, hotel and gambling casino here, for which Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, slain racketeer, was front man and part owner.

Adler, who owns the Rosslyn and Normandie hotels in Los Angeles, the Del Mar at Del Mar, Calif., and the El Rancho Vegas here, said the purchase price was $3,000,000 and that he would take over the Flamingo's operation next Wednesday. The Flamingo, one of the most ornate of Las Vegas' many casinos and hostelries, reportedly cost between $5,500,000 and $6,000,000 to build.

Adler said he hoped within a few weeks to take a number of Las Vegas' casino operators and other businessmen into partnership in the Flamingo enterprise. The Flamingo reportedly had been losing money heavily for Siegel and his associates.

Adler made his purchase, he announced, from the Nevada Projects Corp., in which Siegel held 33 1/3 per cent of the stock. Siegel, former public enemy, was killed June 20 by a rifle fusillade through the window of a Beverly Hills residence.

was the best qualified young educator available."

Fauntleroy also made public a copy of a night letter, dated July 10, which he sent to Dr. Stoke and to which, he said, Dr. Stoke had not replied.

In the night letter Fauntleroy questioned validity of the action taken at the meeting at which Dr. Stoke was selected to head L. S. U.; and advised Dr. Stoke "that you do not sever your connections with the University of New Hampshire until you are satisfied beyond reasonable doubt the assurances you have received and rely on are fully warranted."

Meantime, Dr. Stoke has announced his formal acceptance of the position at Louisiana State.

In his night letter Fauntleroy said:

"Because of my serious illness in the latter part of May, I was prevented from having the pleasure of meeting you on your visit of May 31 to the L. S. U. campus when you met eleven members of the L. S. U. board of supervisors. As you know the board is constituted of fourteen members and a fifteenth vote is lodged in the Governor of Louisiana, should he wish to exercise it.

"It was my understanding appropriate authority would be afforded me to make your acquaintance in event you received a favorable vote from the president board committee, composed of five persons (which interviewed prospects).

"But at last Saturday's board gathering and Monday's gathering of this week, to my surprise, I discovered that a majority of the board had determined to master an extremely high unruly horse and was booted and spurred to effect its purpose, to-wit: your selection or election.

"As a board member my view is I should have been extended the privilege of meeting you for a frank, clear exchange of views. But understand that at Monday's meeting attended by all members of the board, four members thereof, of whom I was one, advocated and voted for the election of General Troy H. Middleton, comptroller, for the presidency in preference to yourself. Also that the result was had in a stormy session from Which Mrs. Frances P. Mims, the elected board secretary, was excluded. Because of this and other action there is a question in my mind of the validity of the meeting."

"Also," Fauntleroy told Stoke, "please understand in sending you this telegram, there is no intention on my part to embarrass you in the slightest degree, and that the frankness I am indulging is solely because I want to be of help in enabling you to grasp clearly a situation I doubt any nonresident educator no matter how able, can obtain in a brief day or two visit."

ain and France after Russia declined to have anything to do with the Marshall plan, enunciated by the United States secretary of state at Harvard university June 5.

The plan, briefly, envisions American aid to Europe after the nations of Europe have decided how far they can help themselves and just what help they will need from the United States.

Soviet Russia charged that this would mean interference in the independence of the European countries and she held aloof with eight neighbors. However, the red hammer and sickle flag of the Soviet and the banners of the absent countries flew in the conference hall with those of the delegates present. Observers saw this as emphasis on the conference feeling that the door always would be open to those desiring to cooperate.

Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, told the delegates in his welcoming speech that it was not the fault of anyone present that all European nations were not represented.

Then he said:

"The whole of Europe is not here. But those who are present have the right to speak in her name and act for her. Reinforcements will come, I am sure of it, when our loyal work will have proved to all what was the path of genuine independence."

Bevin said:

"It is a matter of regret that certain countries in eastern Europe have not been able to attend this conference, and if one follows the news and views expressed I am sure they regret it as much as we regret their absence.

"We fully understand, and we express our sympathy. But I think that I voice the general sentiment of all the countries, not only in this conference but outside Europe, when I say that I think it is their wish, as certainly it is ours, that the door shall remain open to all those of good will who want to contribute to the healthy life of Europe."

Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza of Italy said the conference was assembling on the eve of a "transformation of the old world."

"We shall achieve it," Sforza said, "conscious that our reconstruction will keep all the doors wide open to the confident collaboration of eastern Europe. Fear and suspicion still divides the minds of men. This conference must destroy these ills."

He stressed that the nations must voluntarily organize their efforts to reduce the necessary American aid to a minimum.

AREHARTS BACK FROM BRAZIL

Monroe Mission Workers Fly Home For Week-End Visit

An enthusiastic reception will be accorded today to Rev. and Mrs. E. Raynard Arehart, and family, Presbyterian missionaries, who last night arrived in Monroe after having completed 14 years of active and result-producing service in Brazil. Mrs. Arehart is the former Miss Frances Butler of Monroe, daughter of the late J. B. Butler, and Mrs. Butler. Her parents were for years outstanding religious leaders in the Twin Cities.

The Areharts, parents of three children, are starting their sabbatical year in the United States. They have been stationed at Beco de Fabrica, Recife, Pernambuco, Brazil.

They flew over the Pan-American Airlines from Belem, Para, at the mouth of the Amazon river to Miami, Florida, and reached Monroe Saturday night.

The Areharts stay in Monroe will be only short as they are to proceed Monday night to Nashville, Tenn., and later will go to Richmond, Va., for an extended time.

Sunday will be a busy day for the visitors for they will attend the morning service at the First Presbyterian Church here, where Mrs. Arehart was a long-time member and church leader. This afternoon from 3 to 5 Mrs. V. S. Garnett will serve as hostess at her home, 1606 North Second street, honoring the distinguished guests.

At the evening service at the First Christian Church tonight, Rev. Arehart will preach and it will be a union service for members of the First Presbyterian church and the First Christian audience. It is expected that there will be a large number attending, as Reverend Arehart is highly popular here and he is expected to relate many of his experiences in Brazil in connection with his sermon.

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—(AP)—As an investment, the cartoon feature picture is getting to be like a toll bridge—you are sure to get your money out of it if you wait long enough. That can be gathered from the words of Walt Disney.

The economics of the movie industry are enough to make a business administration professor turn in his cap and gown. And trying to figure out the wherefores of cartoon profit-making might cause him to blow his top. For instance, it might be 10 years from the moment an idea pops into Walt's head until the time the finished picture shows a profit.

As the cartoon wizard pointed out in his comfortable but inauspicious office, an ordinary movie can show a profit within a year of its conception. Four months of shooting, two of editing printing and a half-year in the theaters can put a film in the black.

"Now we have to depend on a reissue for a profit from cartoons," said Disney. The timetable of a feature reads something like this: Preparation—one and a half years; drawing—two years; release—three years. Then it is withdrawn for two years and reissued. By that time it starts paying off.

Disney will throw his whole staff into work on "Alice in Wonderland," his first post-war superspecial, and even so, production will require two years, maybe more. The picture's cost, now estimated at $3,500,000, may be a long time a-coming back.

"But all we have to do is wait long enough," commented Walt, an intense man with undulating eyebrows.

"Fortunately, our pictures do not age. We can reissue them indefinitely because every few years a new audience comes along."

Disney's business flourishes in times when moviegoers are discriminating and are concerned more with quality entertainment than the sure-fire formula movies that have crowded the screens in recent years. Not that he's wishing for a theater slump, mind you, but he isn't afraid of it.

"I don't mean that everybody likes cartoons," he smiled. "Some people can't stand them.

"There are times when I can't stand them myself!"

PARDON FOR LOVER SOUGHT BY WOMAN

Middle-Aged Californian Seeks Parole For Imprisoned Wife-Slayer

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 12.—(AP)—Love that came too late to a middle-aged California woman and an imprisoned Memphis wife-slayer is still too early for the Tennessee State Pardon and Paroles Board.

Parole Board Secretary R. D. Greenlaw said yesterday that the 47-year-old woman had asked that her childhood sweetheart be paroled to her.

"I have known him since he was 16 and I was 13," Greenlaw quoted the woman as having written. "I would no doubt have married him but another man spoke faster."

She married the fast-talking suitor and is now a widow. Her childhood sweetheart also married, and in 1939 he was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary for killing his wife.

Greenlaw said the prisoner's case was reviewed about a year ago and that he would not be eligible for release until Nov. 17, 1952. The parole secretary refused to disclose the name of either person, but said the man is now nearly 50 years old.

The woman wrote that she had $10,000 from a GI insurance policy and $18,000 from other insurance, Greenlaw said, as well as two homes free of debt and an income from rental of her property.

"I would take care of him and be a good companion to him if he were paroled to me," she said.

THE FARLEY STORY

Jim Farley's series of articles on "Why I Broke With Roosevelt" discloses a side of the late president's character which was little understood except by those closely associated with him.

In his capacity as Democratic national chairman, and also as a member of the cabinet, Farley for a number of years was intimately associated with Roosevelt, was in fact his first political sponsor, and is credited with having brought about his nomination in 1932.

Several factors entered into the break between the two, but it was the question of a third term upon which the final rupture came. Farley was opposed to setting such precedent, as were many others high in party councils. But Roosevelt, after giving Farley his word he would not be a candidate, changed his mind and, in a convention in which 90 per cent of the delegates were federal jobholders, was easily renominated.

Farley gives it as his studied opinion the president could not bear to see himself supplanted in the office. He says Roosevelt was suspicious of every man in the party who was mentioned as a successor. He broke with Garner, ridiculed Wallace and McNutt, and when a boomlet was started to nominate Farley their friendship ended.

According to Farley, Roosevelt took the position there was no one in either party capable of succeeding him.

Farley is contributing important chapters to the political history of the nation, making clear many things little understood previously concerning a period when the nation was all but turned over to a small band of zealots.

FLYING SAUCERS

The flying saucers are ranging far and wide. Two boys see one or a dozen here, a flier sees one there, a flock of them are seen shooting over a point far distant from any at which they were previously reported.

The strange object, as these flying saucers are invariably described, always resembles an aluminum disc and shoots through the sky at approximately 1,200 miles an hour, at the same general level. Formations of them seem to reflect the rays of the sun.

With no thought of discrediting the reports of any of the individuals in many states who assert they saw this aerial phenomenon, the fact remains descriptions given conform in almost every detail to the one originally given by a West Coast aviator. There is too much similarity to be convincing.

The only variation from the general description was right here in Monroe where three persons reported last week they had sighted a square luminous body, "about the size of the moon," that suddenly broke up into four small segments and vanished.

Anyone who has seen jet airplanes flying over cities at comparatively low altitudes at speeds of 500 or 600 miles an hour knows how difficult it would be to see an object traveling at 1,200 miles an hour. Jet planes sound as if they are diving into a street or a building, but before the average spectator can look for them they have disappeared.

There is no convincing explanation of these flying saucers, but one will come in time. No nation could have developed such planes without this country's armed services learning about them. Nor could they have been of such numbers and range as indicated by reports of those who report having seen them.

If it were possible to build such planes, this nation would have them. Until there is a report of a flying saucer having been wrecked in a cow pasture, there is no occasion for alarm.

END THE UNCERTAINTY

The United States Supreme Court has decided that California does not own the oil-bearing lands under the ocean along her coast. According to Justice Black's opinion, the federal government has "paramount rights in and power over" the marginal belt between low water and the three-mile limit, including "full dominion over the resources of the soil under that water area, including oil."

That settles one important question, at least until there is a different Supreme Court. But it raises another of equal or greater weight. Attorney General Poulson of California believes that the federal government can now interpret the decision to claim California ports and harbors producing millions of dollars in municipal revenues. If so, it would seem that similar claims can be made in other states.

Possibly the federal government will not make such claims. But the fact that it might not only clouds the titles to property of almost incalculable worth but could have the effect of discouraging investments in improving land the states have considered to be under their control. This uncertainty should be ended as quickly as possible.

It can be ended by legislation clearing title to under-water lands to the states. The last Congress passed such a bill but President Truman—you guessed it!—vetoed it. His announced reason for the action was the fact that the California action was before the courts.

Now that the Supreme Court has disposed of that issue, there seems to be no reason why a bill to confirm the states in the rights they have traditionally exercised should not be passed and then repassed over Truman's inevitable veto.

Recent commencement orator put great emphasis on "the sun sinks in the golden west." Brother, when it quits doing that, we're all sunk.

A few government employees suspected of disloyalty are being fired. Has Uncle Sam decided to let Americans run America?

Jimmie Fidler
IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—DEAR STAFF: I'm worried about you—about your social careers, I mean. For the past several months I've tried to draw you out on politics, but s'help me, despite all my sleuthing, I haven't been able to elicit from one of you a definite declaration of partisanship.

Don't you realize that here in modern Hollywood being "nothing but a nothing" is the absolute nadir of social disgrace? Who are you going to play around with? Do you think the leftists will want any part of you if you persist in such commonsense mugnumpism? Do you think the rightists care to associate with anyone who persists in walking down the middle of the road?

No kiddies, it won't work here. Perhaps in some sane community like Keokuk or Urbana, Omaha or Bangor, a man can still keep an open mind and be socially acceptable. But not in Hollywood, where drama fills the air we breathe and even the wildest statements are never qualified. To be a neutral in our current political squabbles here, puts you in the same position that a nice little boy would find himself in if he refused to be either Indian or Cowboy and stood on the sidelines while the other kids whooped it up.

So choose your side. Do what you want to pal around with Katie Hepburn, John Garfield, Melvyn Douglas and Edward G. Robinson, daming the reactionaries' eyes—or do you prefer to join Ginger Rogers, Bob Taylor and Adolphe Monjou in flinging harpoons at the liberals? Of course, once you've joined up, you won't use such innocuous terms as those I've chosen. A liberal, to a rightist, is a communist, and a rightist, to a liberal, is a fascist. What'll you have—since you must have chosen?

JIMMIE FIDLER

DEAR BOSS: If you were better posted on literature, you'd realize that we're not faced by such a mandatory choice. We can always follow the example of Ferdinand the Bull and just sit under a tree and smell the flowers.

In the meantime, while we're making up our minds, how about taking a whiff of these hand-picked daisies we gathered today:

According to Producer Sam Coslow, the real reason he nixed Laraine Day for his picture, "Champagne For Everybody," is because she demanded too many "rights." Before she would put her name on the dotted line, Miss Day insisted that she be allowed to make any cuts in the picture that she deemed advisable—and even wanted the power to bar anyone she wished from the set. That's getting pretty high and mighty even for Hollywood, according to Producer Coslow . . . Friends of the Marc Platts predict a separation now that they've lost their expected baby . . . The Nicolas Fulliette who has been introducing the late Bugsy Siegel's girl friend, Virginia Hill, to Paris society, is the same Frenchman who wooed and almost wed Gloria Jean recently. He's bubbling over with cash from the Mumm's champagne fortune.

Despite the fact the Errol Flynn's book wasn't any raving success, he's starting another. It's fiction, set in the 1890's—and has a sea background, natch. Incidentally, the foot he broke playing tennis in Jamaica last year is still giving Errol a lot of pain . . . Paul Draper is teaching Jimmy Cagney the two Irish jig routines he'll do in "The Stray Lamb" . . . RKO had to call in the army to coach extras on how to handle guns, after two minor accidents on the "Return of The Badman" set. All 280 extras in the picture carry guns, and they're getting instructions on safe handling from army directives and training manuals . . . Shirley Temple is taking vocal lessons to develop that childish treble into poised soprano. She's dying to make a musical . . . Needless to say, Maria Montez is her own best press agent, but husband Jean Pierre Aumont is running a close second. When he went to Europe recently, Aumont took along 500 autographed stills from Maria's new movie, and this week he cabled for 1,000 more.

Imagine a gal breaking into movies because she wears a brace on her teeth. It happened to U. C. L. A. Student Rhonda Williams. Warner Bros. scoured three colleges to find a girl who wore braces but was pretty anyhoo. She'll be in "Mary Hagen" . . . Jose Iturbi is giving a young British girl some long-distance coaching in piano technique. He heard her play in London while he was on tour. Now she sends recordings to him in Hollywood and he criticizes them and sends them back . . . A fan magazine interviewer asked Humphrey Bogart about the beard he's growing for "The Treasure of Sierra Madre." "Tell me," asked the writer, "doesn't your beard itch?" "As a matter of fact, it does," replied Bogey. "But," he added with a leer, "that's Baby's problem." Which reminds us, James, our five o'clock shadow is beginning to show. G'night.

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, — American railroads are about to get one of the fastest, biggest trainloads of power in their history. It will be made legal if Congress passes the so-called Reed-Bulwinkle bill which would give the railroads almost absolute authority to enter into combinations to fix their own rates, determine what part of the rate each carrier shall receive, what time the trains run, over what routes they operate, what claims they pay, what equipment shall be built and how it shall be used—practically free from any government regulation in the public interest.

Instead of having to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of the billion-dollar-a-year rate increase the railroads are now seeking, they would simply have to file notice of what their proposed new rates are. If the I. C. C. did not find within 60 days that the proposed schedules were not in conformity with transportation policy as set forth in the Interstate Commerce Act, the rates would go into effect automatically and there would be little that the government could do to change the situation.

All this would be done under an innocent-looking amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act. It was sponsored originally two years ago by Democratic Congressman Alfred L. Bulwinkle of North Carolina. This year Republican Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas took it up. It has passed the Senate, 60 to 27. It passed the Democratic House last year 277 to 45 and will probably go B-lining through this year's Republican House by an even bigger majority.

Time Element To Consider

The only possibility of flagging this legislative express lies with Father Time himself. Congress is now highballing down the track, trying to make adjournment on schedule July 26. The House Interstate Commerce Commission is just concluding hearings on the Reed-Bulwinkle bill. The House can't vote on the measure until testimony of these hearings is printed. That may take a week. There may be a delay of a few days while other bills on the crowded calendar are handled.

If Congress doesn't complete action before July 17, the president can kill the bill by a pocket veto—refusing to sign it before Congress adjourns. That's the only chance.

The railroads have put this bill over on Congress with one of the most high-pressured lobbying campaigns ever seen in Washington. This lobbying was not done by railroad employes directly. It was done by bringing to Washington important people from congressmen's home towns. These people had been thoroughly sold on the railroads' desire for passage of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

In addition the railroads had nearly 1,000 local Chambers of Commerce, business organizations, farm organizations, shippers' organizations and even state and local government officials file petitions with Congress, favoring the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

Attorney-General's Power Limited

Yet if the Reed-Bulwinkle bill becomes law, the power of the attorney-general to take action against the railroads would be limited to appearing before the I. C. C. and protesting against any of the agreements he did not like.

Even if the I. C. C. should not approve any of the articles of association or agreements on rates and services filed by the railroads, there would be no penalty provisions and no damages. For the most unconscionable conspiracy conceivable against the public interest, the carriers would get off scot-free. The only requirement would be that they amend the articles of agreement.

Railway executives have claimed that, in being required to submit their basic inter-carrier agreements to the I. C. C., they are submitting to government regulation.

The fallacy of that argument is that the last thing the railroads want is government regulation. If the railroads were willing to submit to government regulation, they would accept it under the anti-trust laws now in force. This they do not accept. When they accept that, they'll be ready to accept government ownership. That will be never.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson For July 20
Scripture: Job 1:8; 2:7-10; 19:7-10; 42:1-5; James 5:11
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

At the outset of Job's suffering a character appears other than the three principal speakers, Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar. It is Job's wife, and her words are in verses 9 and 10 of the second chapter.

Many wives have been a support to husbands in distress, at least giving helpful sympathy, and many husbands in a similar situation have been of great help to their wives.

But Job's wife was no help—in fact she seems to have added to his troubles by her unsympathetic and nagging attitude.

Apparently without any vital faith herself she virtually taunted Job with his own faith, saying to him, in effect, "Now, where's your God? What's the use of your faith, when you're covered with boils from head to foot? You'd better curse God and die."

What a woman! A man covered with boils could be pardoned for being irritable, but Job surely was doubly justified in losing some of his patience, and telling her that she was speaking like a fool: "Thou speaketh as one of the foolish women speaketh."

But in the rest of his reply wisdom conquered impatience. In memorable words he said: "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" The record truly says that "in all this did not Job sin with his lips."

There were times when Job's faith and patient endurance were not so strong, when his suffering seemed greater than he could bear, and when he felt as Jesus was to feel on the Cross, as if God had forsaken him. One might call such a mood a not unnatural reaction to intense suffering. The outcry of Jesus was more an agonizing prayer than an expression of lack of faith. Did He not say to the penitent thief, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise"?

The Bible teaches consistently that the good and upright are secure in God's keeping, no matter what may befall them, but it does not teach that they are immune from trouble. The prophets held their faith, and were true to their mission, through deep persecution and suffering.

But when Paul had listed all the troubles that could befall man, and all he forces that could war against him (Romans 8) his conclusion was that nothing could separate him from the love of God. That is the New Testament version of the Book of Job.

"IN WASHINGTON"

By Bascom N. Timmons

President Truman is formulating a brand-new approach to the flood control problem.

The recent floods in the corn belt have alerted the administration to the necessity of a comprehensive plan for dealing with floods in the future.

What the president wants to do is to give the country some idea for the need for, and the cost of protecting the vast Mississippi Valley basin from periodic inundations.

The other day, he called in three experts on the subject: Lieutenant General Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of U. S. army Engineers, Brigadier General Lewis A. Pick, head of the engineers' Missouri river division, and Gordon A. Clapp, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The two generals brought with them huge maps of the Mississippi Valley system from the Appalachians to the Rockies, and smaller maps of the devastated areas in the corn belt.

It was perhaps the first time that a chief executive has sat down with flood control experts to have an overall look at the job of harnessing and containing such a tremendous water system.

To understand the significance of this conference, one must understand how flood control has been handled in the past. In brief, it has been handled on a piece-meal basis.

All too often, projects have been considered from a local point of view. A dam or a levee was designed to protect a given community or area, flooded by a certain stream, without considering the overall problem of containing the entire stream.

These individual projects were promoted by local interests; were presented to Congress for survey; were then authorized for construction and built as the money became available by appropriation.

It was only in recent years that the matter of flood protection was handled on a basin-wide basis. This in the last Congress, plans for control of the Arkansas river and for the Cumberland river basins were presented and approved in toto.

What the administration now proposes to do is to go beyond the Arkansas, the Cumberland and the Tennessee rivers, and talk of flood protection for the whole Mississippi watershed.

This will involve a plan for the upper Mississippi (the lower Mississippi has received the lion's share of attention in recent years); for the sprawling Missouri and its tributaries; for the Illinois and Ohio and for the Red rivers.

The cost of controlling the Mississippi and its tributaries will be astronomical—no doubt about that. But it is the feeling of the administration that the matter should be presented in full so as to show the total cost—and, of course, the total benefits.

The cost will run into billions. For example, estimates of the cost of executing the Pick-Sloan plan for control of the Missouri river alone, covering as it does a 10 state area with its 100 projects, have run as high as two billions. And this is not to mention the other Mississippi tributaries.

The question that is being discussed within the administration goes farther than the matter of cost, however. The question is: what will be the cost if we fail to control floods?

The corn belt floods of recent weeks is being cited freely. What was the cost there?

Estimates run as high as half a billion dollars—two hundred million in crop losses; another two hundred million in destroyed levee systems and other protection works; and another hundred million in damage to highways and railroads. This does not include, of course, other more intangible losses—such as the loss of valuable top soil and the damage to private property on the farm and in the city.

Who pays for the loss? It is being paid for in various ways—in collection of insurance; in direct appropriations for restoration of levees, highways and railroads; in appropriations for direct relief.

In addition, part of the loss will be paid for in the form of increased corn and meat prices, for the loss of the corn crop will be reflected in higher prices that affect every consumer.

According to administration thinking, it might be better to set before the public a composite picture of the amount that will be required over a period of years to provide flood protection for the entire central section of the nation.

While the cost might be staggering, it will not compare with the losses that will occur over a span of years if no protection is provided.

This line of thinking may well be included in a presidential message to Congress before its scheduled adjournment later this month.

OUR CHILDREN

HE MUST BE WANTED

God help the child who has to live in a family that does not want him. No child can be happy under such conditions. He must feel himself loved and wanted if he is to grow up and become a well-balanced, successful human being.

Most children are wanted by their fathers and mothers. Once the baby arrives he brings his welcome with him and goes on from there. There may be little of material things, but the baby will not care. Simple food, the simplest of clothes, plus affection will be all he needs to make him thrive like a gosling.

It is remarkable how little children can have, and still grow in health of mind and body. I do not mean the bitterness of poverty when I say, Little—the necessities of life are provided. He has milk, vegetables, bread and butter and enough clothes to keep him comfortable. He can go without store toys, fancy coats and fancy foods. But he must feel he is loved and wanted. That is why a poor family manages so well to rear a brood: The children are welcomed and loved.

War conditions left us with some fatherless children—not orphans, but children of irresponsible fathers. Some of these fatherless children are unwanted in the homes they are forced to live in, the family being forced to accept them. Force of any kind kills, destroys love so these little unwanted children are unloved. What to do with them is a problem.

Sometimes the mother remarries and refuses to take the child along with her to her new home. Maybe her new husband objects. Grandmother has the child and resents having him because his mother and father refuse to acknowledge any responsibility toward him. Maybe Grandmother would like to adopt him, but feels she is too old unless she gets help. Maybe an aunt or uncle has taken the child, feeling a family responsibility and sense of duty. If he was very fortunate, some relative who really wanted him and was ready to love him took him in, and he is very happy.

The heart of the matter lies in the child's being wanted where he is. If not, then some way should be found to place that child where he is going to be wanted and loved. He should have a chance to grow and to become the best possible sort of person. Duty cannot take the place of love. Better give the child to a stranger who wants him and who will care for him than to let him try to grow up in an atmosphere of hostility and dislike. The unwanted chil. is not likely to become a happy, successful human being.

COPY OF LEASE MUST BE FILED

Where Rent Is Raised Government Office Must Be Informed

Landlords whose tenants voluntarily sign a lease by which their rent is increased a maximum of 15 per cent, as provided for by the new housing and rent act, must file a copy of the lease and three copies of a registration of lease form with their area rent office within 15 days after the date of execution of the lease, according to R. M. McGehee, area rent director for Monroe-Bastrop rent area.

If such filing is not done, the lease does not change the maximum rent. That registration of lease form (D-92) available in the area office, records five items of information, as follows:

1. Identification of dwelling unit to which the lease applies.

2. Name and addresses of landlord and tenant entering into the lease.

3. The execution, affective, and expiration dates of the lease.

4. The maximum rent for the dwelling units before the lease takes effect.

5. The rent provided in the lease which becomes the new maximum rent.

By complying with such filing requirements, landlords may increase their rents by not more than 15 per cent over the former maximum if tenants, on or before December 31, 1947, voluntarily sign a written lease to expire on or after December 31, 1948.

Tenants, however, cannot be evisted for refusing to sign such a lease. Evictions can be based only on one or more of the five grounds recognized by the new act.

If a tenant declines to sign a lease, his rent remains the June 30, 1947, maximum until the present law expires on next March 1, unless it is modified by subsequent order of the area rent director. That's about eight months.

If he signs a lease it must run at least until the end of 1948—about 18 months. That's the decision which faces both landlords and tenants.

NATIONAL GUARD IS ENROLLING MEN

Capt. Charles Womack states that the national guard offers excellent opportunity for men to go to school at regular army pay. Pvts. William R. Darden and Robert L. McGee of Company I, 199th infantry, have just returned from a school at Camp Hood, Texas, where army cooking was taught. Both made excellent grades. They are to be in charge of the mess while their company is in camp in August.

Now that the age limit has been lowered to 17 years, with parents' consent, many young men can now enjoy benefits and pleasures that are offered and at the same time earn $2.50 each week while they are in school this winter for a two-hour drill period.

Captain Womack states this is a fine time to join Company I as it is still in process of organization, and there are many ratings open for men who enlist now and receive instruction and training in summer camp.

Further information can be had of Captain Womack at the national guard armory any Tuesday at 8 p. m.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgive I it in the person of Christ . . . —II Corinthians 2:10.

Nothing in this low and ruined world bears the meek impress of the Son of God so surely as forgiveness. —Alice Cary.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Jack Glenn and his handsome family were dining at Costello's noted fish parlor on Third avenue when I chanced upon them recently. Jack, who came from Texas and worked his way up to one of the most important jobs in the production of "March of Time," has worked with camera crews in nearly all parts of the world. He is still a young man, blessed with the happy faculty of making and holding friends. According to the index on my divining rod, he is destined to become one of the three most important men in pictures.

A letter from Paul Glase, theater program collector, of Reading, Pa., thanking me for the silk (or is it satin?) program of the record-breaking night of "Life With Father." I valued the program too much to keep it for myself. It should be in the hands of a collector who knows the real value of such rare items in the history of the theater. Says Mr. Glase, "This is one to be framed, and as nice an item as I have in the library."

Mr. Glase has one of the most complete collections of "Uncle Tom" programs in existence. He is the kind of collector who knows how to mount and make permanent the records he cherishes, and I doubt that there is another private theater collection so complete and orderly as his.

This is written on one of the hottest days of the year in New York. However, I am lucky in having an underground workroom where the temperature is only 80 at this moment. A fan runs continuously, blowing over a cup of water, since there is no other means of ventilation. I like it this way. Resort Hotelman Lester Sprague, an old friend, has invited me to spend my vacation at his spacious and cool summer and winter place in North Conway, N. H. What do you mean, vacation, Lester? This column runs 365 days a year, and no substitutes or pinch-hitters. However, if I may intrude after the summer crowd has gone, I might manage a week (with work) at one of the most beautiful resorts in the world.

Hot weather is good for men and dogs and horses. It's good for sinus trouble, too. So I may take a swift flight around the Caribbean in August, when and where it is really hot.

The private me-to-you dope sheet business is getting quite out of bounds. I know a New York business man, a sucker for "confidential" information, who spends approximately $500 a year on "inside" dope folders that furnish him with behind-the-hand conversation at parties.

Most of the racket is centered in Washington, world's center of misinformation. The sheets published there purpose to give you advance tips on what's going to happen to your taxes, who's going to be the next garbage disposal chief, and what's on the president's mind.

If the average customer were not pleasantly gullible he would know from his common sense that the newspapers and press associations are better equipped to get and give information than any dope-sheeter. Washington and New York are covered, combed and squeezed for news and prospective dope, day and night, by thousands of reporters, editors, columnists and analysts. What they get is sifted, winnowed and fanned for the newspapers. How in the world can I. J. Dope, who charges anywhere from $10 to $100 for his sheet, get anything these boys don't get?

Anybody who takes the trouble to break down the record of a dope sheet of the sort I'm describing will find a surprising state of affairs. What isn't falsehood or bad guesswork was all in the local papers!

STATE POLICE POST REPORTS 12 ARRESTS

There was but one charge of drunk driving among the offenses represented in the twelve arrests by members of Troop F of the Monroe state police post during the week. The accused in the case was Claude F. Searles(49, of 711 Johnson Street, Tallulah.

The post's weekly report also showed a sharp decrease in arrests for operating vehicles with improper lights. Two drivers so charged were Joe Andrews, 17, of Oak Grove, and Arthur L. Gregory, 29, of Mer Rouge.

Other cases listed in the report were: Herman R. Neighbors, 35, of Ruston, carrying concealed weapons; William Earl, 26, of Crowville, reckless driving; two white juveniles, 15 and 16, of West Monroe route 1 and 4, auto theft; L. E. Freeman, 20, of 105 Oakland Street, West Monroe, speeding in truck; Gnat Mitchell, 28, Negro, of Bastrop, reckless driving; John T. McDowell, 19, Negro, of Grayson route 1, auto theft; Will Marion, 43, Negro, of Memphis, Tenn., investigation, and Robert Jefferson, 30, Negro, of Shreveport, reckless driving.

M'CORMICK WANTS STATE OWNED PARK

The city council of West Monroe and the West Monroe Kiwanis club have adopted resolutions, at the request of State Senator John F. McCormick urging that a tract of 176 acres be acquired on the shore of Lake Cheniere for a state park. The tract would, it is said, be will suited to outings and cottages along the shore would find, it is believed, a ready rental.

The state of Louisiana has a lease on the lake but not on adjacent property and it is feared that private interests may acquire this land for selfish purposes, whereas it is regarded as best owned by the state and administered for the good of the public.

Service clubs of the Twin Cities are asked by Senator McCormick to adopt resolutions urging that the state acquire the entire lake frontage. The senator states he plans to confer with Gov. Jimmie Davis over the matter at an early date.

THE FARLEY STORY

Jim Farley's series of articles on "Why I Broke With Roosevelt" discloses a side of the late president's character which was little understood except by those closely associated with him.

In his capacity as Democratic national chairman, and also as a member of the cabinet, Farley for a number of years was intimately associated with Roosevelt, was in fact his first political sponsor, and is credited with having brought about his nomination in 1932.

Several factors entered into the break between the two, but it was the question of a third term upon which the final rupture came. Farley was opposed to setting such precedent, as were many others high in party councils. But Roosevelt, after giving Farley his word he would not be a candidate, changed his mind and, in a convention in which 90 per cent of the delegates were federal jobholders, was easily renominated.

Farley gives it as his studied opinion the president could not bear to see himself supplanted in the office. He says Roosevelt was suspicious of every man in the party who was mentioned as a successor. He broke with Garner, ridiculed Wallace and McNutt, and when a boomlet was started to nominate Farley their friendship ended.

According to Farley, Roosevelt took the position there was no one in either party capable of succeeding him.

Farley is contributing important chapters to the political history of the nation, making clear many things little understood previously concerning a period when the nation was all but turned over to a small band of zealots.

FLYING SAUCERS

The flying saucers are ranging far and wide. Two boys see one or a dozen here, a flier sees one there, a flock of them are seen shooting over a point far distant from any at which they were previously reported.

The strange object, as these flying saucers are invariably described, always resembles an aluminum disc and shoots through the sky at approximately 1,200 miles an hour, at the same general level. Formations of them seem to reflect the rays of the sun.

With no thought of discrediting the reports of any of the individuals in many states who assert they saw this aerial phenomenon, the fact remains descriptions given conform in almost every detail to the one originally given by a West Coast aviator. There is too much similarity to be convincing.

The only variation from the general description was right here in Monroe where three persons reported last week they had sighted a square luminous body, "about the size of the moon," that suddenly broke up into four small segments and vanished.

Anyone who has seen jet airplanes flying over cities at comparatively low altitudes at speeds of 500 or 600 miles an hour knows how difficult it would be to see an object traveling at 1,200 miles an hour. Jet planes sound as if they are diving into a street or a building, but before the average spectator can look for them they have disappeared.

There is no convincing explanation of these flying saucers, but one will come in time. No nation could have developed such planes without this country's armed services learning about them. Nor could they have been of such numbers and range as indicated by reports of those who report having seen them.

If it were possible to build such planes, this nation would have them. Until there is a report of a flying saucer having been wrecked in a cow pasture, there is no occasion for alarm.

END THE UNCERTAINTY

The United States Supreme Court has decided that California does not own the oil-bearing lands under the ocean along her coast. According to Justice Black's opinion, the federal government has "paramount rights in and power over" the marginal belt between low water and the three-mile limit, including "full dominion over the resources of the soil under that water area, including oil."

That settles one important question, at least until there is a different Supreme Court. But it raises another of equal or greater weight. Attorney General Poulson of California believes that the federal government can now interpret the decision to claim California ports and harbors producing millions of dollars in municipal revenues. If so, it would seem that similar claims can be made in other states.

Possibly the federal government will not make such claims. But the fact that it might not only clouds the titles to property of almost incalculable worth but could have the effect of discouraging investments in improving land the states have considered to be under their control. This uncertainty should be ended as quickly as possible.

It can be ended by legislation clearing title to underwater lands to the states. The last Congress passed such a bill but President Truman—you guessed it!—vetoed it. His announced reason for the action was the fact that the California action was before the courts.

Now that the Supreme Court has disposed of that issue, there seems to be no reason why a bill to confirm the states in the rights they have traditionally exercised should not be passed and then repassed over Truman's inevitable veto.

Recent commencement orator put great emphasis on "the sun sinks in the golden west." Brother, when it quits doing that, we're all sunk.

A few government employees suspected of disloyalty are being fired. Has Uncle Sam decided to let Americans run America?

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—DEAR STAFF: I'm worried about you—about your social careers, I mean. For the past several months I've tried to draw you out on politics, but s'help me, despite all my sleuthing, I haven't been able to elicit from one of you a definite declaration of partisanship.

Don't you realize that here in modern Hollywood being "nothing but a nothing" is the absolute nadir of social disgrace? Who are you going to play around with? Do you think the leftists will want any part of you if you persist in such commonsense mugnumpism? Do you think the rightists care to associate with anyone who persists in walking down the middle of the road?

No kiddies, it won't work here. Perhaps in some sane community like Keokuk or Urbana, Omaha or Bangor, a man can still keep an open mind and be socially acceptable. But not in Hollywood, where drama fills the air we breathe and even the wildest statements are never qualified. To be a neutral in our current political squabbles here, puts you in the same position that a nice little boy would find himself in if he refused to be either Indian or Cowboy and stood on the sidelines while the other kids whooped it up.

So choose your side. Do what you want to pal around with Katie Hepburn, John Garfield, Melvyn Douglas and Edward G. Robinson, daming the reactionaries' eyes—or do you prefer to join Ginger Rogers, Bob Taylor and Adolphe Monjou in flinging harpoons at the liberals? Of course, once you've joined up, you won't use such innocuous terms as those I've chosen. A liberal, to a rightist, is a communist, and a rightist, to a liberal, is a fascist. What'll you have—since you must have chosen?

JIMMIE FIDLER

DEAR BOSS: If you were better posted on literature, you'd realize that we're not faced by such a mandatory choice. We can always follow the example of Ferdinand the Bull and just sit under a tree and smell the flowers.

In the meantime, while we're making up our minds, how about taking a whiff of these hand-picked daisies we gathered today:

According to Producer Sam Coslow, the real reason he nixed Laraine Day for his picture, "Champagne For Everybody," is because she demanded too many "rights." Before she would put her name on the dotted line, Miss Day insisted that she be allowed to make any cuts in the picture that she deemed advisable—and even wanted the power to bar anyone she wished from the set. That's getting pretty high and mighty even for Hollywood, according to Producer Coslow . . . Friends of the Marc Platts predict a separation now that they've lost their expected baby . . . The Nicolas Fulliette who has been introducing the late Bugsy Siegel's girl friend, Virginia Hill, to Paris society, is the same Frenchman who wooed and almost wed Gloria Jean recently. He's bubbling over with cash from the Mumm's champagne fortune.

Despite the fact the Errol Flynn's book wasn't any raving success, he's starting another. It's fiction, set in the 1890's—and has a sea background, natch. Incidentally, the foot he broke playing tennis in Jamaica last year is still giving Errol a lot of pain . . . Paul Draper is teaching Jimmy Cagney the two Irish jig routines he'll do in "The Stray Lamb" . . . RKO had to call in the army to coach extras on how to handle guns, after two minor accidents on the "Return of The Badman" set. All 280 extras in the picture carry guns, and they're getting instructions on safe handling from army directives and training manuals . . . Shirley Temple is taking vocal lessons to develop that childish treble into poised soprano. She's dying to make a musical . . . Needless to say, Maria Montez is her own best press agent, but husband Jean Pierre Aumont is running a close second. When he went to Europe recently, Aumont took along 500 autographed stills from Maria's new movie, and this week he cabled for 1,000 more.

Imagine a gal breaking into movies because she wears a brace on her teeth. It happened to U. C. L. A. Student Rhonda Williams. Warner Bros. scoured three colleges to find a girl who wore braces but was pretty anyhoo. She'll be in "Mary Hagen" . . . Jose Iturbi is giving a young British girl some long-distance coaching in piano technique. He heard her play in London while he was on tour. Now she sends recordings to him in Hollywood and he criticizes them and sends them back . . . A fan magazine interviewer asked Humphrey Bogart about the beard he's growing for "The Treasure of Sierra Madre." "Tell me," asked the writer, "doesn't your beard itch?" "As a matter of fact, it does," replied Bogey. "But," he added with a leer, "that's Baby's problem." Which reminds us, James, our five o'clock shadow is beginning to show. G'night.

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, — American railroads are about to get one of the fastest, biggest trainloads of power in their history. It will be made legal if Congress passes the so-called Reed-Bulwinkle bill which would give the railroads almost absolute authority to enter into combinations to fix their own rates, determine what part of the rate each carrier shall receive, what time the trains run, over what routes they operate, what claims they pay, what equipment shall be built and how it shall be used—practically free from any government regulation in the public interest.

Instead of having to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of the billion-dollar-a-year rate increase the railroads are now seeking, they would simply have to file notice of what their proposed new rates are. If the I. C. C. did not find within 60 days that the proposed schedules were not in conformity with transportation policy as set forth in the Interstate Commerce Act, the rates would go into effect automatically and there would be little that the government could do to change the situation.

All this would be done under an innocent-looking amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act. It was sponsored originally two years ago by Democratic Congressman Alfred L. Bulwinkle of North Carolina. This year Republican Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas took it up. It has passed the Senate, 60 to 27. It passed the Democratic House last year 277 to 45 and will probably go B-lining through this year's Republican House by an even bigger majority.

Time Element To Consider

The only possibility of flagging this legislative express lies with Father Time himself. Congress is now highballing down the track, trying to make adjournment on schedule July 26. The House Interstate Commerce Commission is just concluding hearings on the Reed-Bulwinkle bill. The House can't vote on the measure until testimony of these hearings is printed. That may take a week. There may be a delay of a few days while other bills on the crowded calendar are handled.

If Congress doesn't complete action before July 17, the president can kill the bill by a pocket veto—refusing to sign it before Congress adjourns. That's the only chance.

The railroads have put this bill over on Congress with one of the most high-pressured lobbying campaigns ever seen in Washington. This lobbying was not done by railroad employes directly. It was done by bringing to Washington important people from congressmen's home towns. These people had been thoroughly sold on the railroads' desire for passage of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

In addition the railroads had nearly 1,000 local Chambers of Commerce, business organizations, farm organizations, shippers' organizations and even state and local government officials file petitions with Congress, favoring the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

Attorney-General's Power Limited

Yet if the Reed-Bulwinkle bill becomes law, the power of the attorney-general to take action against the railroads would be limited to appearing before the I. C. C. and protesting against any of the agreements he did not like.

Even if the I. C. C. should not approve any of the articles of association or agreements on rates and services filed by the railroads, there would be no penalty provisions and no damages. For the most unconscionable conspiracy conceivable against the public interest, the carriers would get off scot-free. The only requirement would be that they amend the articles of agreement.

Railway executives have claimed that, in being required to submit their basic inter-carrier agreements to the I. C. C., they are submitting to government regulation.

The fallacy of that argument is that the last thing the railroads want is government regulation. If the railroads were willing to submit to government regulation, they would accept it under the anti-trust laws now in force. This they do not accept. When they accept that, they'll be ready to accept government ownership. That will be never.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson For July 20
Scripture: Job 1:8; 2:7-10; 19:7-10; 42:1-5; James 5:11
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

At the outset of Job's suffering a character appears other than the three principal speakers, Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar. It is Job's wife, and her words are in verses 9 and 10 of the second chapter.

Many wives have been a support to husbands in distress, at least giving helpful sympathy, and many husbands in a similar situation have been of great help to their wives.

But Job's wife was no help—in fact she seems to have added to his troubles by her unsympathetic and nagging attitude.

Apparently without any vital faith herself she virtually taunted Job with his own faith, saying to him, in effect, "Now, where's your God? What's the use of your faith, when you're covered with boils from head to foot? You'd better curse God and die."

What a woman! A man covered with boils could be pardoned for being irritable, but Job surely was doubly justified in losing some of his patience, and telling her that she was speaking like a fool: "Thou speaketh as one of the foolish women speaketh."

But in the rest of his reply wisdom conquered impatience. In memorable words he said: "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" The record truly says that "in all this did not Job sin with his lips."

There were times when Job's faith and patient endurance were not so strong, when his suffering seemed greater than he could bear, and when he felt as Jesus was to feel on the Cross, as if God had forsaken him. One might call such a mood a not unnatural reaction to intense suffering. The outcry of Jesus was more an agonizing prayer than an expression of lack of faith. Did He not say to the penitent thief, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise"?

The Bible teaches consistently that the good and upright are secure in God's keeping, no matter what may befall them, but it does not teach that they are immune from trouble. The prophets held their faith, and were true to their mission, through deep persecution and suffering.

But when Paul had listed all the troubles that could befall man, and all he forces that could war against him (Romans 8) his conclusion was that nothing could separate him from the love of God. That is the New Testament version of the Book of Job.

"IN WASHINGTON"

By Bascom N. Timmons

President Truman is formulating a brand-new approach to the flood control problem.

The recent floods in the corn belt have alerted the administration to the necessity of a comprehensive plan for dealing with floods in the future.

What the president wants to do is to give the country some idea for the need for, and the cost of protecting the vast Mississippi Valley basin from periodic inundations.

The other day, he called in three experts on the subject: Lieutenant General Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of U. S. army Engineers, Brigadier General Lewis A. Pick, head of the engineers' Missouri river division, and Gordon A. Clapp, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The two generals brought with them huge maps of the Mississippi Valley system from the Appalachians to the Rockies, and smaller maps of the devastated areas in the corn belt.

It was perhaps the first time that a chief executive has sat down with flood control experts to have an overall look at the job of harnessing and containing such a tremendous water system.

To understand the significance of this conference, one must understand how flood control has been handled in the past. In brief, it has been handled on a piece-meal basis.

All too often, projects have been considered from a local point of view. A dam or a levee was designed to protect a given community or area, flooded by a certain stream, without considering the overall problem of containing the entire stream.

These individual projects were promoted by local interests; were presented to Congress for survey; were then authorized for construction and built as the money became available by appropriation.

It was only in recent years that the matter of flood protection was handled on a basin-wide basis. This in the last Congress, plans for control of the Arkansas river and for the Cumberland river basins were presented and approved in toto.

What the administration now proposes to do is to go beyond the Arkansas, the Cumberland and the Tennessee rivers, and talk of flood protection for the whole Mississippi watershed.

This will involve a plan for the upper Mississippi (the lower Mississippi has received the lion's share of attention in recent years); for the sprawling Missouri and its tributaries; for the Illinois and Ohio and for the Red rivers.

The cost of controlling the Mississippi and its tributaries will be astronomical—no doubt about that. But it is the feeling of the administration that the matter should be presented in full so as to show the total cost—and, of course, the total benefits.

The cost will run into billions. For example, estimates of the cost of executing the Pick-Sloan plan for control of the Missouri river alone, covering as it does a 10 state area with its 100 projects, have run as high as two billions. And this is not to mention the other Mississippi tributaries.

The question that is being discussed within the administration goes farther than the matter of cost, however. The question is: what will be the cost if we fail to control floods?

The corn belt floods of recent weeks is being cited freely. What was the cost there?

Estimates run as high as half a billion dollars—two hundred million in crop losses; another two hundred million in destroyed levee systems and other protection works; and another hundred million in damage to highways and railroads. This does not include, of course, other more intangible losses—such as the loss of valuable top soil and the damage to private property on the farm and in the city.

Who pays for the loss? It is being paid for in various ways—in collection of insurance; in direct appropriations for restoration of levees, highways and railroads; in appropriations for direct relief.

In addition, part of the loss will be paid for in the form of increased corn and meat prices, for the loss of the corn crop will be reflected in higher prices that affect every consumer.

According to administration thinking, it might be better to set before the public a composite picture of the amount that will be required over a period of years to provide flood protection for the entire central section of the nation.

While the cost might be staggering, it will not compare with the losses that will occur over a span of years if no protection is provided.

This line of thinking may well be included in a presidential message to Congress before its scheduled adjournment later this month.

OUR CHILDREN

HE MUST BE WANTED

God help the child who has to live in a family that does not want him. No child can be happy under such conditions. He must feel himself loved and wanted if he is to grow up and become a well-balanced, successful human being.

Most children are wanted by their fathers and mothers. Once the baby arrives he brings his welcome with him and goes on from there. There may be little of material things, but the baby will not care. Simple food, the simplest of clothes, plus affection will be all he needs to make him thrive like a gosling.

It is remarkable how little children can have, and still grow in health of mind and body. I do not mean the bitterness of poverty when I say, Little—the necessities of life are provided. He has milk, vegetables, bread and butter and enough clothes to keep him comfortable. He can go without store toys, fancy coats and fancy foods. But he must feel he is loved and wanted. That is why a poor family manages so well to rear a brood: The children are welcomed and loved.

War conditions left us with some fatherless children—not orphans, but children of irresponsible fathers. Some of these fatherless children are unwanted in the homes they are forced to live in, the family being forced to accept them. Force of any kind kills, destroys love so these little unwanted children are unloved. What to do with them is a problem.

Sometimes the mother remarries and refuses to take the child along with her to her new home. Maybe her new husband objects. Grandmother has the child and resents having him because his mother and father refuse to acknowledge any responsibility toward him. Maybe Grandmother would like to adopt him, but feels she is too old unless she gets help. Maybe an aunt or uncle has taken the child, feeling a family responsibility and sense of duty. If he was very fortunate, some relative who really wanted him and was ready to love him took him in, and he is very happy.

The heart of the matter lies in the child's being wanted where he is. If not, then some way should be found to place that child where he is going to be wanted and loved. He should have a chance to grow and to become the best possible sort of person. Duty cannot take the place of love. Better give the child to a stranger who wants him and who will care for him than to let him try to grow up in an atmosphere of hostility and dislike. The unwanted chil is not likely to become a happy, successful human being.

COPY OF LEASE MUST BE FILED

Where Rent Is Raised Government Office Must Be Informed

Landlords whose tenants voluntarily sign a lease by which their rent is increased a maximum of 15 per cent, as provided for by the new housing and rent act, must file a copy of the lease and three copies of a registration of lease form with their area rent office within 15 days after the date of execution of the lease, according to R. M. McGehee, area rent director for Monroe-Bastrop rent area.

If such filing is not done, the lease does not change the maximum rent. That registration of lease form (D-92) available in the area office, records five items of information, as follows:

1. Identification of dwelling unit to which the lease applies.

2. Name and addresses of landlord and tenant entering into the lease.

3. The execution, affective, and expiration dates of the lease.

4. The maximum rent for the dwelling units before the lease takes effect.

5. The rent provided in the lease which becomes the new maximum rent.

By complying with such filing requirements, landlords may increase their rents by not more than 15 per cent over the former maximum if tenants, on or before December 31, 1947, voluntarily sign a written lease to expire on or after December 31, 1948.

Tenants, however, cannot be evisted for refusing to sign such a lease. Evictions can be based only on one or more of the five grounds recognized by the new act.

If a tenant declines to sign a lease, his rent remains the June 30, 1947, maximum until the present law expires on next March 1, unless it is modified by subsequent order of the area rent director. That's about eight months.

If he signs a lease it must run at least until the end of 1948—about 18 months. That's the decision which faces both landlords and tenants.

NATIONAL GUARD IS ENROLLING MEN

Capt. Charles Womack states that the national guard offers excellent opportunity for men to go to school at regular army pay. Pvts. William R. Darden and Robert L. McGee of Company I, 199th infantry, have just returned from a school at Camp Hood, Texas, where army cooking was taught. Both made excellent grades. They are to be in charge of the mess while their company is in camp in August.

Now that the age limit has been lowered to 17 years, with parents' consent, many young men can now enjoy benefits and pleasures that are offered and at the same time earn $2.50 each week while they are in school this winter for a two-hour drill period.

Captain Womack states this is a fine time to join Company I as it is still in process of organization, and there are many ratings open for men who enlist now and receive instruction and training in summer camp.

Further information can be had of Captain Womack at the national guard armory any Tuesday at 8 p. m.

New York Day By Day

Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Jack Glenn and his handsome family were dining at Costello's noted fish parlor on Third avenue when I chanced upon them recently. Jack, who came from Texas and worked his way up to one of the most important jobs in the production of "March of Time," has worked with camera crews in nearly all parts of the world. He is still a young man, blessed with the happy faculty of making and holding friends. According to the index on my divining rod, he is destined to become one of the three most important men in pictures.

A letter from Paul Glase, theater program collector, of Reading, Pa., thanking me for the silk (or is it satin?) program of the record-breaking night of "Life With Father." I valued the program too much to keep it for myself. It should be in the hands of a collector who knows the real value of such rare items in the history of the theater. Says Mr. Glase, "This is one to be framed, and as nice an item as I have in the library."

Mr. Glase has one of the most complete collections of "Uncle Tom" programs in existence. He is the kind of collector who knows how to mount and make permanent the records he cherishes, and I doubt that there is another private theater collection so complete and orderly as his.

This is written on one of the hottest days of the year in New York. However, I am lucky in having an underground workroom where the temperature is only 80 at this moment. A fan runs continuously, blowing over a cup of water, since there is no other means of ventilation. I like it this way. Resort Hotelman Lester Sprague, an old friend, has invited me to spend my vacation at his spacious and cool summer and winter place in North Conway, N. H. What do you mean, vacation, Lester? This column runs 365 days a year, and no substitutes or pinch-hitters. However, if I may intrude after the summer crowd has gone, I might manage a week (with work) at one of the most beautiful resorts in the world.

Hot weather is good for men and dogs and horses. It's good for sinus trouble, too. So I may take a swift flight around the Caribbean in August, when and where it is really hot.

The private me-to-you dope sheet business is getting quite out of bounds. I know a New York business man, a sucker for "confidential" information, who spends approximately $500 a year on "inside" dope folders that furnish him with behind-the-hand conversation at parties.

Most of the racket is centered in Washington, world's center of misinformation. The sheets published there purpose to give you advance tips on what's going to happen to your taxes, who's going to be the next garbage disposal chief, and what's on the president's mind.

If the average customer were not pleasantly gullible he would know from his common sense that the newspapers and press associations are better equipped to get and give information than any dope-sheeter. Washington and New York are covered, combed and squeezed for news and prospective dope, day and night, by thousands of reporters, editors, columnists and analysts. What they get is sifted, winnowed and fanned for the newspapers. How in the world can I. J. Dope, who charges anywhere from $10 to $100 for his sheet, get anything these boys don't get?

Anybody who takes the trouble to break down the record of a dope sheet of the sort I'm describing will find a surprising state of affairs. What isn't falsehood or bad guesswork was all in the local papers!

STATE POLICE POST REPORTS 12 ARRESTS

There was but one charge of drunk driving among the offenses represented in the twelve arrests by members of Troop F of the Monroe state police post during the week. The accused in the case was Claude F. Searles(49, of 711 Johnson Street, Tallulah.

The post's weekly report also showed a sharp decrease in arrests for operating vehicles with improper lights. Two drivers so charged were Joe Andrews, 17, of Oak Grove, and Arthur L. Gregory, 29, of Mer Rouge.

Other cases listed in the report were: Herman R. Neighbors, 35, of Ruston, carrying concealed weapons; William Earl, 26, of Crowville, reckless driving; two white juveniles, 15 and 16, of West Monroe route 1 and 4, auto theft; L. E. Freeman, 20, of 105 Oakland Street, West Monroe, speeding in truck; Gnat Mitchell, 28, Negro, of Bastrop, reckless driving; John T. McDowell, 19, Negro, of Grayson route 1, auto theft; Will Marion, 43, Negro, of Memphis, Tenn., investigation, and Robert Jefferson, 30, Negro, of Shreveport, reckless driving.

M'CORMICK WANTS STATE OWNED PARK

The city council of West Monroe and the West Monroe Kiwanis club have adopted resolutions, at the request of State Senator John F. McCormick urging that a tract of 176 acres be acquired on the shore of Lake Cheniere for a state park. The tract would, it is said, be will suited to outings and cottages along the shore would find, it is believed, a ready rental.

The state of Louisiana has a lease on the lake but not on adjacent property and it is feared that private interests may acquire this land for selfish purposes, whereas it is regarded as best owned by the state and administered for the good of the public.

Service clubs of the Twin Cities are asked by Senator McCormick to adopt resolutions urging that the state acquire the entire lake frontage. The senator states he plans to confer with Gov. Jimmie Davis over the matter at an early date.

FAMOUS, ODD, FUNNY NAMES BORNE BY LOUISIANA TOWNS

Have you ever planned an imaginary summer vacation abroad? Perhaps you're among those who have mapped out real tours to faraway places and, now that vacation time is at hand, find it impractical to make the trip. Whether you had planned to visit Canada, Europe or Mexico, you can still make the trip—all right here in Louisiana ,according to a survey conducted by the Louisiana Tech News Bureau in Ruston.

In addition to many other attractions, the report states, Louisiana has more famous places than one could hope to visit during the most elaborate foreign tour.

If you should begin in the Northeastern part of the state, for example, you'd pass through Quebec while driving westward on Highway 80.

Vienna is only four miles north of Ruston, on Highway 167.

Those who wish to visit the famous cities of Ancient Greece will find Athens situated near the highest point in Louisiana, in Claiborne parish, and Sparta only a few miles to the south, in Bienville.

Students of Biblical history and those who have long wished to visit the Holy Land may be surprised to note on their maps that Shiloh is in Union parish, that Antioch is in Claiborne and that Mt. Lebanon is in Bienville, all in adjoining parishes in North Louisiana.

Travel in Germany today may be difficult, but the Louisiana tourist may motor from Minden to Hamburg within a few hours, including a stop for lunch in Alexandria, a name long famous in Egyptian history.

Those who have dreamed of a vacation in Sunny Italy should be delighted to find that Sorrento is in Ascension parish, Reggio is in St. Bernard, Sicily Island in Catahoula, and that romantic Venice is in Plaquemines, near the mouth of the Mississippi.

That many French cities, towns and villages have Louisiana counterparts is probably well-worn knowledge, but not every Louisianian may be aware that a week-end in Bermuda can be spent in Grant parish.

Nearest thing to a tour of England here in Louisiana would probably be a visit to Liverpool, in St. Helena parish, or Chatham, in Jackson. You can't go to London in Louisiana, but it is possible to visit Whitehall and St. James.

"South of the Border" attractions include Columbia, Caldwell parish, and Monterey, in Concordia.

The vacationist who visits these "foreign" places in Louisiana may be impressed with the strong evidence of feminine influence in the state as shown by other place-names. Union parish with Marion, Lillie and Bernice, is a leading example.

Other towns and villages on which the ladies have left their marks include Ida, Vivian, Mira, Dixie, Waverly, Marthaville, Lula, Lena, Edna, Naomi, Myrtle Grove, Lottie, Lavonia, Eunice, Maxie, Evangeline, Esther, Adeline, Bayou Sara, Ethel, Elizabeth, Mittie, Violet, Luella and Williana.

Should that list indicate that the girls have had things too much their own way in this state, it might be well to note that the boys have been not entirely without influence, as shown by the villages and towns bearing the following names:

Ivan, Curtis, Lewis, Allen, Clarence, Boyce, Elton, Milton, Maurice, Perry, Franklin, Archie, Clayton, Angie, Clifton, Mt. Herman, Zachary, Wilson, Clinton, Chester, Calvin, Vernon, Jamestown, Leonville, Leland, Lamar, Alto, Charlieville, Georgetown, Tullos and Rayville. And, just for good measure, there's a place named Batchelor in Pointe Coupee parish.

If yours is to be one of those "Back to Nature" vacations, the names of the following Louisiana towns or villages suggest the possibilities in this state:

Forest, Trees, Magnolia, Fields, Pine Prairie, Forest Hill, Holly, Holly Ridge, Evergreen, Branch, Hackberry, Greensburg, Pine Grove, Pineville, Palmetto, Rosepine, Cypress, Chestnut, Transylvania, Roseland, Pelican, Fishville, Hunter, Trout, Glade, Deer Park, Rosefield, Golden Meadown, Turkey Creek and Crowville.

If partial to the sturdy oak, you'll find them in abundance in Louisiana. The state has two Oak Groves, one in Sabine and one in West Carroll, as well as an Oakdale and an Oak Ridge.

When it comes to variety in "woods," Louisiana should be a naturalist's paradise, as the following names indicate:

Woodworth, Esterwood, Woodlawn, Holmwood, Norwood, Kentwood, Baywood, Ravenswood, Kurthwood, Hagewood and Bellwood.

For names denoting pleasantness or high ideals, Louisiana would be hard to beat. Starting with Lucky, Friendship and Liberty Hill in Bienville parish, the list includes such names as the following:

Plain Dealing, Merryville, Singer, Sugartown, Newroads, Serena, Duty, Enterprise, Newlight, Onville, Manifest, Noble, Independence, Sun, Sunset, Summerfield and Summerville.

If you should take your vacation during the rainy season, you, of course, would want to include Waterproof, Dry Prong or Dry Creek on your itinerary.

But if it is the unique you're looking for, you can't afford to miss such places as Wham, Bunkie, Peck, Argo, Acme, Lawtell, Leton, Ajax, Enoka, Tallulah, Anacoco, Nebo, Zenoria, Nobrac, Hico, Saranac, Shongaloo, Iota, Rough Edge, and Nip-and-Tuck.

Without leaving the state, the Louisiana tourist may also visit Washington, Iowa and Arizona, as well as Natchez, Montgomery, Montpelier, Jackson, Atlanta, Lakeland and the Florida parishes.

So, if your plans for a vacation abroad didn't materialize, map out a tour of Louisiana. The state has nearly everything in the world worth seeing, anyhow.

POLICE QUESTION FOUR IN SHREVEPCRT MURDER

SHREVEPORT, La., July 12.—(AP)—Chief of Police E. G. Huckabay said today that four persons, including a man and wife, were being held for questioning in connection with the fatal beating of Robert Ewel Mears, 63, a Webster parish carpenter.

Mears was found unconscious on the city's riverfront before midnight last night and died four hours later at Charity hospital. Dr. Charles S. Boone, deputy Caddo parish coroner, said death resluted from a brain hemorrhage and that the case "undoubtedly was one of murder."

Chief Huckabay said that the man and wife denied any knowledge as to how Mears was beaten, and that the other two men held for questioning were "more or less material witnesses."

HOSPITAL BLAST BLAMED ON SPARK

Explosion In N. O. Operating Room Believed Caused By Static Electricity

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—(AP)—A spark caused by static electricity was blamed today for an anesthesia explosion which yesterday took the life of a patient at Baptist Hospital here.

Dr. Lily L. Dismukes, the anesthetist who was administering gas to Louise Ellsworth, 39, told newsmen in an interview:

"I believe that a static spark must have ignited the gas. It might have been brought about by the lack of humidity in the air."

U. S. weather bureau records show a humidity of 48 per cent was present at the time of the blast. This compares with a normal of 64 per cent for July.

"We were using a new machine which we had acquired only a month ago. It had been in operation almost daily and there was no question about its mechanical operation.

"The surgery was proceeding on Miss Ellsworth and nasal tubes were being used to administer the gas. The explosion knocked the tube from her right nostril onto the floor, while the one in the left nostril was still there.

"I had adjusted the machine to the proper pressure before administering the anesthetic. There was no electricity connected with the machine. The only electricity was the light above the operating table.

"Fire started on top of the machine right after the explosion," she said. "This was quickly extinguished with cloth before it could spread. This added to my conviction that it must have been a spark."

Police were continuing their investigation of the accident but had not completed their report tonight.

Private funeral services were conducted for Miss Ellsworth today.

Dr. C. Grenes Cole, Orleans parish coroner, classed the death accidental. He said death followed hemmorhage and shock and solidification of both lungs, resulting from the accident.

TESTIMONY HEARD IN SLAVERY TRIAL

Mrs. Ingalls Said She Forgave Maid When She Boasted Of Affair With Husband

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 11.—(AP)—Negro Maid Dora Jones was so close to Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls, the latter testified in her federal court slavery trial which will continue Monday, she foregave her when she boasted of an old affair with the New England matron's first husband and "cried from lonliness" when she went away.

"We were so much like each other," said the 62-year-old Mrs. Ingalls, who is charged with her husband, 64, with reducing Dora, 58, to slavery over a period of nearly 40 years with threats and drudgery.

Mrs. Ingalls added that "my friends mistook her voice for mine when she answered the phone."

She "cried for lonliness," Mrs. Ingalls told the jury, "when Dora, who had then been with her for 17 years, was sent back to Athens, Ala., in 1924."

The witness said that a few times —"perhaps five in ten years—Dora "flung into my face" the old affair by telling her:

"You're so very nice about everything. But Mr. Harman (the first husband) liked me better. I may be dirty. But I'm what men want."

"It was then," declared Mrs. Ingalls "and then only, that I called her a low adultress."

Mrs. Ingalls said that Dora never wanted pay and never received any —except for one year—for 1907 when she came from Athens as a companion and personal maid.

The witness recalled that she was then married to Walter Harman, Washington, D. C., and said she learned of the affair four years after it started.

"She was just like one of us," Mrs. Ingalls declared. "Everything that was done for her was done for us. I never considered her a servant or treated her like one."

Mrs. Ingalls said some of the trouble with Dora was due to Ruth (Mrs. Castendyk, her eldest daughter) "planted in Dora's mind.' Mrs. Castendyk of Chicago has previously testified against her mother as has another daughter, Mrs. Helen Ingalls Roberts of Berkeley, Calif.

The witness declared that Ruth, while teaching school in Lynn, Mass., in 1937, had friends in at Ingalls home and they sang songs in German. She said she protested the singing "because Mr. Ingalls was then in a political campaign and it could be used against him." She said that caused resentment by her daughter.

AMVETS DISCUSS SITE FOR NEW HOME

Possible sites for a post home will be discussed at Monday night's meeting of Walter S. Savage, Jr., Post No. 5, American Veterans of World War II. The meeting was scheduled for 8 o'clock at Monroe Recreation Center on Catalpa street.

Ways and means of obtaining a site for a home as soon as possible were explored at a meeting of the post's executive committee during the past week. Several locations were considered at subsequent conferences by several members of the committee headed by Post Commander Tony Lewis.

The Eagle AIR CHANGER

COMPLETELY NEW DISTINCTIVELY DIFFERENT

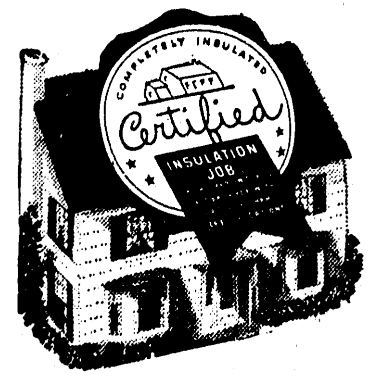
The AIR CHANGER HOME VENTILATION has been designed to be scientifically superior to all others. The Eagle "Air Changer" is installed and operated at a lower overall cost, too.



SIX Outstanding Advantages of the Revolutionary "AIR CHANGER"

1. QUIETER OPERATION

The "Air Changer" is NOT a PROPELLER TYPE fan; it IS a CENTRIFUGAL FAN with fin-like blades resembling the paddle wheel of a river steam boat. Because of this the air flows readily through the passages thereby eliminating the air buffeting and vibration that is so common in the propeller type. All moving parts are floated in rubber and the blades are acoustically treated. NO OTHER FAN IS AS QUIET AS THE "AIR CHANGER."

2. MOTOR CAN'T BE OVERLOADED

Unlike the propeller type fan, the "AIR CHANGER" is AUTOMATICALLY SELF-ADJUSTING to any degree of static pressure. Shutting or opening all doors and windows makes no difference . . . the "Air Changer" regulates itself to conform to the condition.

3. CHOICE OF LOCATION

The "AIR CHANGER" may be installed in the ATTIC, FLOOR, BASEMENT or beneath the STAIRWAY . . . which ever suits your individual taste. It will always give maximum efficiency wherever the location . . . whatever the position. When installed in attics no wind tunnels are necessary.

4. LOW OPERATING COST

It is estimated that the operating cost in the Monroe area will ONLY run around FIVE CENTS PER DAY.

5. LIFELONG STURDINESS

The "AIR CHANGER" is constructed like a series of girders in TRUSS FASHION, each SOLIDLY RIVETED one to the other. Also, the fan body is made entirely of ALUMINUM assuring LIGHTNESS, STRENGTH and DURABILITY.

6. LESS MAINTENANCE

Since the "AIR CHANGER" operates completely on BALL BEARINGS all of which are set in LONG LASTING GREASE SUPPLIES, an occasional oiling of the motor is practically all the maintenance cost you will have.

ASSAULT SCORES IN BUTLER; LEADS AS PURSE WINNER

Clubfooted Texas Comet Displaces Stymie To Earn Well Over $600,000

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—Assault took back the world money-winning championship today that Stymie borrowed from him last week by picking up what amounted to the entire grand stand and clubhouse and carrying it home in the Butler Handicap at Jamaica.

And if there was any lingering doubt that the clubfoot comet from Texas had moved from the "good race horse" league into the "great" class, it was erased completely and for keeps this time. He gave Stymie all the best of it in the weights and the running, fought his way to the front after twice being blocked off, and still had enough left to hang on to the wire in a fierce, fighting stretch struggle. Gallorette finished third.

Topping the back-breaking load of 135 pounds—more than any other horse has ever hauled to victory in the Butler—the terror from Texas rolled in just a short neck in front of Stymie to become the first galloper to boost his bankroll over the $600,000 mark.

The $36,700 the cashier handed him for this mile-and-three-sixteenths meander gave him $612,370 for his three seasons of racing. And the manner in which he came on to win made it look as if that up-to-now unheard of cash balance is only the beginning.

The 32,395 cash customers had backed him down to $2.90, $2.20 and $2.10 although only a week ago Stymie had set a track record at Delaware in taking the money-winning championship from his one-time Texas playmate.

CINDERELLA SPORTS FACE CROSSETT NEGROES TODAY

The Cinderella Sports, Monroe Negro semi-pro baseball club, and the Crossett Tigers, leading Arkansas Negro club, clash here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Casino Park.

B. B. Reed, of the visitors, has notified local club officials that the Tigers will be bidding for victory in a big way today since a win would give them a record of three games better than any other Arkansas Negro club.

But Secretary Dunn, of the Sports, has declared the game is equally important to his Cinderellas in their own state, and that the Monroe club, greatly strengthened, will be out to hand the invaders a setback.

Special seats have been reserved for white fans.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have come east to hammer away at the three clubs that are ahead of them in the National League race and Manager Eddie Dyer, for one, isn't surprised that they're within shooting distance of the top after the miserable start they got this spring . . . "On our first eastern trip," says Eddie, "Stan Musial was sick with appendicitis; Terry Moore was out of the lineup and so was Erv Dusak. With fellows like that out, we couldn't play good baseball. Now they're all in there. It isn't so much that new players we've got since then helping us as the old ones playing their game." . . . The Card manager checked himself to think things over a bit as he saw Ducky Medwick striding out to take hitting practice. . . . "That fellow has been a lot of help," he admitted. "He gives me another right-hand hitter to put in there against lefties—and he's a great competitor."

No Students

Al Ennis, genial general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, submits this preliminary report on his club's training season: We will go to camp with approximately 57 men, sound in wind and limb and guaranteed to be graduated minima-cum laude from various institutions of higher learning." . . . Educationally, that seems to put the Eagles ahead.

Sportspourri

Bruce Drake, Oklahoma U. golf and basketball coach, figures the N. C. A. A. will have to adopt some sort of sectional golf preliminary in fairness to the good players in the big championship . . . "Why should a team be limited to six players if it has more good ones in order to make room for some boys who aren't so good?" Bruce asks . . . Waite Hoyt, the Cincinnati sportscaster, earns almost twice as much as he did in his best years as a major league pitcher. Who said actions speak louder than words?

Other Fish To Fry

Les Hickey, who tangles with rough, tough male opposition playing hockey for the Buffalo Bisons, got nothing but the fishy eye when he tried angling in opposition to his missus . . . On a recent trip to Clear Lake, Manitoba, Mrs. Hickey carried off prizes for catching the biggest fish and the most fish; Les took the award for landing the smallest fish.

Week-End Items

The Los Angeles Rams plans to use Ohio State's Les Horvath, 1944 Heisman trophy winner, as a part-time quarterback and part-time halfback. Les never has played quarter under the "T" . . . disagreeing with a Florida jurist who held that a horse race is not a "dangerous instrumentality," the Miami Herald's Jimmy Burns suggests: "Maybe Judge Wisehart never tried to pick a horse like Ripey to win the Kentucky Derby."

CLARKS OUTLASTS WINNSBORO, 9 TO 7

WINNSBORO, La., July 12.—(Special)—Outlasting the Winnsboro Red Sox in an overtime exhibition battle here last night, the Clarks Lumberjacks, North Louisiana League rivals, defeated the Sox, 9 to 7, in the twelfth inning at Memorial Park.

Delcoure's home run with a mate on base in the first inning started the Lumberjacks off, but they were soon overhauled by the Red Sox who led, 7-3, going into the seventh inning.

Clarks scored twice in the seventh and knotted the score with single runs in the eighth and ninth.

Then in the twelfth, with one out, Tom Perry singled for Clarks. Scott was hit by a pitched ball, and Thompson went out to first on a play that advanced the runners. Dalton Boyd, Clarks pitcher, then won his own ball game with a single that scored Perry and Scott.

Delcoure, in addition to his homer, also got three singles. Perry was also high among Lumberjack batters with three singles and a double. Buck Hollis led the Winnsboro offensive with three singles.

CHARGING YANKS SWEEP TWIN BILL FROM BROWNIES

Red Sox Climb Back Into Second Place With 2-0 Shutout Of Tigers

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—(AP)—Clouting two homers in the first game and three in the second, the American League's front-running New York Yankees crushed the St. Louis Browns, 12-2 and 8-5, today to run their winning streak to 12 games.

Joe DiMaggio and Billy Johnson each cracked three run homers in the opener as the Yanks walloped four St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits.

INDIANS, A'S SPLIT 2

CLEVELAND, July 12.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians clung to fourth place in the American League race today by salvaging the second game of a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, after dropping the opener, 4 to 2.

Ed Klieman, who relieved Starter Les Willis in the fifth inning of the afterpiece, gained his first decision of the season, holding the Mackmen scoreless the rest of the way. Jesse Flores earned his fourth victory in the opener although he needed aid from Bob Savage in the ninth.

SEMI-PRO LOOP RIVALRY GROWS

North Louisiana Has Important Games Today At Oak Grove, Columbia, Jena

The tightening North Louisiana League race, in which even the tail-end clubs are being given more attention on late winning performances, has three more top-notch games on tap for today at Jena, Oak Grove, and Columbia.

Winnsboro, sharing the league lead with Jena, sets its power against Manager P. R. Thaxton's fast climbing Oak Grove charges who have won their last two games by margins of 24 runs and triumphed in five of their last six contests. The revived Oak Grove cellar-dwellers, now just two games out of fourth place, are bidding to add the Red Sox to their growing list of victims.

Manager E. C. Hinton takes his Olla Tigers to Jena in a battle of first division clubs with the Bengals striving to knock the LaSalle Oilers down a notch in the league standings. If both Winnsboro and Jena should lose today, Olla would be back within one game of the lead.

A battle expected to attract lots of attention and the real headliner of the day as far as Caldwell parish is concerned will come up at Columbia between the Ramblers and Clarks Lumberjacks.

Right now the charges of Manager Ray Spicer, Columbia, and Skipper F. M. Steely, Clarks, are deadlocked for fourth place in the league standings, and the goal of every club in the circuit quartet will make the title playoffs beginning August 10. Clarks has held on to the No. 4 slot all season, but the Ramblers have lately been matching Oak Grove in comebacks and are regarded as a definite threat to displace the Lumberjacks.

Final rosters for the league's six clubs were submitted the past week, and the players who will finish out the season with the contending outfits are:

Olla: James Davis, Truman Hayes, "Lefty" Counts, Dick Elliott, Jim Bob Elliott, E. C. Hinton, "Speedy" Morrison, Major Sims, Watson Lindsey, "Hot" Whitten, Bobby Corbin, "Lefty" Burnett, Glen Tannehill, Rufus Yossett, Don Holloman, Bill Thaxton, Willard Ethridge, C. Guinn, Bruce Goff, Ike Dumas, and Ed Ludman.

Oak Grove: Harrelson, Tone, Doodle Harper, Husbands, Chadwick, Dace Davis, William "Babe" Benning, P. R. Thaxton, Jesse Harrison, Pennington, Scott, Martin, Hardy Holley, George Ruddick, Reynolds, Leon Langston, Jim Lindsey, Pete Crane, Bing Hale, and Qdis Godsberry.

YANKEE VALOR CONQUERS On TRUST AT HOLLYWOOD

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 12.—(AP)—Hard-hitting Yankee Valor ran away with the $50,000 Hollywood Derby today, whipping the favored On Trust and eight other three-year-olds in the seventh running of the event before 38,657 fans at Hollywood Park.

The even money favorite, On Trust, ran second with three lengths of daylight between him and the Yankee boy, and Stepfather was third in a photo finish for the runner-up positions.

The Yankee, ridden for the second straight time by Noel Richardson, paid $12.50, $4.10 and $2.70. On Trust paid $2.80 and $2.30, and Stepfather, Harry M. Warner's $200,000 colt, paired as an entry with Capt. Flagg, who ran fourth, paid $2.50.

FIFTH BOXING FATALITY OF YEAR OCCURS WHEN BENNY CLEVELAND DIES

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—(AP)—Bantamweight Benny Cleveland, 21-year-old Los Angeles boxer, died today, some 18 hours after he was injured in a preliminary bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Cleveland, 118-pound Navajo Indian scrapper making his second professional start, died in Presbyterian Hospital without regaining consciousness. He had collapsed in his dressing room shortly after dropping a four-round decision to Bob Adame of Los Angeles.

He was the fifth boxer to die from ring injuries in the United States this year. Eleven ring fatalities were listed in 1946.

The most recent, and most prominent previous fatality was the death of Jimmie Doyle, another Los Angeles fighter, following a welterweight title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson June 25 in Cleveland, O.

Other victims:

Travis Hudson, West Monroe, La., amateur; Tony Sconzo, Brooklyn amateur; and J. T. Horton, following a navy amateur bout at Long Beach, Calif.

FOREST CLUB WINS W. O. W. SOFTBALL

Captains of Uniform Rank Companies from Omaha, Nebr., Johnston City, Ill., Forest, La. and Leesburg, Miss., were called to the reviewing stand preceding the retreat parade at the Woodmen of the World district encampment, Thursday afternoon, at Camp Couchdale, near Hot Springs, and present trophies and ribbons as winners in the encampment's athletic events.

The Omaha company's volleyball team from Company B, first regiment, Nebraska, won a hotly contested finals match from a fast Johnston City, Ill., sextet representing Company F, 87th Regiment, Illinois. The champions received a gold trophy and the runners-up, an embossed ribbon.

The softball team of Company E, 14th regiment, Forest, La., kept up its fast pace shown in the preliminary and semi-finals round of the tournament to capture the softball championship from Company G, 18th regiment, Leesburg, Miss., by a score of 4 to 3. They were awarded the gold trophy, and the Leesburg runner-up team, the ribbon in the retreat presentation ceremonies.

In the game deciding the 1947 encampment champions, both teams chalked up on seven hits and played airtight ball.

Members of the championship team from Forest, La. are: Capt. H. C. Vaughn, 1b; J. Staphan, 2b; Corp. H. K. Rogers, 3b; First Lt. C. H. Jones, ss; Sgt. W. L. Blackburn, lf; Lieut. R. Ross, cf; J. Yates, rf; F. McLain, pitcher; C. Rider, catcher, and H. P. O'Neal, substitute fielder. Jones tallied a home run, Vaughn and Yates each 3-baggers; Ross, a double, and K. Rogers, Blackburn and McLain, singles.

All members of the Uniform Rank companies as well as the society's 395,000 members throughout the country are awaiting the showing of a color film of all activities at the Camp Couchdale encampment that was made Thursday. The film will show floor work and ritualistic exercises performed by the crack teams and officers from the Omaha, Lake Charles, La., and Johnston City, Ill. Woodmen camps, the retreat parade, athletic contests, swimming and other recreation enjoyed by the Uniform Rankers here.

The film will be made available to the state managers of the Woodmen Society for showing at Woodmen camp meetings throughout the country, W. C. Braden, national secretary and commanding general of the Uniform Rank, said.

DAVIDSON FRESHMAN 1ST IN MID-DIXIE TENNIS MEET

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 12.—(AP)—Second seeded Bo Roddey of Charlotte, 18-year-old Davidson College freshman, won the 16th annual Mid-Dixie Tennis Tournament singles championship here today by defeating unseeded Major Tom Bonner of Jackson, Miss., 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Leslie Longshore, Anniston, Ala., and Harcourt Waters, New Orleans, defeated Roddey and Bob Spurrier of Charlotte, 9-7, 7-5, 7-5, in the doubles.

DODGERS BOOST LEAD WITH TWIN WIN OVER CUBS

Brooks Run Victory String To Six With 7-2 And 6-5 Wins; Cards Triumph

BROOKLYN, July 12.—(AP)—The high flying Brooklyn Dodgers boosted their winning streak to six games and stretched their National League lead to three-and-one-half games today by sweeping a double header from the Chicago Cubs, 7-2 and 6-5.

After Joe Hatten subdued the Cubs on seven safeties in the opener, the battling Brooks came from behind by scoring twice in each of the last two frames to take the nightcap with Carl Furillo driving in the winning run with a two-out single.

CARDS KEEP CLIMBING

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—The surging St. Louis Cardinals pulled to within two percentage points of the third place New York Giants today by clipping the New Yorkers, 4-0 and 11-3, before a paid gathering of 41,645 fans.

Little Murry Dickson stopped the slugging Giants with one hit in the opener, Ernie Lombardi's single in the second inning.

PLAN TO ENLARGE TULANE STADIUM TO 80,000 SEATS

Open Bond Sale Next Week For Necessary Additions To Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—(Special)—Plans to increase the seating capacity and improve Tulane Stadium for the Sugar Bowl football classic through a $500,000.00 debenture bond issue were announced today by President Sam Corenswet, of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association.

The addition will increase the capacity of the Sugar Bowl to more than 80,000 permanent reserved and box seats, and will give New Orleans one of the five largest football stadiums in the nation, Corenswet said.

Sale of the bond issue will open July 21st and close August 9, 1947. Bonds will be in denomination of $100.00, and each will carry a privilege to purchase two east or west side stand tickets to the Sugar Bowl beginning with the classic on January 1, 1948.

Ten thousand tickets will be available for purchasers of the new bond issue.

The enlargement and improvements planned include 12,000 seats to be added by double-decking and extending the the North Side stands, installation of permanent box seats and portal box seats, erection of electric scoreboards, and such other additions as funds will permit.

Work on the improvements will begin in early 1948, and should be completed for the January 1, 1949 classic.

Corenswet's announcement follows: "The New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl has decided to increase and improve its stadium facilities at Tulane University in order to maintain the high standard of its attraction and to enable a greater number of fans to attend the annual New Year's Day classic.

"A $500,000.00 debenture bond issue willq be sold to meet the costs of the additions and improvements, and the public is invited to purchase these bonds to assure themselves seats and to enable the association to continue its leadership.

"Our architect estimates the additions will increase the permanent seating capacity to more than 80,000 resrerved and box seats, and give New Orleans one of the five largest football stadiums in the nation. In addition we will have room for thousands of temporary or bleacher seats.

"The bonds will be in $100.00 denomination and with each $100.00 bond will go the privilege of purchasing two tickets in the east or west side stands for the January 1, 1948 classic and annually thereafter during the life of the bond issue.

"A total of 10,000 east and west side stand tickets have been reserved for purchasers of this new bond issue.

"Sale of the debenture bonds will open July 21st and close August 9, 1947 and will be conducted by our bond sales committee headed by Chairman Jos. B. David.

"Subscription blanks are available through any member of the association, or upon application to the Sugar Bowl office, Room 408 International Building, 611 Gravier street.

THREE SOFTBALL GAMES SCHEDULED HERE TODAY

A softball triple header, featuring five Monroe clubs and a Shreveport outfit, has been scheduled for this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk Grammar School diamond.

Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, leaders of the Girls' League here, appear in the feature game of the afternoon against the Southern Bell aggregation of Shreveport.

Two local independent softball clubs, the Jaycees, and Brice's Market, will open the program, and the girls' contest will follow at 3 o'clock. Appearing in the final game, scheduled to begin at 4:30 o'clock, will be Spatafora's Pharmacy, City League leaders, and their league rival, Cooperative Dairies.

Be sure umbrellas are thoroughly dry before they are folded and put away or they are likely to mildew.

ASSAULT SCORES IN BUTLER; LEADS AS PURSE WINNER

Clubfooted Texas Comet Displaces Stymie To Earn Well Over $600,000

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—Assault took back the world money-winning championship today that Stymie borrowed from him last week by picking up what amounted to the entire grand stand and clubhouse and carrying it home in the Butler Handicap at Jamaica.

And if there was any lingering doubt that the clubfoot comet from Texas had moved from the "good race horse" league into the "great" class, it was erased completely and for keeps this time. He gave Stymie all the best of it in the weights and the running, fought his way to the front after twice being blocked off, and still had enough left to hang on to the wire in a fierce, fighting stretch struggle. Gallorette finished third.

Topping the back-breaking load of 135 pounds—more than any other horse has ever hauled to victory in the Butler—the terror from Texas rolled in just a short neck in front of Stymie to become the first galloper t oboost his bankroll over the $600,000 mark.

The $36,700 the cashier handed him for this mile-and-three-sixteenths meander gave him $613,370 for his three seasons of racing. And the manner in whic hhe came on to win made it look as if that up-to-now unheard of cash balance is only the beginning.

The 32,395 cash customers had backed him down to $2.90, $2.20 and $2.10 although only a week ago Stymie had set a track record at Delaware in taking the money-winning championship from his one-time Texas playmate.

CINDERELLA SPORTS FACE CROSSETT NEGROES TODAY

The Cinderella Sports, Monroe Negro semi-pro baseball club, and the Crossett Tigers, leading Arkansas Negro club., clash here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Casino Park.

B. B. Reed, of the visitors, has notified local club officials that the Tigers will be bidding for victory in a big way today since a win would give them a record of three games better than any other Arkansas Negro club.

But Secretary Dunn, of the Sports, has declared the game is equally important to his Cinderellas in their own state, and that the Monroe club, greatly strengthened, will be out to hand the invaders a setback.

Special seats have been reserved for white fans.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have come east to hammer away at the three clubs that are ahead of them in the National League race and Manager Eddie Dyer, for one, isn't surprised that they're within shooting distance of the top after the miserable start they got this spring . . . "On our first eastern trip," says Eddie, "Stan Musial was sick with appendicitis; Terry Moore was out of the lineup and so was Erv Dusak. With fellows like that out, we couldn't play good baseball. Now they're all in there. It isn't so much that new players we've got since then helping us as the old ones playing their game." . . . The Card manager checked himself to think things over a bit as he saw Ducky Medwick striding out to take hitting practice. . . . "That fellow has been a lot of help," he admitted. "He gives me another right-hand hitter to put in there against lefties—and he's a great competitor."

No Students

Al Ennis, genial general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, submits this preliminary report on his club's training season: We will go to camp with approximately 57 men, sound in wind and limb and guaranteed to be graduated minima-cum laude from various institutions of higher learning." . . . Educationally, that seems to put the Eagles ahead.

Sportspourri

Bruce Drake, Oklahoma U. golf and basketball coach, figures the N. C. A. A. will have to adopt some sort of sectional golf preliminary in fairness to the good players in the big championship . . . "Why should a team be limited to six players if it has more good ones in order to make room for some boys who aren't so good?" Bruce asks . . . Waite Hoyt, the Cincinnati sportscaster, earns almost twice as much as he did in his best years as a major league pitcher. Who said actions speak louder than words?

Other Fish To Fry

Les Hickey, who tangles with rough, tough male opposition playing hockey for the Buffalo Bisons, got nothing but the fishy eye when he tried angling in opposition to his missus . . . On a recent trip to Clear Lake, Manitoba, Mrs. Hickey carried off prizes for catching the biggest fish and the most fish; Les took the award for landing the smallest fish.

Weak-End Items

The Los Angeles Rams plans to use Ohio State's Les Horvath, 1944 Heisman trophy winner, as a part-time quarterback and part-time halfback. Les never has played quarter under the "T" . . . disagreeing with a Florida jurist who held that a horse race is not a "dangerous instrumentality," the Miami Herald's Jimmy Burns suggests: "Maybe Judge Wiseheart never tried to pick a horse like Ripey to win the Kentucky Derby."

CLARKS OUTLASTS WINNSBORO, 9 TO 7

WINNSBORO, La., July 12.—(Special)—Outlasting the Winnsboro Red Sox in an overtime exhibition battle here last night, the Clarks Lumberjacks, North Louisiana League rivals, defeated the Sox, 9 to 7, in the twelfth inning at Memorial Park.

Delcoure's home run with a mate on base in the first inning started the Lumberjacks off, but they were soon overhauled by the Rex Sox who led, 7-3, going into the seventh inning.

Clarks scored twice in the seventh and knotted the score with single runs in the eighth and ninth.

Then in the twelfth, with one out, Tom Perry singled for Clarks. Scott was hit by a pitched ball, and Thompson went out to first on a play that advanced the runners. Dalton Boyd, Clarks pitcher, then won his own ball game with a single that scored Perry and Scott.

Delcoure, in addition to his homer, also got three singles. Perry was also high among Lumberjack batters with three singles and a double. Buck Hollis led the Winnsboro offensive with three singles.

CHARGING YANKS SWEEP TWIN BILL FROM BROWNIES

Red Sox Climb Back Into Second Place With 2-0 Shutout Of Tigers

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—(AP)—Clouting two homers in the first game and three in the second, the American League's front-running New York Yankees crushed the St. Louis Browns, 12-2 and 8-5, today to run their winning streak to 12 games.

Joe DiMaggio and Billy Johnson each cracked three run homersin the opener as the Yanks walloped four St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits.

INDIANS, A'S SPLIT 2

CLEVELAND, July 12.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians clung to fourth place in the American League race today by salvaging the second game of a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, after dropping the opener, 4 to 2.

Ed Klieman, who relieved Starter Les Willis in the fifth inning of the afterpiece, gained his first decision of the season, holding the Mackmen scoreless the rest of the way. Jesse Flores earned his fourth victory in the opener although he needed aid from Bob Savage in the ninth.

SEMI-PRO LOOP RIVALRY GROWS

North Louisiana Has Important Games Today At Oak Grove, Columbia, Jena

The tightening North Louisiana League race, in which even the tail-end clubs are being given more attention on late winning performances, has three more top-notch games on tap for today at Jena, Oak Grove, and Columbia.

Winnsboro, sharing the league lead with Jena, tests its power against Manager P. R. Thaxton's fast climbing Oak Grove charges who have won their last two games by margins of 24 runs and triumphed in five of their last six contests. The revived Oak Grove cellar-dwellers, now just two games out of fourth place, are bidding to add the Red Sox to their growing list of victims.

Manager E. C. Hinton takes his Olla Tigers to Jena in a battle of first division clubs with the Bengals striving to knock the LaSalle Oilers down a notch in the league standings. If both Winnsboro and Jena should lose today, Olla would be back within one game of the lead.

A battle expected to attract lots of attention and the real headliner of the day as far as Caldwell parish is concerned will come up at Columbia between the Ramblers and Clarks Lumberjacks.

Right now the charges of Manager Ray Spicer, Columbia, and Skipper F. M. Steely, Clarks, are deadlocked for fourth place in the league standings, and the goal of every club in the circuit quartet will make the title playoffs beginning August 10. Clarks has held on to the No. 4 slot all season, but the Ramblers have lately been matching Oak Grove in comebacks and are regarded as a definite threat to displace the Lumberjacks.

Final rosters for the league's six clubs were submitted the past week, and the players who will finish out the season with the contending outfits are:

Columbia: Eddie Bowles, Robert Brasher, Demon Garner, E. J. Albritton, Frosty McReynolds, Junior Mears, Ray Spicer, Dan Pickens, Bob Ledbetter, Ed Stroud, Bob Kilpatrick, Andre Sarraille, Nick Inzina, M. Bishop, Vaughan Payne, Herbert Branch, Jack Venable, Ted Howard, Billy Simms, Henry Reynolds, and Jack Smith.

Olla: James Davis, Truman Mayes, "Lefty" Counts, Dick Elliott, Jim Bob Elliott, E. C. Hinton, "Speedy" Morrison, Major Sims, Watson Lindsey, "Hot" Whitten, Bobby Corbin, "Lefty" Burnett, Glen Tannehill, Rufus Yossett, Don Holloman, Bill Thaxton, Willard Ethridge, C. Guinn, Bruce Goff, Ike Dumas, and Ed Ludman.

Oak Grove: Harrelson, Tone, Doodle Harper, Husbands, Chadwick, Dace Davis, William "Babe" Benning, P. R. Thaxton, Jesse Harrison, Pennington, Scott, Martin, Hardy Holley, George Ruddick, Reynolds, Leon Langston, Jim Lindsey, Pete Crane, Bing Hale, and Qdis Godsberry.

YANKEE VALOR CONQUERS On TRUST AT HOLLYWOOD

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 12.—(AP)—Hard-hitting Yankee Valor ran away with the $50,000 Hollywood Derby today, whipping the favored On Trust and eight other three-year-olds in the seventh running of the event before 38,657 fans at Hollywood Park.

The even money favorite, On Trust, ran second with three lengths of daylight between him and the Yankee boy, and Stepfather was third in a photo finish for the runner-up positions.

The Yankee, ridden for the second straight time by Noel Richardson, paid $12.50, $4.10 and $2.70. On Trust paid $2.80 and $2.30, and Stepfather, Harry M. Warner's $200,000 colt, paired as an entry with Capt. Flagg, who ran fourth, paid $2.50.

FIFTH BOXING FATALITY OF YEAR OCCURS WHEN BENNY CLEVELAND DIES

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—(AP)—Bantamweight Benny Cleveland, 21-year-old Los Angeles boxer, died today, some 18 hours after he was injured in a preliminary bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Cleveland, 118-pound Navajo Indian scrapper making his second professional start, died in Presbyterian Hospital without regaining consciousness. He had collapsed in his dressing room shortly after dropping a four-round decision to Bob Adame of Los Angeles.

He was the fifth boxer to die from ring injuries in the United States this year. Eleven ring fatalities were listed in 1946.

The most recent, and most prominent previous fatality was the death of Jimmie Doyle, another Los Angeles fighter, following a welterweight title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson June 25 in Cleveland, O.

Other victims:

Travis Hudson, West Monroe, La., amateur; Tony Sconzo, Brooklyn amateur; and J. T. Horton, following a navy amateur bout at Long Beach, Calif.

FOREST CLUB WINS W. O. W. SOFTBALL

Captains of Uniform Rank Companies from Omaha, Nebr., Johnston City, Ill., Forest, La. and Leesburg, Miss., were called to the reviewing stand preceding the retreat parade at the Woodmen of the World district encampment, Thursday afternoon, at Camp Couchdale, near Hot Springs, and present trophies and ribbons as winners in the encampment's athletic events.

The Omaha company's volleyball team from Company B, first regiment, Nebraska, won a hotly contested finals match from a fast Johnston City, Ill. sextet representing Company F, 87th Regiment, Illinois. The champions received a gold trophy and the runners-up, an embossed ribbon.

The softball team of Company E, 14th regiment, Forest, La., kept up its fast pace shown in the preliminary and semi-finals round of the tournament to capture the softball championship from Company G, 18th regiment, Leesburg, Miss., by a score of 4 to 3. They were awarded the gold trophy, and the Leesburg runner-up team, the ribbon in the retreat presentation ceremonies.

In the game deciding the 1947 encampment champions, both teams chalked up on seven hits and played airtight ball.

Members of the championship team from Forest, La. are: Capt. H. C. Vaughn, 1b; J. Staphan, 2b; Corp. H. K. Rogers, 3b; First Lt. C. H. Jones, ss; Sgt. W. L. Blackburn, lf; Lieut. R. Ross, cf; J. Yates, rf; F. McLain, pitcher; C. Rider, catcher, and H. P. O'Neal, substitute fielder. Jones tallied a home run, Vaughan and Yates each 3-baggers; Ross, a double, and K. Rogers, Blackburn and McLain, singles.

All members of the Uniform Rank organization as well as the society's 395,000 members throughout the country are awaiting the showing of a color film of all activities at the Camp Couchdale encampment that was made Thursday. The film will show floor work and ritualistic exercises performed by the crack teams and officers from the Omaha, Lake Charles, La., and Johnston City, Ill. Woodmen camps, the retreat parade, athletic contests, swimming and other recreation enjoyed by the Uniform Rankers here.

The film will be made available to the state managers of the Woodmen Society for showing at Woodmen camp meetings throughout the country, W. C. Braden, national secretary and commanding general of the Uniform Rank, said.

DAVIDSON FRESHMAN 1ST IN MID-DIXIE TENNIS MEET

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 12.—(AP)—Second seeded Bo Roddey of Charlotte, 18-year-old Davidson College freshman, won the 16th annual Mid-Dixie Tennis Tournament singles championship here today by defeating unseeded Major Tom Bonner of Jackson, Miss., 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Leslie Longshore, Anniston, Ala., and Harcourt Waters, New Orleans, defeated Roddey and Bob Spurrier of Charlotte, 9-7, 7-5, 7-5, in the doubles.

DODGERS BOOST LEAD WITH TWIN WIN OVER CUBS

Brooks Run Victory String To Six With 7-2 And 6-5 Wins; Cards Triumph

BROOKLYN, July 12.—(AP)—The high flying Brooklyn Dodgers boosted their winning streak to six games and stretched their National League lead to three-and-one-half games today by sweeping a double header from the Chicago Cubs, 7-2 and 6-5.

After Joe Hatten subdued the Cubs on seven safeties in the opener, the battling Brooks came from behind by scoring twice in each of the last two frames to take the nightcap with Carl Furillo driving in the winning run with a two-out single.

PLAN TO ENLARGE TULANE STADIUM TO 80,000 SEATS

Open Bond Sale Next Week For Necessary Additions To Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—(Special)—Plans to increase the seating capacity and improve Tulane Stadium for the Sugar Bowl football classic through a $500,000.00 debenture bond issue were announced today by President Sam Corenswet, of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association.

The addition will increase the capacity of the Sugar Bowl to more than 80,000 permanent reserved and box seats, and will give New Orleans one of the five largest football stadiums in the nation, Corenswet said.

Sale of the bond issue will open July 21st and close August 9, 1947. Bonds will be in denomination of $100.00, and each will carry a privilege to purchase two east or west side stand tickets to the Sugar Bowl beginning with the classic on January 1, 1948.

Ten thousand tickets will be available for purchasers of the new bond issue.

The enlargement and improvements planned include 12,000 seats to be added by double-decking and extending the the North Side stands, installation of permanent box seats and portal box seats, erection of electric scoreboards, and such other additions as funds will permit.

Work on the improvements will begin in early 1948, and should be completed for the January 1, 1949 classic.

Corenswet's announcement follows:

"The New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of the Sugar Bowl has decided to increase and improve its stadium facilities at Tulane University in order to maintain the high standard of its attraction and to enable a greater number of fans to attend the annual New Year's Day classic.

"A $500,000.00 debenture bond issue willq be sold to meet the costs of the additions and improvements, and the public is invited to purchase these bonds to assure themselves seats and to enable the association to continue its leadership.

"Our architect estimates the additions will increase the permanent seating capacity to more than 80,000 reserved and box seats, and give New Orleans one of the five largest football stadiums in the nation. In addition we will have room for thousands of temporary or bleacher seats.

"The bonds will be in $100.00 denomination and with each $100.00 bond will go the privilege of purchasing two tickets in the east or west side stands for the January 1, 1948 classic and annually thereafter during the life of the bond issue.

"A total of 10,000 east and west side stand tickets have been reserved for purchasers of this new bond issue.

"Sale of the debenture bonds will open July 21st and close August 9, 1947 and will be conducted by our bond sales committee headed by Chairman Jos. B. David.

"Subscription blanks are available through any member of the association, or upon application to the Sugar Bowl office, Room 408 International Building, 611 Gravier street.

THREE SOFTBALL GAMES SCHEDULED HERE TODAY

A softball triple header, featuring five Monroe clubs and a Shreveport outfit, has been scheduled for this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk Grammar School diamond.

Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, leaders of the Girls' League here, appear in the feature game of the afternoon against the Southern Bell aggregation of Shreveport.

Two local independent softball clubs, the Jaycees and Brice's Market, will open the program, and the girls' contest will follow at 3 o'clock. Appearing in the final game, scheduled to begin at 4:30 o'clock, will be Spatafora's Pharmacy, City League leaders, and their league rival, Cooperative Dairies.

HOGAN, DEMARET HOLDING LEAD IN INVERNESS GOLF

Favorites Suffer First Loss In Five Matches But Hold 5-Point Margin

TOLEDO, O., July 12.—(AP)—Defending champions Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret suffered their first defeat in five matches today, losing one up to National Open Champion Lew Worsham and Johnny Palmer, but they clung to the lead for the top prize of $3,000 in the Inverness best-ball matches with a "plus 13" score.

That gave them a five-point edge over Ellsworth Vines and Clayton Heafner who surged to a six-up victory over former National Open kings Lawson Little and Lloyd Mangrum.

With the final two matches in the $10,000 best ball classic due tomorrow. It looked like a fight right down to the wire. Hogan-Demaret are favored to repeat since they meet two of the second division twosomes while Vines and Heafner must dispose of Ed Furgol and George Schoux, who are in third places after playing the tourney's most sensational golf.

The Vines-Heafner duo has a "plus 8" rating after winning four matches and losing a four-down decision to Demaret-Hogan, while Furgol-Schoux have "plus 7" despite a three-down defeat at the hands of the leaders. Worsham-Palmer are next with plus one, having won three matches by a single hole, and losing two by the same margin.

Back of the leaders the standings as they go into Sunday's final matches was: Herman Barron-Herman Keiser, minus 4; Sam Snead-Cary Middlecoff minus 5, Vic Ghezzi-Ed Oliver, minus 8, and Mangrum-Little, who have lost four of five matches, minus 12.

STONEWALL BOWS OUT OF MEET AS VICKSBURG WINS

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 12.—(AP)—Fast, well-played games were the order of the day here this afternoon as the Vicksburg Letourneaus, Hattiesburg Semi-Pros and Knox Glass of Jackson chalked up close victories in the Mississippi State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament.

Vicksburg, loser of its opener Friday, came back to down Stonewall, 4-3, and knock the latter nine out of the double elimination tourney. Stonewall also suffered a Friday defeat.

The Hattiesburg Semi-Pros nipped Bassfield 2-1 as Johnny McGowan bested Lefty Gardner in a tight pitchers' duel and Knox Glass pushed across a pair of runs in the first half of the tenth inning to trip Silver City, 4-2.

Fred Morrison's first inning double with the bases loaded, driving in three runs, was the big blow in Vicksburg's triumph. John Beauman struck out 11 men in limiting Stonewall to seven hits.

Errorless support behind McGowan's five-hit pitching was too much for Bassfield. Hattiesburg, scored its two runs in the seventh on a base on balls. A double by E. V. Anderson, a single by C. B. Ramsey and Pitcher Gardner's own miscue. Gardner allowed six safeties.

An error, Jim MacCloud's long triple to center and an outfield fly netted Knox Glass its two tenth inning runs against Silver City. The winners were outhit, 9-7, but Al Eckert kept the Silver City blows well scattered.

Bassfield meets Silver City and the Hattiesburg Yellow Cabs tackle Purvis Sunday. Play will be resumed Tuesday and continued through the following Sunday when finals are scheduled.

Twin City Legion Juniors Launch Regional Playoff At Shreveport

First Game Of State Quarter-Finals Tuesday; Bluebyrds Here Thursday

Manager Pete Medak of the Monroe-West Monroe American Legion Junior baseball club, Fifth District champions, last night said the regional series with the Shreveport Bluebyrds would open Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Shreveport.

The second game of the series is scheduled to be played at Casino Park here Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Shreveport also drew the third game, scheduled for Friday, but it was reported here last night that members of the executive committee of the American Legion, opening its state department convention here this week, were seeking to have a possible third game brought to Monroe as a feature of its convention.

The winner of the Monroe-Shreveport series will qualify for the state semi-finals. Last season the Twin City boys were eliminated by the Queensborough Cardinals of Shreveport who were beaten out by the Bluebyrds in the Fourth District semi-final playoff recently.

Monroe-West Monroe, after winning the West League championship of this district, defeated Rayville's East League champions in two straight games for the right to meet the Shreveport aggregation which beat out Minden in the Fourth District finals.

BOSOX BLANK BENGALS

DETROIT, July 12.—(AP)—Earl Johnson pitched the Boston Red Sox into second place in the American League by shutting out the Detroit Tigers, previous occupants, 2-0 today. Johnson, making his first start of the season after serving in relief roles, held Detroit to six hits. The tall right-hander singled in one Boston run and Dom DiMaggio homered for the other.

REMATCH CRAIG, STEELE IN TITLE BATTLE TUESDAY

Commissioner Tells Sioux City He Can Have Crown When He Wins

The wrestling feud between George Craig, Tulsa, Okla., and Jack "Stinger" Steele, Sioux City, Iowa, blossoms anew here Tuesday night when they appear in a return engagement at Gus Kallio's Arena for the purpose of settling the disputed Louisiana light heavyweight mat crown which was confiscated by Commissioner Dave Silverstein last week when he refused to give the belt to Steele following his triumph over Craig, the defending champ.

Steele, who has twice attempted to relieve Craig of the belt, threatened to file suit against the commissioner in an effort to claim the best, but Commissioner Silverstein maintained the Sioux City bad man had not won the title fairly and refused to return it to Craig or surrender it to Steele.

The Iowa grappler, according to Promoter Kallio, objected to a return match with Craig, declaring that he would come here, however, if he could appear as the recognized champion.

Kallio advised Commissioner Silverstein of Steele's ambitions, but the commissioner said he would not recognize him.

"If I let him get away with this then you would be having this sort of trouble with your wrestlers al lthe time," Silverstein told Kallio. "But if Steele will come back and can beat Craig than I will gladly present him with the belt as champion of our state."

Advised late yesterday of the commissioner's stand, Steele accepted the match, Kallio reported.

The feud between Craig and Steele has been in progress for several weeks now, and the big brawl Tuesday is expected to attract the largest crowd of the summer season to Kallio's Walnut street arena.

The match will have a time limit of an hour and a half with two falls to win.

The supporting cast for the semi-final will include Indio Yaqui, the long-haired Mexican Indian, and George Curtis, Vicksburg, Miss.

Indio Yaqui proved quite a sensation in his first appearance here several weeks ago, and will give added color to Tuesday's show. George Curtis is the younger brother of Jack Curtis, world's light heavyweight champion.

The semi-final will have a time limit of one hour with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio also announced last night that he would referee the main event, and Bill Barney will handle the curtain-raiser.

ERRORS TRIP INDIANS

HOUMA, La., July 12.—(AP)—The humble Houma Indians outhit the Thibodaux Giants 15 to 9 here tonight but five errors cost them the game and the Giants won 11-10.

Leading 9-1 at the end of the fourth, victor yseemed assured the Indians but the Giants rallied and pushed across four runs in the fifth, one in the sixth, three in the seventh and two in the eighth to gain an 11-9 edge.

The Indians attempted an eighth inning rally but it was cut short after one score.

BERRIES DOWN A'S

ABBEVILLE, La., July 12.—(AP)—The Hammond Berries defeated the Abbeville Athletics 9-4 here tonight in a game in which the manager of each team belted out a homer.

Abbeville's first inning lead was quickly overcome by the Berries who put six runs across in the fourth frame to sew up the contest.

Moreman and Modica doubled for Hammond and Abbeville respectively, and Gill put over a triple for the Berries.

PARKER FINALLY LOSES IN SPRING LAKE TENNIS

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 12.—(AP)—The long reign of Frank Parker in the Spring Lake Invitation Tennis Tournament came to an end today when the third ranking player of the nation was upset in the semi-finals by fourth-seeded Eddie Moylan of San Francisco, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. The steady, 32-year old Los Angeles veteran had won the tourney in the nine times it had been held previously and had retired three cups in the process.

Moylan, ranked ninth nationally, spotted his heavily-favored opponent the first set and then staged a spectacular comeback to win the next two sets amid the cheers of a capacity crowd of upwards of 1,500 spectators.

The 24-year-old native of Trenton, now playing out of San Francisco, clinched his amazing form reversal when Parker double-faulted in the ninth game of the deciding set.

Moylan will meet Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., in the final round tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GEORGIA TECH MENTOR CONDEMNS GRID YANKS FOR 'SLICK' APPROACH

ATLANTA, July 12.—(AP)—Athletic Director W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech has sent a strongly-worded protest to the New York Yankees of the All-American Professional Football Conference and to Conference Commissioner Admiral Ingram on what he terms "a slick approach to tie up football players, still eligible for college competition, to the Yanks."

A contract for "a salary per season of $1" was sent to Tech Guard William Healey, who has two more years of eligibility, Alexander said. The contract, he added, was made out on a regular All-America player's form and signed and submitted by Ray Flaherty, Yankee coach, with a letter which stated:

"In order to hold you on our reserve list in the All-America Conference it is necessary to send you a contract for the 1947 season. Enclosed is a contract for $1 which will complete our obligation to stay in the league rules. You may disregard same."

"If Healey signed that contract," Alexander said, "it would make him a professional ineligible for further college play.

"Lots of young men will fall for the first paragraph. It is obviously a trick to sign as many unsuspecting college players as possible and sew them up for the Yankees. If it is in accordance with league regulations, it is one-sided and unfair."

PIET SCORES UPSET ARLINGTON VICTORY

CHICAGO, July 12.—(AP)—Piet, a little chestnut colt, whose father, Grand Slam, won the 1935 Arlington Futurity at odds of 32 to 1, galloped to an upset victory in the 1947 Futurity today, richest two-year-old event in 18 years, before a stunned crowd of 30,000 at Arlington Park.

The race, with a gross value of $81,800, was worth $66,900 to Charles B. Bohn and Peter Markey, Detroit industrialist and operator of a racing stable formerly known as the Bomar. Bohn and Markey also sent Grand Slam out to triumph in the 1935 Futurity. Today's pot was the races' richest purse.

The winner, going to the post at odds of 19 to 1, returned $40.00, $13.60 and $8.60.

Piet finished a half length ahead of Pinebloom, entry of Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., turfman.

Jockey Del Jessop was aboard the winner, which covered the six furlongs in 1:11 4/5.

Pinebloom appeared to be the winner until Piet, racing on the outside, came up with a rush after moving into third place on the stretch turn. In third place came Maine Chance Farm's Royal Blood.

BIG EIGHT LEAGUE

HODGE WIDENS LEAD

HODGE, La., July 12.—(Special)—Hodge widened its Big Eight League lead to a game and a half by defeating Farmerville, 6 to 1, here as the Ruston Vols were losing to Bernice.

Marvin "Dugan" Coleman notched his eighth win against one loss, giving up only six hits. Fred Clay, with a double and single, and Walter Ferro, with two singles, paced the Red Sox batters. D. E. Albritton, Farmerville first baseman, collected two doubles in three times at bat.

Jim Futch, of the visitors, allowed only seven hits, but six errors let in five unearned Hodge runs.

FRED HAAS SETS PACE AT PEORIA

New Orleans Star 8 Under Par As 19 Beat Course Standard First Round

PEORIA, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Clipping eight strokes off par with 33-31—64 for a course record, Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans sailed into the first round lead today of the 54-hole $5,000 Peoria Golf Open.

The regulation 36-36—72 for the 6,900-yard Newman Municipal course was broken by 19 players in the fast field. Haas counted nine birdies and went over par only once in beating the course mark of 65 set last year by Jim Ferrier, the newly-crowned P. G. A. champion and defending titlist of the Peoria meet, carded 72 today along with Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas.

Haas cinched the course record with a birdie 4 on the last hole. He reached the green in two shots and was down in two puts.

Trailing him by three strokes with a 617 was Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., four were tied at 68—Ky Lafoon of Chicago, Dutch Harrison of York, Pa., who started out with a birdie and eagle, and amateurs Gus Moreland of Peoria and John Barnum of Chicago.

The 36-hole windup will be tomorrow. First prize is $1,000.

Favorites Suffer First Loss In Five Matches But Hold 5-Point Margin

TOLEDO, O., July 12.—(AP)—Defending champions Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret suffered their first defeat in five matches today, losing one up to National Open Champion Lew Worsham and Johnny Palmer, but they clung to the lead for the top prize of $3,000 in the Inverness best-ball matches with a "plus 13" score.

That gave them a five-point edge over Ellsworth Vines and Clayton Heafner who surged to a six-up victory over former National Open kings Lawson Little and Lloyd Mangrum.

With the final two matches in the $10,000 best ball classic due tomorrow. It looked like a fight right down to the wire. Hogan-Demaret are favored to repeat since they meet two of the second division twosomes while Vines and Heafner must dispose of Ed Furgol and George Schoux, who are in third places after playing the tourney's most sensational golf.

The Vines-Heafner duo has a "plus 8" rating after winning four matches and losing a four-down decision to Demaret-Hogan, while Furgol-Schoux have "plus 7" despite a three-down defeat at the hands of the leaders. Worsham-Palmer are next with plus one, having won three matches by a single hole, and losing two by the same margin.

Back of the leaders the standings as they go into Sunday's final matches was: Herman Barron-Herman Keiser, minus 4; Sam Snead-Cary Middlecoff minus 5, Vic Ghezzi-Ed Oliver, minus 8, and Mangrum-Little, who have lost four of five matches, minus 12.

STONEWALL BOWS OUT OF MEET AS VICKSBURG WINS

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 12.—(AP)—Fast, well-played games were the order of the day here this afternoon as the Vicksburg Letourneaus, Hattiesburg Semi-Pros and Knox Glass of Jackson chalked up close victories in the Mississippi State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament.

Vicksburg, loser of its opener Friday, came back to down Stonewall, 4-3, and knock the latter nine out of the double elimination tourney. Stonewall also suffered a Friday defeat.

The Hattiesburg Semi-Pros nipped Bassfield 2-1 as Johnny McGowan bested Lefty Gardner in a tight pitchers' duel and Knox Glass pushed across a pair of runs in the first half of the tenth inning to trip Silver City, 4-2.

Fred Morrison's first inning double with the bases loaded, driving in three runs, was the big blow in Vicksburg's triumph. John Beauman struck out 11 men in limiting Stonewall to seven hits.

Errorless support behind McGowan's five-hit pitching was too much for Bassfield. Hattiesburg, scored its two runs in the seventh on a base on balls. A double by E. V. Anderson, a single by C. B. Ramsey and Pitcher Gardner's own miscue. Gardner allowed six safeties.

An error, Jim MacCloud's long triple to center and an outfield fly netted Knox Glass its two tenth inning runs against Silver City. The winners were outhit, 9-7, but Al Eckert kept the Silver City blows well scattered.

Bassfield meets Silver City and the Hattiesburg Yellow Cabs tackle Purv's Sunday. Play will be resumed Tuesday and continued through the following Sunday when finals are scheduled.

Twin City Legion Juniors Launch Regional Playoff At Shreveport

First Game Of State Quarter-Finals Tuesday; Bluebyrds Here Thursday

Manager Pete Medak of the Monroe-West Monroe American Legion Junior baseball club, Fifth District champions, last night said the regional series with the Shreveport Bluebyrds would open Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Shreveport.

The second game of the series is scheduled to be played at Casino Park here Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Shreveport also drew the third game, scheduled for Friday, but it was reported here last night that members of the executive committee of the American Legion, opening its state department convention here this week, were seeking to have a possible third game brought to Monroe as a feature of its convention.

The winner of the Monroe-Shreveport series will qualify for the state semi-finals. Last season the Twin City boys were eliminated by the Queensborough Cardinals of Shreveport who were beaten out by the Bluebyrds in the Fourth District semi-final playoff recently.

Monroe-West Monroe, after winning the West League championship of this district, defeated Rayville's East League champions in two straight games for the right to meet the Shreveport aggregation which beat out Minden in the Fourth District finals.

REMATCH CRAIG, STEELE IN TITLE BATTLE TUESDAY

Commissioner Tells Sioux City He Can Have Crown When He Wins

The wrestling feud between George Craig, Tulsa, Okla., and Jack "Stinger" Steele, Sioux City, Iowa, blossoms anew here Tuesday night when they appear in a return engagement at Gus Kallio's Arena for the purpose of settling the disputed Louisiana light heavyweight mat crown which was confiscated by Commissioner Dave Silverstein last week when he refused to give the belt to Steele following his triumph over Craig, the defending champ.

Steele, who has twice attempted to relieve Craig of the belt, threatened to file suit against the commissioner in an effort to claim the best, but Commissioner Silverstein maintained the Sioux City bad man had not won the title fairly and refused to return it to Craig or surrender it to Steele.

The Iowa grappler, according to Promoter Kallio, objected to a return match with Craig, declaring that he would come here, however, if he could appear as the recognized champion.

Kallio advised Commissioner Silverstein of Steele's ambitions, but the commissioner said he would not recognize him.

"If I let him get away with this then you would be having this sort of trouble with your wrestlers al lthe time," Silverstein told Kallio. "But if Steele will come back and can beat Craig than I will gladly present him with the belt as champion of our state."

Advised late yesterday of the commissioner's stand, Steele accepted the match, Kallio reported.

The feud between Craig and Steele has been in progress for several weeks now, and the big brawl Tuesday is expected to attract the largest crowd of the summer season to Kallio's Walnut street arena.

The match will have a time limit of an hour and a half with two falls to win.

The supporting cast for the semi-final will include Indio Yaqui, the long-haired Mexican Indian, and George Curtis, Vicksburg, Miss.

Indio Yaqui proved quite a sensation in his first appearance here several weeks ago, and will give added color to Tuesday's show. George Curtis is the younger brother of Jack Curtis, world's light heavyweight champion.

The semi-final will have a time limit of one hour with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio also announced last night that he would referee the main event, and Bill Barney will handle the curtain-raiser.

PARKER FINALLY LOSES IN SPRING LAKE TENNIS

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 12.—(AP)—The long reign of Frank Parker in the Spring Lake Invitation Tennis Tournament came to an end today when the third ranking player of the nation was upset in the semi-finals by fourth-seeded Eddie Moylan of San Francisco, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. The steady, 32-year old Los Angeles veteran had won the tourney in the nine times it had been held previously and had retired three cups in the process.

Moylan, ranked ninth nationally, spotted his heavily-favored opponent the first set and then staged a spectacular comeback to win the next two sets amid the cheers of a capacity crowd of upwards of 1,500 spectators.

The 24-year-old native of Trenton, now playing out of San Francisco, clinched his amazing form reversal when Parker double-faulted in the ninth game of the deciding set.

Moylan will meet Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., in the final round tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GEORGIA TECH MENTOR CONDEMNS GRID YANKS FOR 'SLICK' APPROACH

ATLANTA, July 12.—(AP)—Athletic Director W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech has sent a strongly-worded protest to the New York Yankees of the All-American Professional Football Conference and to Conference Commissioner Admiral Ingram on what he terms "a slick approach to tie up football players, still eligible for college competition, to the Yanks."

A contract for "a salary per season of $1" was sent to Tech Guard William Healey, who has two more years of eligibility, Alexander said. The contract, he added, was made out on a regular All-America player's form and signed and submitted by Ray Flaherty, Yankee coach, with a letter which stated:

"In order to hold you on our reserve list in the All-America Conference it is necessary to send you a contract for the 1947 season. Enclosed is a contract for $1 which will complete our obligation to stay in the league rules. You may disregard same."

"If Healey signed that contract," Alexander said, "it would make him a professional ineligible for further college play.

"Lots of young men will fall for the first paragraph. It is obviously a trick to sign as many unsuspecting college players as possible and sew them up for the Yankees. If it is in accordance with league regulations, it is one-sided and unfair."

PIET SCORES UPSET ARLINGTON VICTORY

CHICAGO, July 12.—(AP)—Piet, a little chestnut colt, whose father, Grand Slam, won the 1935 Arlington Futurity at odds of 32 to 1, galloped to an upset victory in the 1947 Futurity today, richest two-year-old event in 18 years, before a stunned crowd of 30,000 at Arlington Park.

The race, with a gross value of $81,800, was worth $66,900 to Charles B. Bohn and Peter Markey, Detroit industrialist and operator of a racing stable formerly known as the Bomar. Bohn and Markey also sent Grand Slam out to triumph in the 1935 Futurity. Today's pot was the races' richest purse.

The winner, going to the post at odds of 19 to 1, returned $40.00, $13.60 and $8.60.

Piet finished a half length ahead of Pinebloom, entry of Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., turfman.

Jockey Del Jessop was aboard the winner, which covered the six furlongs in 1:11 4/5.

Pinebloom appeared to be the winner until Piet, racing on the outside, came up with a rush after moving into third place on the stretch turn. In third place came Maine Chance Farm's Royal Blood.

BIG EIGHT LEAGUE

HODGE WIDENS LEAD

HODGE, La., July 12.—(Special)—Hodge widened its Big Eight League lead to a game and a half by defeating Farmerville, 6 to 1, here as the Ruston Vols were losing to Bernice.

Marvin "Dugan" Coleman notched his eighth win against one loss, giving up only six hits. Fred Clay, with a double and single, and Walter Ferro, with two singles, paced the Red Sox batters. D. E. Albritton, Farmerville first baseman, collected two doubles in three times at bat.

Jim Futch, of the visitors, allowed only seven hits, but six errors let in five unearned Hodge runs.

FRED HAAS SETS PACE AT PEORIA

New Orleans Star 8 Under Par As 19 Beat Course Standard First Round

PEORIA, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Clipping eight strokes off par with 33-31—64 for a course record, Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans sailed into the first round lead today of the 54-hole $5,000 Peoria Golf Open.

The regulation 36-36—72 for the 6,900-yard Newman Municipal course was broken by 19 players in the fast field. Haas counted nine birdies and went over par only once in beating the course mark of 65 set last year by Jim Ferrier, the newly-crowned P. G. A. champion and defending titlist of the Peoria meet, carded 72 today along with Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas.

Haas cinched the course record with a birdie 4 on the last hole. He reached the green in two shots and was down in two puts.

Trailing him by three strokes with a 617 was Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., four were tied at 68—Ky Lafoon of Chicago, Dutch Harrison of York, Pa., who started out with a birdie and eagle, and amateurs Gus Moreland of Peoria and John Barnum of Chicago.

The 36-hole windup will be tomorrow. First prize is $1,000.

he wanted to kill me." Bell also said Warden Worthy was half drunk."

The warden said he shot Bell in the leg when the convict charged him and tried to take his pistol.

Charles Veal, an Atlanta convict, also said the warden was drinking, and declared he heard the warden say to Willie Bell:

"Come out, Peewee, I want to kill you."

Howard Adams, an Atlanta convict, told the jury the warden began shooting with his pistol, and yelled to the other guards "Let 'em have it."

The coroner asked Remmer Basemore, a guard, if there wasn't time to yell "Holt" to the fleeing prisoners.

Guy McNabb, who said he shot a Negro going over the wire fence, declared that "I was trying to hit him in the legs."

J. L. Holmes, another guard, said Warden Worthy "talked and pleaded an hour or more trying to get the prisoners to quiet down."

Dave Golden, a Negro trusty in the camp prison, said he didn't hear the warden threaten to kill Bell.

"Bell," he testified, "has caused most of the trouble around here."

Warden W. N. McCann of the Folkston camp prison said 23 of the 27 Negroes were transferred recently from his camp to Brunswick.

"They were an unruly bunch, he said, "and I had to keep most of them in solitary confinement."

The inquest got under way at the Glynn county courthouse with Coroner Q. D. Baldwill presiding.

Watching developments was C. M. Moore, president of the local NAACP, who said many rumors were afloat concerning the killings. He did not elaborate.

"We are not upholding wilful law violators," said Moore, "but so many rumors have been current since this unfortunate affair, we feel that a full sifting of the incidents should be made."

Moore said he would ask Judge Gordon Knox of Glynn superior court to reconvene the grand jury, which is in recess, to make the investigation. U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark will be asked to "have appropriate representatives present."

In New York, Secretary Walter White of the NAACP said he had sent a telegram to Clark, urging an investigation. He said that "preliminary reports from our investigations indicate no justification for shooting."

Warden Worthy asserted that the fatal melee was preceded by a four-hour strike of Negroes assigned to a road repair job. Forty convicts were in the detail but only 27 engaged in the strike.

The prison officials herded the 27 into trucks and returned them to the central camp, meantime asking county police for reinforcements. County Police Chief Russell B. Henderson said he and two officers armed with tear gas and shotguns were called by Worthy to "quell a possible disturbance."

Removed from the trucks, the Negoes were lined up in the prison enclosure and addressed by Henderson. They were told they must obey the warden. It was then, Henderson and Worthy said, that Bell attempted to attack the warden. The latter fired and all of the Negroes started fleeing.

They started toward a 12-foot barbed wire fence marking the camp's boundary. Shotguns roared. Men started falling. Only once reached the fence. He fell dead. Worthy said some of the convicts were armed with short iron bars and sticks. One carried an ice pick, Worthy said.

VOTING

commented, "to say that there is any material difference in the governance of the Democratic party in this state prior to, and subsequent to, 1944, is pure sophistry."

The Georgia legislature provided for a similar primary setup by an act passed early this year but it was vetoed.

No comment was forthcoming from Democratic party officials immediately. Governor J. Strom Thurmond was flying to Salt Lake City to attend the National Governors' conference, and State Chairman W. P. Baskin of Bishopville could not be reached. Christie Benet, Columbia lawyer who represented the defendants, withheld comment until after a study of the opinion.

Negro leaders, however, were quick to react. At Columbia, John H. McCrary, head of the Progressive (Negro) Democratic party, called a special convention to meet in Columbia Wednesday to plan its future course.

J. M. Hinton, also of Columbia, president of the state chapter of the National Association for the advancement of colored people and executive secretary of the South Carolina Negro Citizens committee, prepared a demand upon party officials that they made "provisions immediately to include all qualified Negro voters," on the party's rolls.

In Holland It's Herring, Not Hot Dogs

Just as Americans eat hot dogs at curbside stands, Hollanders eat raw herring, product of the catch that makes the little nation world's third biggest fish producer. Here Dutch women, faces skyward, enjoy a finny snack—10 cents a fish, and they sometimes eat five at a session—at Scheveningen Harbor, near The Hague, while Scheveningen's 60 fishing boats haul in the day's catch publican, Oregon, including one to postpone the effect of the tax cut for at least a year past next Jan. 1, were turned down.

TAX CUT

Still to be acted upon was the controversial amendment by Senator McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, to extend so-called community property benefits to taxpayers of all the states.

In discussing Republican fears of an attempt to delay the adjournment of Congress, Barkley said he did not know what day the president would sign the bill but added:

"I hope he signs it immediately. I can not guarantee that but I could recommend it."

Barkley said that it would "be silly and futile" for the president to try and delay signing it to avoid over-riding of the veto and added:

"The president of the United States is not that kind of a man."

McClellan claimed support of at least 26 senators for his amendment to give taxpayers in all states the benefits now enjoyed in community property states.

He read the names of all states that would benefit, listed the amounts of tax reductions that he said would result, and then appealed to senators from those states to join him on the amendment.

Under the agreement to recess, McClellan will resume the debate Monday. But he promised to be brief and urge an early vote then.

Senator Lucas, Democrat, Illinois, acting as minority leader, made the original suggestion for an informal agreement to vote Monday.

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, told the Senate he is opposed to the proposed tax cut for these reasons:

1. It "discriminates" against small taxpayers by reducing the levy against them less than it cuts the taxes of others.

2. It is "unwise fiscal policy."

3. It "threatens the Marshall plan" for rehabilitation of Europe.

4. It would contribute to "economic chaos and another depression on the United States."

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, told the Senate that Joseph Stalin and "stock market leaders" hope Republicans will pass the income tax reduction over President Truman's veto.

He insisted that a cut in taxes would "be another step" in inflation and just what Stalin, Russian Soviet leader, desires:

"If America sags, the world sags with it," O'Mahoney said. "Joe Stalin does not doubt that even if Republican leaders do."

O'Mahoney added that a sharp price rise in the stock and other markets showed that "stock market leaders are betting that the Republicans will put this tax bill over the president's veto."

The main question was not whether Republicans could amass sufficient votes to pass the bill—that was assured—but whether they would gain the two-third majority necessary to override a veto.

A vote on the veto test was not likely before Tuesday.

The bill would lop some $4,000,000,000 a year off federal taxpayers' bills, with the individual cuts ranging from 10.5 per cent to 30 per cent.

Instead of being effective this past July 1, under the original bill vetoed by President Truman, it would become effective next Jan. 1.

Senator Morse, Republican, Oregon, made a consistent effort during the day to secure adoption of a series of amendments to the bill.

Jack Steel, recent graduate of the famed Webb school, Bell Buckle, Tenn., never missed being on the honor roll, which means something when this high grade school is concerned. He is a fine chap and his wide circle of Monroe friends are sharing pleasure over his superior scholarship.

A "Short Course in Accounting for Women!" proclaimed an advertisement for a local business college. And a smart guy, name unknown, cut the "adv" out and mailed it back to the school with the following notation appended: "There is NO accounting for women."

A stern pater familias of Monroe, approached by a recent college graduate who asked for the hand in marriage of the daughter of the house, was interrogated thus: "Young man are you able to support a family?" And forthcame the reply from a somewhat crestfallen aspirant: "I only want to support Sarah Jane!"

al from the hunt of many members of Hagana, the so-called Jewish national defense army. Hagana previously had joined the soldiers and police as part of the organization's intention to "stamp out in its own way" violence caused by underground Jewish dissidents in Palestine.

Hagana members said they were withdrawing because of "interference" by the army and police which they considered a violation of the military's promise to give Hagana an opportunity to free the men.

The two sergeants were seized in front of a cafe un Natanya, 40 miles north of Tel Aviv by a group of eight to 12 men. The police report on the kidnaping said they were chloroformed.

Police said the sergeants may have been kidnaped as hostages for the three Irgun members, who were condemned to death by the British for participating in the May 4 prison break at Acre.

Their sentences have been confirmed by the Palestine military commander and are before Sir Alan Cunningham, the High Commissioner, for possible commutation.

The two sergeants, Clifford Martin and Mervin Paice, members of the army's special investigation squad, and a Jewish civilian clerk named Weinberg, were seized by the abductors shortly after midnight.

Weinberg was tied up and placed in an orange grove later. He liberated himself with the aid of persons from a nearby house and reported the abduction to military authorities.

Weinberg said the two sergeants were both "rather badly beaten." While we were in the car my shirt and trousers were stained all over with blood from their wounds.

Brig. J. N. R. Moore, military commander of the Natanya area, told the city's mayor, Ben Ami, that "if the population does not bring back the soldiers alive I shall feel obliged to impose martial law in Natanya."

"We shall do our best," the mayor replied. "Be assured that the Jewish population abhors these acts."

The Hagana parties centered their search in Natanya, but the British troops established a perimeter along the Haifa-Tel Aviv road and around some 40 square miles of the Natanya vicinity.

A month ago two British policemen were abducted from a Ramat Gan swimming pool apparently as hostages for Irgun Zvai Leumi, but they escaped the following day.

Meanwhile, delegates of the United Nations special committee on Palestine took the day off before starting tomorrow their fourth week of fact finding. In an effort to get the Arabs to change their minds on the boycott of the committee invitations were sent last week to the Arab countries offering to switch the hearings to any capital the Arabs choose. The only reply to date has been a flat "not interested" from the Palestine Arabs.

The committee has completed most of the testimony from Jewish groups, which simmers down in most instances to reluctant acceptance of the idea of partition.

pipe that may have been caused by bullets.

The Ohioan said it was the first time he had been under fire. He served as Chaplain in World War I.

Kaiser was quickly identified by Bricker and J. H. Macomber, of the staff of the Senate Expenditures committee, and Jerry Albright, operator of the subway car.

After Albright delivered his passengers at the capitol end of the subway, the Senator calmly left the car and walked upstairs to the Senate chamber before asking Senate aides, to start police on the hunt for his assailant.

Albright rushed back to the site of the shooting and told the still-armed Kaiser to get out. He walked away and was the object of a widespread manhunt for the next several hours.

Bricker said that Kaiser fired the first shot at him from a distance of perhaps 15 feet and that he and Macomber made a quick jump for the subway electric car.

"Let's get to hell out of here," Bricker was quoted by both Macomber and Albright.

"I slammed on the juice and started moving away," Albright reported later. "Then the fellow with the gun came running out. I've seen him before, he used to work around here. He pointed the gun in our direction and fired another shot."

Macomber said he peeked "back and saw that the fellow was still standing there and he was breaking his revolver."

"Senator Bricker said to me: 'The man must be crazy'," he added.

Macomber added that Albright "had a lot of guts" to go back to the scene so promptly.

Another eyewitness, A. J. Richard, administrative assistant to Senator E. V. Robertson (R-Wyo.), said he heard the first shot and saw the second without realizing what was going on.

Richard said he spoke to Kaiser who appeared casual as he walked after the departing car with Bricker and Macomber aboard.

"He took something out of his pocket," Richard said. "I didn't realize what it was until I heard a shot fired. It was a small gun. By that time the car was about 50 feet away or so and going around a corner. I didn't see anybody in it."

Richard said that Kaiser "still appearing unconcerned, broke his gun, put it in his pocket and sauntered up a few feet in the direction of the moving car."

Bricker, after the shooting, said he did not know Kaiser's name but had talked to the man several times because Kaiser claimed to have lost "money or a home" in the Columbus savings and loan case.

As Ohio Attorney General, Bricker said he started action that caused this liquidation some 15 years ago.

"One time he (Kaiser) asked me, "When am I going to get my money back that you stole?" Bricker recalled, adding that he told Kaiser he was sorry if he lost money but "there is nothing I can do about it."

"Since then I had noticed him hanging around the Senate chamber," Bricker continued. "I saw him yesterday just outside the chamber."

Bricker said he noticed somebody "out of the corner of my eye" just before the first shot today and then "recognized the fellow."

He was busy talking with Macomber about plans to fly out to the governor's conference in Salt Lake City, Bricker said, and failed to look around until after the first shot.

Macomber, of Burlington, Vt., is on the staff of the committee and had arranged airplane passage today but Bricker delayed leaving pending final action on the tax reduction bill.

CZECHS

000 tons of cotton and unspecified quantities of oil, seeds, peas, lentils, phosphates, wool and iron, manganese, and chromium ores.

The amount of wheat alone exceeds the 151,000 total tons of food exported from the United States to Czechoslovakia in the year ending last June 30, according to figures released a week ago in Washington by President Truman.

In return, Czechoslovakia will send Russia rails, engines and other railway equipment, pipelines for oil industry, equipment for use in setting up shoe and sugar factories, hemming machines, electric motors, dredging equipment, motor vehicles, a power station, sugar, shoes, textiles and breeding cattle.

The amounts Czechoslovakia must send were not disclosed.

The communique said that a "permanent and continual" exchange of goods was envisioned.

"Both governments therefore reached agreement about the mutual deliveries of goods for five years," it said. "The agreement is signed on the basis of firm commitments of goods which must be fixed in advance each year. Commitments for 1948 are fixed by the signing of this treaty. At the same time, approximate commitments must be fixed wherever possible for the whole five years."

It added that the Czech and Soviet representatives in Moscow discussed "important questions of foreign policy and especially relations of the U. S. S. R. and Czechoslovakia."

The agreement met little surprise here. The strengthening of trade pacts with the Soviet Union had been the reason given by Premier Klement Gottwald and Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk for their trip to Moscow this week, the trip from which Gottwald telephoned back word that the government must withdraw immediately its acceptance of the British-French invitation to the Paris conference.

Gottwald announced the new economic treaty in a brief radio speech 30 minutes after returning from Moscow.

Gottwald said the results of the Moscow trip were a "great victory" and that the visit had shown "what a great help the friendship of the Soviet Union is both from the standpoint of our security and our economy."

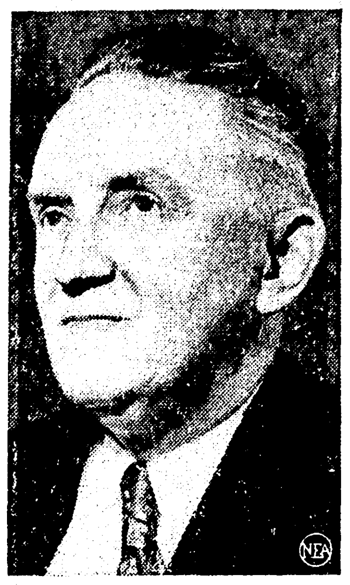
Practical Tax Foe



In protest against high income taxes and "reckless" government spending, E. B. Tilton, above, president of the Vilter Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wis., says he will give up his $1500 monthly salary the last two months of this year, plus his bonus. That will set him back a probable $6000. But the government will lose, too—several thousand dollars in income taxes he won't have to pay because of lower income.

discredit Egyptians and create discord between them and the Sudanese as well as dissension among the Sudanese and in general to "impair the unity of the Nine valley."

British officials, in outlining rebuttal to the Egyptian demand, said they would show that the "real point of issue" is Egypt's wish to ensure future dominance over the Sudan.

They said the Egyptian government's attitude suggests that it believes that once the terms of a treaty become inconvenient to one of the parties it becomes invalid.

They said the London government holds that the 1936 treaty was freely entered into by Egypt and Britain and was made to last for a period of 20 years.

DEATHS

MR. WILLIAM RUSS ROBERTS

DELHI, La., July 12.—(Special)—Mr. William Russ Roberts, 58, of the Bush community near Delhi, died of a heart attack near his home while on a fishing trip early this afternoon.

Mr. Roberts is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Roberts, and four children: Irwin Roberts, Ferriday; Amos Roberts, Shreveport; Mrs. Margaret Russell, Ferriday, and Mrs. Mary Jane Roberts, Ft. Knox, Ky.

Funeral services, which are incomplete, will be under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home of Delhi with interment following in the Midway Cemetery near Delhi.

SERGEANTS

M., charging von der Luft and Wallis with wilfully and unlawfully removing and concealing records and documents in violation of section 234, title 18, U. S. criminal code.

This section covers removal and concealment of classified documents.

The offense, upon conviction, carries a pentlty of a fine or not more than $2,000 or not more than three years imprisonment, or both.

Von der Luft will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner at Pittsburgh, the F. B. I. said, while Wallis will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner at Chicago.

The F. B. I. explained that no charge could be filed under the atomic energy act since "the offenses occurred prior to its enactment."

The Justice Department said the two former army men were taken in custody at the direction of Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, said in a statement that "on the evening of April 30, 1947, the F. B. I. learned that certain documents of an extremely confidential nature were missing from the files of the Los Alamos installation.

"An immediate investigation was inaugurated which revealed that von der Luft, 23, who enlisted in the army in April, 1943, was discharged therefrom on March 9, 1946, after having been assigned to the Manhattan engineer district and detailed to the Los Alamos project.

"After his discharge, von der Luft resumed his studies at Princeton University where he was located and interviewed.

Hoover said a search of von der Luft's room at the university resulted "in the recovery of approximately 200 pages of hand-written notes and other documents marked 'secret' pertaining to the atomic bomb."

"In addition," Hoover continued, "a folder was located in the family vault at Mt. Lebanon containing confidential and highly restricted data pertaining to the development and construction of the atomic bomb.

"These documents, which von der Luft secured while assigned to the Manhattan engineer district by the army prior to his discharge on March 9, 1946, were all recovered and promptly delivered by F. B. I. agents to the atomic energy commission."

Hoover said that in connection with the investigation of von der Luft, "it was further disclosed that Ernest D. Wallis, who was assigned by the army in Nov. 1944 to the Los Alamos installation as an official army photographer, might be in possession of restricted data."

The F. B. I. said Wallis was interviewed and that "some 200 photographs and negatives were located and seized in his studio.

Hoover said these pictures "showed the various phases of the atomic bomb and the test explosion and were promptly turned over to the atomic energy commission where atomic experts found that numerous files of the photographs and negatives were classified as 'top secret.'"

Hoover pointed out that at the time the restricted data was "unlawfully taken by von der Luft and Wallis, the atomic energy commission was not yet in existence and the F. B. I. had no responsibility of the security of the data which was under the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the Manhattan engineer district."

The Manhattan engineer district, before the atomic energy commission took over at the first of this year, was under the control of the War Department.

Hoover said the F. B. I. investigation "disclosed no connection between the two men arrested and in fact they did not know each other."

Senator Hickenlooper, Democrat, Iowa, first disclosed disappearance of "important and classified" files from Los Alamos in a speech to the Senate Wednesday.

The Iowa senator, chairman of the Senate-House atomic committee, decribed the two former army sergeants as "osuvenir hunters" and said the F. B. I. was satisfied that the files had not been seen by any outside person and that there was "no effective breach of security."

Informed officials confirmed that Hickenlooper was right, that the F. B. I. uncovered no evidence that the information was seen by anyone else.

Asked about this, however, Lou Nichols, F. B. I. public relations officer, said the agency could not comment on evidence that would be presented in court.

famous orchestra, Bob Peters and his "Pictures in Music," for the two dances—Friday and Saturday nights.

The Peters orchestra, starring Bonnie Day and Peter Flore as soloists and the Peterpipers ensemble, is celebrated for the unusual tonal effects of its saxaphone section.

Scheduled for the opening session Friday morning and addresses of welcome by Mayor H. H. Benoit and Walter Kellogg, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, and greetings by Mrs. H. F. Madison of Monroe, president of the Legion auxiliary, Wells Ely, Grand Chef de Gare of the Forty and Eight and Mrs. Harry Robertson, departmental Chapeau of the Forty and Eight.

Also at the morning session will be an address by R. C. Cadwallader, National vice commander, and the introduction of prominent guests by Charles E. McKenzie, past department commander.

Friday afternoon will be given over to committee meetings, with a concert by the Standard Oil Company band and a dance at the Frances that night.

Slated for Saturday morning are reports from district commanders and officers of the Louisiana department. The day will be concluded with a barbecue in the evening and a dance at the Virginia Roof Saturday night.

The convention will close Sunday morning with committee reports and the election of annual officers.

The Forty and Eight will get underway Thursday night with the first session of the Grand Promenade at the Frances Hotel, and will continue through Friday.

An executive committee meeting at the Virginia Thursday afternoon will launch the activities of the Legion Auxiliary, with the first general session set for the following morning.

Committee reports will be heard Saturday morning, and election of officers will take place Sunday.

added $75,000,000 cash after a heated debate in secret session.

Both Lilienthal and Strauss told senators that the $25,000,000 provided by the House for cancer research was not asked by the commission and came as a surprise.

Reed and Senators Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) and Tydings (D.-Md.) said they fear a possible overlapping and duplication in cancer research.

Reed said the American Cancer institute has raised $13,000,000 for research through public contributions, and the National Cancer institute has received $14,000,000 from Congress.

Lilienthal explained at a Senate hearing that the atomic commission is the only agency in the United States allowed to produce radioactive materials for cancer research.

"The commission is now supplying some 60 institutions, medical and university, through the country" and will "further the science upon which the end happily cancer may be controlled," Lilienthal said.

At the same time the atomic chairman said the House provision setting aside $25,000,000 for cancer "would mean that if we could only expend $5,000,000 for the course of the year and needed $20,000,000 for atomic weapons, we would not have that available."

Strauss said the commission is "conducting its work for cancer purely as a supplier of tools; that is to say, as a supplier of isotopes."

Lilienthal added:

"We do not want to be placed in the position of entering the field of cancer on the therapeutic side."

Reed said the Senate should approve his committee's recommendation early next week. That would send it back to the House with final settlement to take place in a Senate-House conference committee.

The man said he would wait while the young men returned with the sheriff, but he and his car were gone when Sheriff Retterer arrived.

The woman's body was clad only in a torn blouse and one shoe. The other shoe and her slacks, turned inside out, had been tossed over a fence in the churchyard.

Sheriff Retterer expressed belief Mrs. Gerbes was garroted in the car in the churchyard.

Mrs. Gerbes was seen in a Marion beer parlor about 11 p. m. Thursday. She had left her three children—Kenneth, 6; Diana, 4, and Judith, 2—in the care of her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kellis, with whom she lived.

Police court records show that Mrs. Gerbes had been arrested 11 times in the last three years on charges such as intoxication and disorderly conduct and had served terms in jail.

he wanted to kill me." Bell also said Warden Worthy was half drunk."

The warden said he shot Bell in the leg when the convict charged him and tried to take his pistol.

Charles Veal, an Atlanta convict, also said the warden was drinking, and declared he heard the warden say to Willie Bell:

"Come out, Peewee, I want to kill you."

Howard Adams, an Atlanta convict, told the jury the warden began shooting with his pistol, and yelled to the other guards "Let 'em have it."

The coroner asked Remmer Basemore, a guard, if there wasn't time to yell "Holt" to the fleeing prisoners.

Guy McNabb, who said he shot a Negro going over the wire fence, declared that "I was trying to hit him in the legs."

J. L. Holmes, another guard, said Warden Worthy "talked and pleaded an hour or more trying to get the prisoners to quiet down."

Dave Golden, a Negro trusty in the camp prison, said he didn't hear the warden threaten to kill Bell.

"Bell," he testified, "has caused most of the trouble around here."

Warden W. N. McCann of the Folkston camp prison said 23 of the 27 Negroes were transferred recently from his camp to Brunswick.

"They were an unruly bunch, he said, "and I had to keep most of them in solitary confinement."

The inquest got under way at the Glynn county courthouse with Coroner Q. D. Baldwill presiding.

Watching developments was C. M. Moore, president of the local NAACP, who said many rumors were afloat concerning the killings. He did not elaborate.

"We are not upholding wilful law violators," said Moore, "but so many rumors have been current since this unfortunate affair, we feel that a full sifting of the incidents should be made."

Moore said he would ask Judge Gordon Knox of Glynn superior court to reconvene the grand jury, which is in recess, to make the investigation. U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark will be asked to "have appropriate representatives present."

In New York, Secretary Walter White of the NAACP said he had sent a telegram to Clark, urging an investigation. He said that "preliminary reports from our investigations indicate no justification for shooting."

Warden Worthy asserted that the fatal melee was preceded by a four-hour strike of Negroes assigned to a road repair job. Forty convicts were in the detail but only 27 engaged in the strike.

The prison officials herded the 27 into trucks and returned them to the central camp, meantime asking county police for reinforcements. County Police Chief Russell B. Henderson said he and two officers armed with tear gas and shotguns were called by Worthy to "quell a possible disturbance."

Removed from the trucks, the Negoes were lined up in the prison enclosure and addressed by Henderson. They were told they must obey the warden. It was then, Henderson and Worthy said, that Bell attempted to attack the warden. The latter fired and all of the Negroes started fleeing.

They started toward a 12-foot barbed wire fence marking the camp's boundary. Shotguns roared. Men started falling. Only once reached the fence. He fell dead. Worthy said some of the convicts were armed with short iron bars and sticks. One carried an ice pick, Worthy said.

VOTING

commented, "to say that there is any material difference in the governance of the Democratic party in this state prior to, and subsequent to, 1944, is pure sophistry."

The Georgia legislature provided for a similar primary setup by an act passed early this year but it was vetoed.

No comment was forthcoming from Democratic party officials immediately. Governor J. Strom Thurmond was flying to Salt Lake City to attend the National Governors' conference, and State Chairman W. P. Baskin of Bishopville could not be reached. Christie Benet, Columbia lawyer who represented the defendants, withheld comment until after a study of the opinion.

Negro leaders, however, were quick to react. At Columbia, John H. McCrary, head of the Progressive (Negro) Democratic party, called a special convention to meet in Columbia Wednesday to plan its future course.

J. M. Hinton, also of Columbia, president of the state chapter of the National Association for the advancement of colored people and executive secretary of the South Carolina Negro Citizens committee, prepared a demand upon party officials that they made "provisions immediately to include all qualified Negro voters," on the party's rolls.

TAX CUT

publican, Oregon, including one to postpone the effect of the tax cut for at least a year past next Jan. 1, were turned down.

Still to be acted upon was the controversial amendment by Senator McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, to extend so-called community property benefits to taxpayers of all the states.

In discussing Republican fears of an attempt to delay the adjournment of Congress, Barkley said he did not know what day the president would sign the bill but added:

"I hope he signs it immediately. I can not guarantee that but I could recommend it."

Barkley said that it would "be silly and futile" for the president to try and delay signing it to avoid overriding of the veto and added:

"The president of the United States is not that kind of a man."

McClellan claimed support of at least 26 senators for his amendment to give taxpayers in all states the benefits now enjoyed in community property states.

He read the names of all states that would benefit, listed the amounts of tax reductions that he said would result, and then appealed to senators from those states to join him on the amendment.

Under the agreement to recess, McClellan will resume the debate Monday. But he promised to be brief and urge an early vote then.

Senator Lucas, Democrat, Illinois, acting as minority leader, made the original suggestion for an informal agreement to vote Monday.

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, told the Senate he is opposed to the proposed tax cut for these reasons:

1. It "discriminates" against small taxpayers by reducing the levy against them less than it cuts the taxes of others.

2. It is "unwise fiscal policy."

3. It "threatens the Marshall plan" for rehabilitation of Europe.

4. It would contribute to "economic chaos and another depression on the United States."

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, told the Senate that Joseph Stalin and "stock market leaders" hope Republicans will pass the income tax reduction over President Truman's veto.

He insisted that a cut in taxes would "be another step" in inflation and just what Stalin, Russian Soviet leader, desires:

"If America sags, the world sags with it," O'Mahoney said. "Joe Stalin does not doubt that even if Republican leaders do."

O'Mahoney added that a sharp price rise in the stock and other markets showed that "stock market leaders are betting that the Republicans will put this tax bill over the president's veto."

The main question was not whether Republicans could amass sufficient votes to pass the bill—that was assured—but whether they would gain the two-third majority necessary to override a veto.

A vote on the veto test was not likely before Tuesday.

The bill would lop some $4,000,000,000 a year off federal taxpayers' bills, with the individual cuts ranging from 10.5 per cent to 30 per cent.

Instead of being effective this past July 1, under the original bill vetoed by President Truman, it would become effective next Jan. 1.

Senator Morse, Republican, Oregon, made a consistent effort during the day to secure adoption of a series of amendments to the bill.

pipe that may have been caused by bullets.

The Ohioan said it was the first time he had been under fire. He served as Chaplain in World War 1.

Kaiser was quickly identified by Bricker and J. H. Macomber, of the staff of the Senate Expenditures committee, and Jerry Albright, operator of the subway car.

After Albright delivered his passengers at the capitol end of the subway, the Senator calmly left the car and walked upstairs to the Senate chamber before asking Senate aides to start police on the hunt for his assailant.

Albright rushed back to the site of the shooting and told the still-armed Kaiser to get out. He walked away and was the object of a widespread manhunt for the next several hours.

Bricker said that Kaiser fired the first shot at him from a distance of perhaps 15 feet and that he and Macomber made a quick jump for the subway electric car.

"Let's get to hell out of here," Bricker was quoted by both Macomber and Albright.

"I slammed on the juice and started moving away," Albright reported later. "Then the fellow with the gun came running out. I've seen him before, he used to work around here. He pointed the gun in our direction and fired another shot."

Macomber said he peeked "back and saw that the fellow was still standing there and he was breaking his revolver."

"Senator Bricker said to me: 'The man must be crazy'," he added.

Macomber added that Albright "had a lot of guts" to go back to the scene so promptly.

Another eyewitness, A. J. Richard, administrative assistant to Senator E. V. Robertson (R-Wyo.), said he heard the first shot and saw the second without realizing what was going on.

Richard said he spoke to Kaiser who appeared casual as he walked after the departing car with Bricker and Macomber aboard.

"He took something out of his pocket," Richard said. "I didn't realize what it was until I heard a shot fired. It was a small gun. By that time the car was about 50 feet away or so and going around a corner. I didn't see anybody in it."

Richard said that Kaiser "still appearing unconcerned, broke his gun, put it in his pocket and sauntered up a few feet in the direction of the moving car."

Bricker, after the shooting, said he did not know Kaiser's name but had talked to the man several times because Kaiser claimed to have lost "money or a home" in the Columbus savings and loan case.

As Ohio Attorney General, Bricker said he started action that caused this liquidation some 15 years ago.

"One time he (Kaiser) asked me, 'When am I going to get my money back that you stole?'" Bricker recalled, adding that he told Kaiser he was sorry if he lost money but "there is nothing I can do about it."

"Since then I had noticed him hanging around the Senate chamber," Bricker continued. "I saw him yesterday just outside the chamber."

Bricker said he noticed somebody "out of the corner of my eye" just before the first shot today and then "recognized the fellow."

He was busy talking with Macomber about plans to fly out to the governor's conference in Salt Lake City, Bricker said, and failed to look around until after the first shot.

Macomber, of Burlington, Vt., is on the staff of the committee and had arranged airplane passage today but Bricker delayed leaving pending final action on the tax reduction bill.

CZECHS

000 tons of cotton and unspecified quantities of oil, seeds, peas, lentils, phosphates, wool and iron, manganese, and chromium ores.

The amount of wheat alone exceeds the 151,000 total tons of food exported from the United States to Czechoslovakia in the year ending last June 30, according to figures released a week ago in Washington by President Truman.

In return, Czechoslovakia will send Russia rails, engines and other railway equipment, pipelines for oil industry, equipment for use in setting up shoe and sugar factories, hemming machines, electric motors, dredging equipment, motor vehicles, a power station, sugar, shoes, textiles and breeding cattle.

The amounts Czechoslovakia must send were not disclosed.

The communique said that a "permanent and continual" exchange of goods was envisioned.

"Both governments therefore reached agreement about the mutual deliveries of goods for five years," it said. "The agreement is signed on the basis of firm commitments of goods which must be fixed in advance each year. Commitments for 1948 are fixed by the signing of this treaty. At the same time, approximate commitments must be fixed wherever possible for the whole five years."

It added that the Czech and Soviet representatives in Moscow discussed "important questions of foreign policy and especially relations of the U. S. S. R. and Czechoslovakia."

The agreement met little surprise here. The strengthening of trade pacts with the Soviet Union had been the reason given by Premier Klement Gottwald and Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk for their trip to Moscow this week, the trip from which Gottwald telephoned back word that the government must withdraw immediately its acceptance of the British-French invitation to the Paris conference.

Gottwald announced the new economic treaty in a brief radio speech 30 minutes after returning from Moscow.

Gottwald said the results of the Moscow trip were a "great victory" and that the visit had shown "what a great help the friendship of the Soviet Union is both from the standpoint of our security and our economy."

Practical Tax Foe

In protest against high income taxes and "reckless" government spending, E. B. Tilton, above, president of the Vilter Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wis., says he will give up his $1500 monthly salary the last two months of this year, plus his bonus. That will set him back a probable $6000. But the government will lose, too—several thousand dollars in income taxes he won't have to pay because of lower income.

discredit Egyptians and create discord between them and the Sudanese as well as dissension among the Sudanese and in general to "impair the unity of the Nine valley."

British officials, in outlining rebuttal to the Egyptian demand, said they would show that the "real point of issue" is Egypt's wish to ensure future dominance over the Sudan.

They said the Egyptian government's attitude suggests that it believes that once the terms of a treaty become inconvenient to one of the parties it becomes invalid.

They said the London government holds that the 1936 treaty was freely entered into by Egypt and Britain and was made to last for a period of 20 years.

DEATHS

MR. WILLIAM RUSS ROBERTS

DELHI, La., July 12.—(Special)—Mr. William Russ Roberts, 58, of the Bush community near Delhi, died of a heart attack near his home while on a fishing trip early this afternoon.

SERGEANTS

M., charging von der Luft and Wallis with wilfully and unlawfully removing and concealing records and documents in violation of section 234, title 18, U. S. criminal code.

This section covers removal and concealment of classified documents.

The offense, upon conviction, carries a pentlty of a fine or not more than $2,000 or not more than three years imprisonment, or both.

Von der Luft will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner at Pittsburgh, the F. B. I. said, while Wallis will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner at Chicago.

The F. B. I. explained that no charge could be filed under the atomic energy act since "the offenses occurred prior to its enactment."

The Justice Department said the two former army men were taken in custody at the direction of Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, said in a statement that "on the evening of April 30, 1947, the F. B. I. learned that certain documents of an extremely confidential nature were missing from the files of the Los Alamos installation.

"An immediate investigation was inaugurated which revealed that von der Luft, 23, who enlisted in the army in April, 1943, was discharged therefrom on March 9, 1946, after having been assigned to the Manhattan engineer district and detailed to the Los Alamos project.

"After his discharge, von der Luft resumed his studies at Princeton University where he was located and interviewed.

Hoover said a search of von der Luft's room at the university resulted "in the recovery of approximately 200 pages of hand-written notes and other documents marked 'secret' pertaining to the atomic bomb."

"In addition," Hoover continued, "a folder was located in the family vault at Mt. Lebanon containing confidential and highly restricted data pertaining to the development and construction of the atomic bomb.

"These documents, which von der Luft secured while assigned to the Manhattan engineer district by the army prior to his discharge on March 9, 1946, were all recovered and promptly delivered by F. B. I. agents to the atomic energy commission."

Hoover said that in connection with the investigation of von der Luft, "it was further disclosed that Ernest D. Wallis, who was assigned by the army in Nov. 1944 to the Los Alamos installation as an official army photographer, might be in possession of restricted data."

The F. B. I. said Wallis was interviewed and that "some 200 photographs and negatives were located and seized in his studio.

Hoover said these pictures "showed the various phases of the atomic bomb and the test explosion and were promptly turned over to the atomic energy commission where atomic experts found that numerous files of the photographs and negatives were classified as 'top secret.'"

Hoover pointed out that at the time the restricted data was "unlawfully taken by von der Luft and Wallis, the atomic energy commission was not yet in existence and the F. B. I. had no responsibility of the security of the data which was under the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the Manhattan engineer district."

The Manhattan engineer district, before the atomic energy commission took over at the first of this year, was under the control of the War Department.

Hoover said the F. B. I. investigation "disclosed no connection between the two men arrested and in fact they did not know each other."

Senator Hickenlooper, Democrat, Iowa, first disclosed disappearance of "important and classified" files from Los Alamos in a speech to the Senate Wednesday.

The Iowa senator, chairman of the Senate-House atomic committee, decribed the two former army sergeants as "osuvenir hunters" and said the F. B. I. was satisfied that the files had not been seen by any outside person and that there was "no effective breach of security."

Informed officials confirmed that Hickenlooper was right, that the F. B. I. uncovered no evidence that the information was seen by anyone else.

Asked about this, however, Lou Nichols, F. B. I. public relations officer, said the agency could not comment on evidence that would be presented in court.

famous orchestra, Bob Peters and his "Pictures in Music," for the two dances—Friday and Saturday nights.

The Peters orchestra, starring Bonnie Day and Peter Flore as soloists and the Peterpipers ensemble, is celebrated for the unusual tonal effects of its saxaphone section.

Scheduled for the opening session Friday morning and addresses of welcome by Mayor H. H. Benoit and Walter Kellogg, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, and greetings by Mrs. H. F. Madison of Monroe, president of the Legion auxiliary, Wells Ely, Grand Chef de Gare of the Forty and Eight and Mrs. Harry Robertson, departmental Chapeau of the Forty and Eight.

Also at the morning session will be an address by R. C. Cadwallader, National vice commander, and the introduction of prominent guests by Charles E. McKenzie, past department commander.

Friday afternoon will be given over to committee meetings, with a concert by the Standard Oil Company band and a dance at the Frances that night.

Slated for Saturday morning are reports from district commanders and officers of the Louisiana department. The day will be concluded with a barbecue in the evening and a dance at the Virginia Roof Saturday night.

The convention will close Sunday morning with committee reports and the election of annual officers.

The Forty and Eight will get underway Thursday night with the first session of the Grand Promenade at the Frances Hotel, and will continue through Friday.

An executive committee meeting at the Virginia Thursday afternoon will launch the activities of the Legion Auxiliary, with the first general session set for the following morning.

Committee reports will be heard Saturday morning, and election of officers will take place Sunday.

added $75,000,000 cash after a heated debate in secret session.

Both Lilienthal and Strauss told senators that the $25,000,000 provided by the House for cancer research was not asked by the commission and came as a surprise.

Reed and Senators Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) and Tydings (D.-Md.) said they fear a possible overlapping and duplication in cancer research.

Reed said the American Cancer institute has raised $13,000,000 for research through public contributions, and the National Cancer institute has received $14,000,000 from Congress.

Lilienthal explained at a Senate hearing that the atomic commission is the only agency in the United States allowed to produce radioactive materials for cancer research.

"The commission is now supplying some 60 institutions, medical and university, through the country" and will "further the science upon which the end happily cancer may be controlled," Lilienthal said.

At the same time the atomic chairman said the House provision setting aside $25,000,000 for cancer "would mean that if we could only expend $5,000,000 for the course of the year and needed $20,000,000 for atomic weapons, we would not have that available."

Strauss said the commission is "conducting its work for cancer purely as a supplier of tools; that is to say, as a supplier of isotopes."

Lilienthal added:

"We do not want to be placed in the position of entering the field of cancer on the therapeutic side."

Reed said the Senate should approve his committee's recommendation early next week. That would send it back to the House with final settlement to take place in a Senate-House conference committee.

notify the sheriff. The stranger said he would go along. He tried to get into the Yeagers' automobile, they said, but they pushed him out. "We were frightened about him and didn't want anything to do with him," they explained later.

The man said he would wait while the young men returned with the sheriff, but he and his car were gone when Sheriff Retterer arrived.

The woman's body was clad only in a torn blouse and one shoe. The other shoe and her slacks, turned inside out, had been tossed over a fence in the churchyard.

Sheriff Retterer expressed belief Mrs. Gerbes was garroted in the car in the churchyard.

Mrs. Gerbes was seen in a Marion beer parlor about 11 p. m. Thursday. She had left her three children—Kenneth, 6; Diana, 4, and Judith, 2—in the care of her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kellis, with whom she lived.

Police court records show that Mrs. Gerbes had been arrested 11 times in the last three years on charges such as intoxication and disorderly conduct and had served terms in jail.

LIST THREE SHELL PRODUCERS IN ORA

Colored Pins In Conservation Office Map Tell Story Of New Field

The official score for Union parish's new Ora oil field yesterday, as set forth by a map studded with colored pins on the wall of the Monroe district conservation office, was five producers, three dry holes and 21 operations at various stages of advancement.

Included with Sellar and Ewing's discovery well, Feazel, Neely and Roberts' Dykes No. 1 and King and McCalman's Neva Norris No. 1 in the list of successful wells, represented on the map by yellow-headed pins are three of the Shell company's Frost Lumber Co., A units.

The black-topped pins, indicating failures are for Roberts and Smith's Farmers Mercantile Co. No. 1, King and McCalman's J. C. Williams No. 1 and Feazel, Neely and Roberts' Dykes No. 5. Other seemingly disappointing operations within the field still are undergoing tests and have not been formally abandoned.

Not included in the official score for the Ora field proper are a number of unsuccessful wildcats in other parts of Union parish. Recent additions to that discouraging list are the Luxader No. 1 of Roberts, Benson et al., 1 1/2 miles north of the discovery, and the J. C. Lesage P. P. Price estate No. 1. Questioned yesterday concerning a report that the two latter wells would be reopened for deeper drilling, the conservation office said permits for such operations had not been asked.

After failing to obtain a showing of oil at the Nacatosh sand depth in their Zollie C. Raybun estate No. 1 well, seven miles southwest of the field, C. W. Sharp and James E. Kemp continued drilling with the hope of striking production at a lower level. Saturday's depth was reported as 2,530 feet and the operators were quoted with saying they would go to 3,250 feet "if necessary." Paul E. Parsons' Gordon Taylor No. 1, six miles northeast of Farmerville, was reported Saturday to have had no showing of oil at 2,165 feet and drilling was continued.

First of the Shell wells to be gauged officially was its Frost Lumber Co. No. A-4 which was brought in Friday and flowed at the rate of 137 barrels per day through a 3/16-inch choke from perforations at 2,142-7 feet. Tubing pressure was given as 70 pounds, casing pressure 125, gas-oil ratio 44 to 1 and gravity 28.4. The Shell A-1, completed earlier in the week, did not have flowing pressure but it was unofficially rated as pumping at 200 barrels per day. Also not yet tested by a commission inspector was Shell's A-2, which it was listed as "a certain producer."

Drilling was resumed Friday night on Sellars and Ewing's Monzingo-Rivers No. 5, a mile and a half southeast of their discovery well, and cores were to be taken during the weekend. A "good core" was reported Saturday on the same operators No. 4 well an offset of the discovery.

The conservation office had no further report Saturday on the C. H. Murphy, Jr., E. E. Norris No. 1, which was said earlier in the week to have 12 feet of oil sand.

Fletcher and Sneed's R. F. Ward No. 1, five miles west of the main field, was drilling below 800 feet Saturday.

The Murphy-Sun company got a big gasser and a dry hole in two wildcat operations in Richland parish. Its M. L. Kennedy No. 1 at the south edge of the town of Delhi was abandoned at 3,740 feet on July 5. The unsuccessful oil well is a quarter of a mile west of the company's Phillips-Rundell No. 1, a producer. The gas well, known as Murphy-Sun's Federal Land Bank No. 1, was completed last April 15, but the official test was not made until last week, when it was found to have a flow of 9,400,000 cubic feet per day from 3,153-8 feet.

Murphy-Sun made three new locations in the Delhi field. They are for the Federal Land Bank No. 2, the Kulhawy No. 2 and the Phillips-Rundell A-1.

CYCLING PLANT INSPECTION SET

Press To Visit Lake St. John Field; Pew Tells Of Richland Project

H. K. Crandall, president of the California Company, yesterday telegraphed Louisiana newspaper publishers and oil editors to be his guests next Saturday on a tour of inspection of the Lake St. John field next Saturday.

"The objective of the tour," says his message, "is to provide an opportunity for you to view one of the most modern recycling plants in the country and the first unitized gas and oil project instituted under Louisiana's oil conservation act."

The party is to assemble at Natchez, Miss., early Saturday morning to make the trip, which will be under the direction of A. E. Alexander, the California Company's New Orleans representative.

Sixteen North Louisiana oil producers have joined in a modern project to prevent waste of natural gas in the Delhi, West Delhi and Big Creek fields of Richland parish it was announced by James E. Pew, manager of the natural gas and natural gasoline division of Sun Oil company at Philadelphia, Pa.

The 16 in 1 project is one of the first co-operative natural gasoline extraction ventures in the industry. They have become part owners in a plant costing more than $3,500,000 being constructed under supervision of Sun Oil company.

When in operation the plant will process approximately 17,000,000 cubic feet per day of oil well residue (casinghead gas) to reduce by this amount the volume of gas being flared in Louisiana fields.

Until now the amount of this by-product gas in these fields has been insufficient to justify costs involved in collecting and processing which require an extensively pipeline gathering system and the building of a new plant.

The plant which is under construction on a 40-acre site will extract 70,000 gallons per day of liquid hydrocarbons from oil well residue. Formerly lost, these products will include propane, butane and natural gasoline. After liquid hydrocarbons have been extracted the remaining dry gas will be piped to a connection with a natural gas pipeline company and sold as fuel.

Approximately 80 per cent of the producers in the three fields have agreed to join in ownership and operation of the plant, Mr. Pew announced. Each company will own an interest in the plant equivalent to the percentage of ownership held in the producing areas. Each company will produce and sell its own share of products recovered. Sun Oil company and C. H. Murphy, Jr., jointly own approximately 64 per cent of the producing acreage. Sun Oil has been designated as plant operator and will have charge of construction, operation and maintenance.

Construction contract for the plant has been awarded the Petroleum Engineering company of Houston, Texas.

NEGOTIATIONS HALTED IN RINGLING ESTATE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 12.—(AP)—Negotiations between the Florida state cabinet and executors to liquidate the estate of Circus John Ringling, who left most of his holdings to the state, appeared to be at a standstill today.

Minutes of a series of closed cabinet meetings show that after rejecting an offer of the executors themselves to buy all remaining assets, the cabinet recommended that the offer of J. L. Sullivan, oilman of Kerrville, Texas, to pay $1,200,000 cash for the Sarasota real estate be accepted by the executors.

The executors, John Ringling North and his mother, Ida Ringling North, have rejected the offer, said Doyle E. Carlton, former governor and special Ringling attorney for the state. He gave no reason for the executor's action.

The Florida supreme court currently is considering a suit by which the state seeks to have the Ringling heirs ousted as executors by an interpretation of a codicil to Ringling's will which virtually cuts them off as beneficiaries.

A big block of Sarasota county real estate, several hundred thousand dollars in bank deposits, 30 percent of the stock in the Ringling circus and sizeable Oklahoma oil interests are included in the estate's assets.

Yellowing leaves on azaleas are often a symptom of lack of iron. Lack of phosphorus will show up in slow growth and in dull green leaves that turn dark and drop off. Nitrogen-starved azaleas have a ragged, uneven appearance.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 12.—(AP)—Wheat futures were lower most of the time today on profit-taking due to yesterday's sharp advances. Most corn and oats futures also were unable to make much headway, and about the only strength was in deferred corn deliveries.

Wheat closed 1 3/4 to 2 1/2 cents lower than the previous finish, July $2.38 1/4-$2.37 1/2, corn was 1 cent up to 2 5/8 cents down, July $2.15 1/8-$2.15, and oats closed 1/4 up to 1/2 off, July $1.01 3/4.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

CHICAGO—Wheat: Off as much as 2 1/2 per cent; profit-taking. Corn: July corn lower; distant contracts generally higher. Oats: Mostly fractionally lower; profit-taking. Cattle: Nominally steady. Hogs: Nominally steady.

MACARTHUR TELLS AIMS FOR JAPAN

Peace Treaty Should Avoid Punitive Provisions Without Yielding Firmness

TOKYO, July 12.—(AP)—General MacArthur declared today the peace treaty with Japan, "without yielding firmness in its essential mandates," should avoid "punitive, arbitrary and unrealistic provisions," and by its terms set the pattern for future peace throughout the world.

The supreme commander outlined his views on the principles to be embodied in the peace treaty in a statement lauding the Far Eastern commission's policy decision as "one of the great state papers in modern history."

The action by the 11-Pacific nation commission announced yesterday in effect approved the occupation directive MacArthur received from President Truman Sept. 6, 1945.

The supreme commander's statement said the basic element of allied policy—disarmament and demilitarization of Japan—has been completed. And even without "external controls," he said, "Japan could not rearm for modern war within a century."

The F. E. C. decision not only ratified the course taken thus far, MacArthur declared, but signifies the "complete unity of future purpose among the 11 nations and the people concerned."

MacArthur said the F. E. C. decision confirms for Japan "a sound moderate course based upon a concept embodying firmness but justice, disarmament but rehabilitation, lower standards but opportunity for life—a concept shunning both the extreme right and the extreme left, and providing for the great middle way of ordinary man."

CONFERENCE PLANNED ON HOME ECONOMICS

BATON ROUGE, La., July 12.—(AP)—A state conference for home economics teachers, sponsored by the State Department of Education and the state university, will be held on the L. S. U. campus July 21-25, John E. Coke, state superintendent of education, announced today.

Consultants for the workshop include Miss Mary Ellen Weathersby, director of the University of Mississippi's graduate school of home economics and Dr. Clara Tucker, head of L. S. U.'s home economics department.

The program, Coxe said, is designed to aid teachers in finding ways of improving and expanding their homemaking instruction.

Colored Pins In Conservation Office Map Tell Story Of New Field

The official score for Union parish's new Ora oil field yesterday, as set forth by a map studded with colored pins on the wall of the Monroe district conservation office, was five producers, three dry holes and 21 operations at various stages of advancement.

Included with Sellar and Ewing's discovery well, Feazel, Neely and Roberts' Dykes No. 1 and King and McCalman's Neva Norris No. 1 in the list of successful wells, represented on the map by yellow-headed pins are three of the Shell company's Frost Lumber Co., A units.

The black-topped pins, indicating failures are for Roberts and Smith's Farmers Mercantile Co. No. 1, King and McCalman's J. C. Williams No. 1 and Feazel, Neely and Roberts' Dykes No. 5. Other seemingly disappointing operations within the field still are undergoing tests and have not been formally abandoned.

Not included in the official score for the Ora field proper are a number of unsuccessful wildcats in other parts of Union parish. Recent additions to that discouraging list are the Luxader No. 1 of Roberts, Benson et al., 1 1/2 miles north of the discovery, and the J. C. Lesage P. P. Price estate No. 1. Questioned yesterday concerning a report that the two latter wells would be reopened for deeper drilling, the conservation office said permits for such operations had not been asked.

After failing to obtain a showing of oil at the Nacatosh sand depth in their Zollie C. Raybun estate No. 1 well, seven miles southwest of the field, C. W. Sharp and James E. Kemp continued drilling with the hope of striking production at a lower level. Saturday's depth was reported as 2,530 feet and the operators were quoted with saying they would go to 3,250 feet "if necessary." Paul E. Parsons' Gordon Taylor No. 1, six miles northeast of Farmerville, was reported Saturday to have had no showing of oil at 2,165 feet and drilling was continued.

First of the Shell wells to be gauged officially was its Frost Lumber Co. No. A-4 which was brought in Friday and flowed at the rate of 137 barrels per day through a 3/16-inch choke from perforations at 2,142-7 feet. Tubing pressure was given as 70 pounds, casing pressure 125, gas-oil ratio 44 to 1 and gravity 28.4. The Shell A-1, completed earlier in the week, did not have flowing pressure but it was unofficially rated as pumping at 200 barrels per day. Also not yet tested by a commission inspector was Shell's A-2, which it was listed as "a certain producer."

Drilling was resumed Friday night on Sellars and Ewing's Monzingo-Rivers No. 5, a mile and a half southeast of their discovery well, and cores were to be taken during the weekend. A "good core" was reported Saturday on the same operators No. 4 well an offset of the discovery.

The conservation office had no further report Saturday on the C. H. Murphy, Jr., E. E. Norris No. 1, which was said earlier in the week to have 12 feet of oil sand.

Fletcher and Sneed's R. F. Ward No. 1, five miles west of the main field, was drilling below 800 feet Saturday.

The Murphy-Sun company got a big gasser and a dry hole in two wildcat operations in Richland parish. Its M. L. Kennedy No. 1 at the south edge of the town of Delhi was abandoned at 3,740 feet on July 5. The unsuccessful oil well is a quarter of a mile west of the company's Phillips-Rundell No. 1, a producer. The gas well, known as Murphy-Sun's Federal Land Bank No. 1, was completed last April 15, but the official test was not made until last week, when it was found to have a flow of 9,400,000 cubic feet per day from 3,153-8 feet.

Murphy-Sun made three new locations in the Delhi field. They are for the Federal Land Bank No. 2, the Kulhawy No. 2 and the Phillips-Rundell A-1.

CYCLING PLANT INSPECTION SET

Press To Visit Lake St. John Field; Pew Tells Of Richland Project

H. K. Crandall, president of the California Company, yesterday telegraphed Louisiana newspaper publishers and oil editors to be his guests next Saturday on a tour of inspection of the Lake St. John field next Saturday.

"The objective of the tour," says his message, "is to provide an opportunity for you to view one of the most modern recycling plants in the country and the first unitized gas and oil project instituted under Louisiana's oil conservation act."

The party is to assemble at Natchez, Miss., early Saturday morning to make the trip, which will be under the direction of A. E. Alexander, the California Company's New Orleans representative.

Sixteen North Louisiana oil producers have joined in a modern project to prevent waste of natural gas in the Delhi, West Delhi and Big Creek fields of Richland parish it was announced by James E. Pew, manager of the natural gas and natural gasoline division of Sun Oil company at Philadelphia, Pa.

The 16 in 1 project is one of the first co-operative natural gasoline extraction ventures in the industry. They have become part owners in a plant costing more than $3,500,000 being constructed under supervision of Sun Oil company.

When in operation the plant will process approximately 17,000,000 cubic feet per day of oil well residue (casinghead gas) to reduce by this amount the volume of gas being flared in Louisiana fields.

Until now the amount of this by-product gas in these fields has been insufficient to justify costs involved in collecting and processing which require an extensively pipeline gathering system and the building of a new plant.

The plant which is under construction on a 40-acre site will extract 70,000 gallons per day of liquid hydrocarbons from oil well residue. Formerly lost, these products will include propane, butane and natural gasoline. After liquid hydrocarbons have been extracted the remaining dry gas will be piped to a connection with a natural gas pipeline company and sold as fuel.

Approximately 80 per cent of the producers in the three fields have agreed to join in ownership and operation of the plant, Mr. Pew announced. Each company will own an interest in the plant equivalent to the percentage of ownership held in the producing areas. Each company will produce and sell its own share of products recovered. Sun Oil company and C. H. Murphy, Jr., jointly own approximately 64 per cent of the producing acreage. Sun Oil has been designated as plant operator and will have charge of construction, operation and maintenance.

Construction contract for the plant has been awarded the Petroleum Engineering company of Houston, Texas.

NEGOTIATIONS HALTED IN RINGLING ESTATE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 12.—(AP)—Negotiations between the Florida state cabinet and executors to liquidate the estate of Circus John Ringling, who left most of his holdings to the state, appeared to be at a standstill today.

Minutes of a series of closed cabinet meetings show that after rejecting an offer of the executors themselves to buy all remaining assets, the cabinet recommended that the offer of J. L. Sullivan, oilman of Kerrville, Texas, to pay $1,200,000 cash for the Sarasota real estate be accepted by the executors.

The executors, John Ringling North and his mother, Ida Ringling North, have rejected the offer, said Doyle E. Carlton, former governor and special Ringling attorney for the state. He gave no reason for the executor's action.

The Florida supreme court currently is considering a suit by which the state seeks to have the Ringling heirs ousted as executors by an interpretation of a codicil to Ringling's will which virtually cuts them off as beneficiaries.

A big block of Sarasota county real estate, several hundred thousand dollars in bank deposits, 30 percent of the stock in the Ringling circus and sizeable Oklahoma oil interests are included in the estate's assets.

Yellowing leaves on azaleas are often a symptom of lack of iron. Lack of phosphorus will show up in slow growth and in dull green leaves that turn dark and drop off. Nitrogen-starved azaleas have a ragged, uneven appearance.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 12.—(AP)—Wheat futures were lower most of the time today on profit-taking due to yesterday's sharp advances. Most corn and oats futures also were unable to make much headway, and about the only strength was in deferred corn deliveries.

Wheat closed 1 3/4 to 2 1/2 cents lower than the previous finish, July $2.38 1/4-$2.37 1/2, corn was 1 cent up to 2 5/8 cents down, July $2.15 1/8-$2.15, and oats closed 1/4 up to 1/2 off, July $1.01 3/4.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

CHICAGO—Wheat: Off as much as 2 1/2 per cent; profit-taking. Corn: July corn lower; distant contracts generally higher. Oats: Mostly fractionally lower; profit-taking. Cattle: Nominally steady. Hogs: Nominally steady.

MACARTHUR TELLS AIMS FOR JAPAN

Peace Treaty Should Avoid Punitive Provisions Without Yielding Firmness

TOKYO, July 12.—(AP)—General MacArthur declared today the peace treaty with Japan, "without yielding firmness in its essential mandates," should avoid "punitive, arbitrary and unrealistic provisions," and by its terms set the pattern for future peace throughout the world.

The supreme commander outlined his views on the principles to be embodied in the peace treaty in a statement lauding the Far Eastern commission's policy decision as "one of the great state papers in modern history."

The action by the 11-Pacific nation commission announced yesterday in effect approved the occupation directive MacArthur received from President Truman Sept. 6, 1945.

The supreme commander's statement said the basic element of allied policy—disarmament and demilitarization of Japan—has been completed. And even without "external controls," he said, "Japan could not rearm for modern war within a century."

The F. E. C. decision not only ratified the course taken thus far, MacArthur declared, but signifies the "complete unity of future purpose among the 11 nations and the people concerned."

MacArthur said the F. E. C. decision confirms for Japan "a sound moderate course based upon a concept embodying firmness but justice, disarmament but rehabilitation, lower standards but opportunity for life—a concept shunning both the extreme right and the extreme left, and providing for the great middle way of ordinary man."

CONFERENCE PLANNED ON HOME ECONOMICS

BATON ROUGE, La., July 12.—(AP)—A state conference for home economics teachers, sponsored by the State Department of Education and the state universiy, will be held on the L. S. U. campus July 21-25, John E. Coke, state superintendent of education, announced today.

Consultants for the workshop include Miss Mary Ellen Weathersby, director of the University of Mississippi's graduate school of home economics and Dr. Clara Tucker, head of L. S. U.'s home economics department.

The program, Coxe said, is designed to aid teachers in finding ways of improving and expanding their homemaking instruction.

NEW WALL MAP OF TWIN CITIES
The Frank B. Dolph Map Company of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, pioneers in map engineering, are preparing a new large detailed map of Monroe, West Monroe and environs. This map will show all streets and names with cross key and index, parks, waterways, railroads, bus lines, schools, important buildings, etc. The map will be four feet by five feet (4' x 5'), and mounted on heavy cloth stock with wood stakes top and bottom, or on spring roller. They will last practically indefinitely. For further information write local representative: Mrs. Catherine Kruse, 510 Linderman Ave., West Monroe, La.

DEWEY CAPTURES MEET SPOTLIGHT

Salt Lake City Plays Host To Conference Of State Chief Executives

SALT LAKE CITY, July 12.—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey captured the spotlight among state chief executives arriving early to attend the annual Conference of Governers here next week.

Republican leaders of Utah met him at the train, and later in the day GOP leaders from Idaho and Nevada conferred with him in his suite.

George T. Hansen, national committeeman from Utah, said in an interview that sentiment for a 1948 presidential nominee had not crystalized in the state but added that Dewey and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio had considerable strength.

Forty-two state governors and governors of the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico are scheduled to attend the conference, which will be highlighted by a speech by Secretary of State George C. Marshall Monday night. Marshall will fly to Salt Lake City tomorrow.

Gov. Earl Warren of California was due to arrive by plane this afternoon and his coming stirred fresh speculation of a possible renewed effort by the Dewey forces to persuade him to take the vice-presidential nomination, should the New York governor head the ticket.

Warren visited Dewey in New York last month and said at the time he was not a candidate for any national office. Nevertheless, he still is considered among the leading contenders for the presidential nomination.

Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Dewey's running mate in 1944, will arrive late tomorrow night by plane. He is expected to sound out Taft sentiment among the Republican governors.

Dewey will preside at a round-table session on tax and fiscal policy. Participating will be members of the Senate and House tax sub-committ tee, including Sens. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Albert W. Hawks of New Jersey and Reps. Robert W. Kean of New Jersey, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Daniel A. Reed of New York.

Sen. Edward W. Martin of Pennsylvania was scheduled to attend but may be forced to cancel the trip because of pressure of business in Washington.

The conference will open tomorrow night with services in the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Tabernacle, after which the visitors will be guests at a reception by Utah's Gov. Herbert B. Maw at the executive mansion.

Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, chairman of the Governor's conference, will preside at the opening business session Monday. During the four-day meeting the governors will discuss problems of housing, labor legislation and education, as well as tax and fiscal policy, national preparedness and the organization and administration of state government.

Education will be the subject of Tuesday's round-table under direction of Gov. Clarence W. Meadows of West Virginia.

Dewey's arrival in Salt Lake City ended his week-long tour of states west of the Mississippi, during which he privately pushed his candidacy for the presidential nomination. He received reports that he was leading in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and that he had an even chance against Taft or any other prospective candidate in Texas and Colorado.

REV. E. K. MEANS, Speaker

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, July 12. — (AP) — Very shortly the government will publish, for sale to the public, a booklet called "Fascism in Action."

This study in dictatorship—how it works and how it gets that way—was prepared by a special staff of the Library of Congress.

Rep. Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, asked that it be done. Before it could be printed for the public the House had to approve.

This it finally did after much delay and fiery debate because some congressmen said it was a waste of money.

The government printer will announce the price of it, which won't be much, when it's printed.

This writer has gone through original copies. It is worth the time of anyone who wants to understand Fascism in action.

Patman wanted it made public as a companion piece to "Communism in Action," another booklet which the House ordered printed last year.

This, too, was prepared by the special congressional library staff. So far more than 400,000 copies of it have been sold.

Neither booklet deals with any evidence of Communism or Fascism which have appeared in this country.

One sticks to Communism in Russia. The other concentrates on Fascism in Germany, Japan, Italy and Spain.

The conclusion of the long study on Fascism is, roughly, that Fascism means these things:

1. A dictator runs a Fascist government. He's supported by a single political party and a special class. The state, for its own so-called good, keeps everyone under its thumb.

2. Freedom, in the Democratic sense understood in this country, does not exist. An individual's life means little. It's full of duties and obligations to the state.

3. Religion is attacked if it suggests obedience to anyone else before the state, or if it emphasizes the importance and dignity of the individual.

4. An individual's leisure time is carefully supervised because the state wants to control his waking thoughts and actions.

5. Education and thinking are controlled to make the masses think and do what the dictator wants.

6. Foreign policies are aggressive, or warlike. Fascism, looking for more living room for its people, seeks to build an empire.

7. To suit its own purposes, the dictatorship directs banking and private investment.

8. The dictatorship controls foreign trade of its people to suit its own ends.

9. Labor is so controlled that free collective bargaining and self-government by labor organizations are abolished. In short: free unions are smashed.

10. Farming is developed intensively so the population can be fed with its own products. Which means: to be self-sufficient.

11. Transportation, besides carrying goods and passengers, is built up to ease unemployment and as a preparation for war.

12. Fascism goes in for big arms programs. This tends to raise living standards. But no one knows how long that could last since no big Fascist state has lasted long enough to show it.

13. Big business and big industrialists are favored and strengthened. Enough private profit is permitted to let the special ruling class get rich.

Tariffs are raised. Huge sums are spent for military purposes. Not only is freedom of the individual disregarded, so are freedom in business dealings and investments, and even freedom in changing jobs.

POSSIBLE ECONOMY CRACKUP STUDIED BY ADMINISTRATION

Prices Soar To New Highs Instead Of Suffering "Mild Dip"; Employment Goal Reached; Summer Slump Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—The administration today put aside fears of a mid-1947 business setback to study instead the question whether the nation's high-riding economy is headed for an inflationary crackup.

Instead of the mild "dip" which most government economists once predicted after July 1, many now forecast a new and higher plateau of prices in August and September.

Sixty million jobs yesterday became a reality instead of the title of a book by Henry A. Wallace. The census bureau reported that 60,055,000 civilians were working in June, an all time high for peace or war.

This "drove the last nail in the coffin" of the much discussed summer slump, some of the economists say. Actually, the working force exceeds Wallace's "full employment" goal, for he included men in military service. If these are added, today's total is 61,453,000.

The earnings and purchasing power of this army of jobholders is one of the economic forces which President Truman must consider in his special midyear report on the state of the economy. The message goes to Congress next week.

The president's council of economic advisers, which yesterday gave Mr. Truman and the cabinet the facts, figures and forecasts on the problems of prosperity, is described reliably as worried lest the country is "relaxing its resistance to the inflationary mood."

At this moment, one official close to the council reported privately, the advisers feel it would be "unfortunate and unjustified" if sizeable price increases are slapped on steel and consumer goods made from steel as a result of the wage increase won by John L. Lewis' coal miners.

Neither should the coal settlement set off a general demand for another round of wage boosts, the council believes, because the miners' $1.20 daily increase is not much bigger than the 15-cent hourly pattern set in other industries in the spring.

At the commerce department, some economists see at least three factors which may jack up prices and business activity in August and September. They mention:

1. The full impact of the spring and summer wage raises—not merely in coal, but in the steel, auto, telephone, maritime and other industries—will show up by then in the form of greater buying power and heightened demand for goods.

2. The cash payment of veterans terminal leave bonds may put over a billion dollars of spending money in veterans' pockets in September.

3. Controls of consumer credit—the one-third down and 15-months may be lifted in August, thereby enlarging everybody's credit resources for the purchase of autos, refrigerators, washers and other goods.

The bond and credit depend on Congress.

The House already has voted, 386 to 0, for the cash redemption of the G. I. bonds.

As to credit curbs, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles has indicated he will lift them soon after Congress adjourns late this month unless he gets statutory authority for further control. Congress now seems unlikely to give it.

The controls have been maintained under a presidential executive order based on war powers.

National income payments to individuals, which are regarded as a yardstick of prosperity, are already at a record peak and may go higher.

In May, when the average weekly wage of factory workers rose about 3 per cent, the income payments hit their last-reported annual rate of $178,000,000,000. The statisticians say that the more recent pay increases are still to be felt.

There are some counter inflationary influences.

With most industries now over the hurdle of wage disputes, uninterrupted production can better the supply of goods for sale. Exports may fall off late this year as foreign countries run low on dollars, and this may curtail factory production. End of the harvest season will bring unemployment to many farm and cannery workers.

But on the theory that inflation is the problem of the moment, Mr. Truman's message is expected to repeat his plea that industry dig in its heels against further price advances and if possible cut prices voluntarily.

The report is also expected to renew the White House argument against income tax reduction under the revamped Knutson bill which now carries an effective date of January 1 instead of July 1.

In view of the outlook, Mr. Truman probably will find it possible to argue that this is still "the wrong time" to legislate tax cuts, even if they take effect six months hence.

TIME CLOCK PUNCHING ENDS IN FORD PLANTS

DETROIT, July 12.—(AP)—A tradition established by the late Henry Ford, that salaried employes right up to top-bracket executives punch time clocks, will be terminated by the new management of the Ford Motor Co.

This change, effective Aug. 1, was revealed today in a memorandum to the company's 23,000 salaried workers from Henry Ford II, company president and grandson of the founder.

The elder Ford, who believed all employes from executives to floor sweepers should be treated alike, required everyone except persons on highly selective "A" payroll to carry a badge and time card.

They checked in and out at the start and end of the day and at the beginning and end of lunch periods.

The elder Ford's rigid "no smoking" rule also has been relaxed somewhat so that visitors in the lobby of the main building may smoke and employes are permitted to smoke in the lunch rooms.

MAYOR TO RUN FOR FARM POST

D. M. Riddle Of Marksville Announces For Commissioner Of Agriculture

BATON ROUGE, La., July 12.—(AP)—D. M. Riddle, mayor of Marksville, today announced his candidacy for the office of commissioner of agriculture and immigration in the Jan. 20 Democratic primary.

Describing himself as a "down-to-earth dirt farmer and livestock raiser," Riddle declared himself in favor of granting greater assistance to all farmers in Louisiana.

A graduate of Louisiana College at Pineville, with post-graduate work at Louisiana State university, Riddle served for a time as secretary to U. S. Rep. A. Leonard Allen in Washington, where, he said, he had an opportunity to become acquainted with many agricultural and immigration problems.

During World War II, Riddle rose from the rank of private to that of major, serving overseas for three years. As mayor of Marksville, he is serving also as vice president of the Louisiana Municipal association.

Riddle noted also that he has been active in veterans' affairs, being a member of three major veterans' organizations and a former commander of his home American Legion post.

Pledging himself to an active and aggressive campaign, Riddle declared that "since agriculture is the backbone of our nation it will be my firm undertaking to do all I can for its advancement in Louisiana and make it an even better agricultural state than it is today."

2 MEN QUESTIONED IN MISS. SLAYING

LAUREL, Miss., July 12.—(AP)—District Attorney Howard Pittman said today that two men were being questioned exetnsively in connection with the slaying of an unidentified man whose body was found yesterday near Ovett, Miss.

The two men, the district attorney said, were arrested on another charge last week-end by a highway patrolman and that the car in which they were riding was reported stolen in Alabama. The names of the men were not revealed.

Pittman said that a search of the car disclosed a salesman's receipt book for the Progressive Farmer magazine with offices in Dallas, Birmingham, Memphis and Raleigh, N. C. He said these offices are being contacted in an effort to learn whether any employe is missing.

Pittman said that salesemen of this type are on the road most of the time and normally are out of touch with their offices for extended period. For this reason, he said, it would be some time before such a salesman would be reported missing.

Pittman's disclosures came as police traced a shirt found on the body of the 40-year-old man to a Los Angeles store.

3 CONVICTED NEGROES ARE TAKEN TO ANGOLA

Three Negroes, Carl Rushing, Jr., J. T. Beard, and Joe Kirby, were taken to Angola state prison Saturday to begin serving terms.

Rushing and Beard were sentenced recently to six and nine years respectively for armed robbery; Kirby drew a three year stretch for simple burglary.

The prisoners were in the custody of George Johnson, parish jailer.

"Khaki" is the Hindu word for dust—which explains how the well-known military shade got its name.

U. S. CHARGE AGAINST WATERPROOF PRISONER

ST. JOSEPH, July 12.—(Special)—Driving a car that had been reported stolen in New Orleans, Monroe (Buster) Harris, was arrested by a Tensas parish deputy sheriff at Waterproof yesterday and is held in jail here to be turned over to federal authorities as a Dyer act violator. He is to be taken to Monroe for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner M. C. Redmond this week.

Harris could have been prosecuted only in the state court for auto theft, had he remained in Louisiana on the trip, officers said, but he chose to come to Waterproof via of Natchez and Vicksburg, Miss., twice crossing a state line with the stolen vehicle.

RIVER VOYAGE ENDS FOR 3 OHIO YOUTHS

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—(AP)—Three Columbus, Ohio, youths completed a 1700 mile boat trip here yesterday, the realization of a six year dream interrupted by a world war and a year at college.

Sunburned and sporting heavy beards the modern Huck Finns completed their journey from Columbus here in 28 days, paddling boats made of aluminum aircraft belly tanks supported by airfilled pontoons.

The trio, all veterans attending Ohio State University, are Richard Spaeth, 20; Richard Howells, 20; and Peter Rider, 19.

The boys began their trip at Columbus, floated down the Scioto river to Portsmouth, Ohio, down the Ohio to Cairo, Ill., and down the Mississippi to New Orleans.

The trio plans to spend three days in New Orleans sightseeing and then return home by bus. Their boats will be taken back to Ohio on a river tug boat.

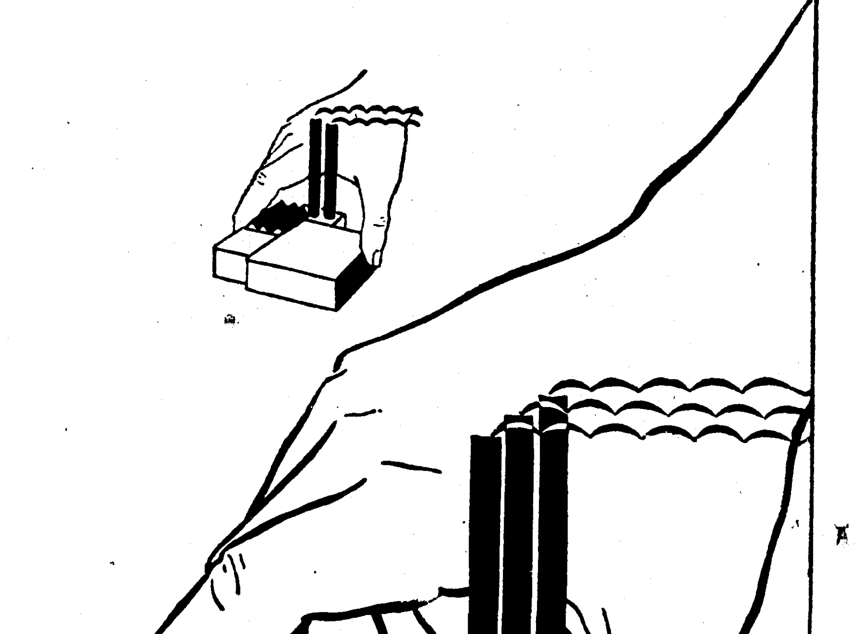
Q. What year marks the United States' fastest territorial growth?

A. In 1803, the Louisiana Purchase added 827,987 square miles to the U. S.—an area which almost doubled the 892,135 square miles of the original thirteen states.

Q. In what year did CSC grow most rapidly?



A. CSC has grown faster in the past year than in any other year in its history. Since March, 1946, CSC has spent $7,109,446, and appropriated an additional $6,000,000 for expansion in land, buildings and equipment. The new Dixie Chemical Division, purchased last September from the War Assets Administration, has already attained capacity production of ammonia for agriculture and industry.

In 1946, also, CSC contributed an important "first" to medicine, with the commercial production of crystalline penicillin. The new form of this life-saving drug is one of more than 200 CSC products for the doctor, the manufacturer, the farmer, and the motorist.

DEWEY CAPTURES MEET SPOTLIGHT

Salt Lake City Plays Host To Conference Of State Chief Executives

SALT LAKE CITY, July 12.—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey captured the spotlight among state chief executives arriving early to attend the annual Conference of Governers here next week.

Republican leaders of Utah met him at the train, and later in the day GOP leaders from Idaho and Nevada conferred with him in his suite.

George T. Hansen, national committeeman from Utah, said in an interview that sentiment for a 1948 presidential nominee had not crystalized in the state but added that Dewey and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio had considerable strength.

Forty-two state governors and governors of the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico are scheduled to attend the conference, which will be highlighted by a speech by Secretary of State George C. Marshall Monday night. Marshall will fly to Salt Lake City tomorrow.

Gov. Earl Warren of California was due to arrive by plane this afternoon and his coming stirred fresh speculation of a possible renewed effort by the Dewey forces to persuade him to take the vice-presidential nomination, should the New York governor head the ticket.

Warren visited Dewey in New York last month and said at the time he was not a candidate for any national office. Nevertheless, he still is considered among the leading contenders for the presidential nomination.

Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Dewey's running mate in 1944, will arrive late tomorrow night by plane. He is expected to sound out Taft sentiment among the Republican governors.

Dewey will preside at a roundtable session on tax and fiscal policy. Participating will be members of the Senate and House tax sub-committee, including Sens. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Albert W. Hawks of New Jersey and Reps. Robert W. Kean of New Jersey, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Daniel A. Reed of New York.

Sen. Edward W. Martin of Pennsylvania was scheduled to attend but may be forced to cancel the trip because of pressure of business in Washington.

The conference will open tomorrow night with services in the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Tabernacle, after which the visitors will be guests at a reception by Utah's Gov. Herbert B. Maw at the executive mansion.

Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, chairman of the Governor's conference, will preside at the opening business session Monday. During the four-day meeting the governors will discuss problems of housing, labor legislation and education, as well as tax and fiscal policy, national preparedness and the organization and administration of state government.

Education will be the subject of Tuesday's round-table under direction of Gov. Clarence W. Meadows of West Virginia.

Dewey's arrival in Salt Lake City ended his week-long tour of states west of the Mississippi, during which he privately pushed his candidacy for the presidential nomination. He received reports that he was leading in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and that he had an even chance against Taft or any other prospective candidate in Texas and Colorado.

REV. E. K. MEANS, Speaker

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, July 12. — (AP) — Very shortly the government will publish, for sale to the public, a booklet called "Fascism in Action."

This study in dictatorship—how it works and how it gets that way—was prepared by a special staff of the Library of Congress.

Rep. Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, asked that it be done. Before it could be printed for the public the House had to approve.

This it finally did after much delay and fiery debate because some congressmen said it was a waste of money.

The government printer will announce the price of it, which won't be much, when it's printed.

This writer has gone through original copies. It is worth the time of anyone who wants to understand Fascism in action.

Patman wanted it made public as a companion piece to "Communism in Action," another booklet which the House ordered printed last year.

This, too, was prepared by the special congressional library staff. So far more than 400,000 copies of it have been sold.

Neither booklet deals with any evidence of Communism or Fascism which have appeared in this country.

One sticks to Communism in Russia. The other concentrates on Fascism in Germany, Japan, Italy and Spain.

The conclusion of the long study on Fascism is, roughly, that Fascism means these things:

1. A dictator runs a Fascist government. He's supported by a single political party and a special class. The state, for its own so-called good, keeps everyone under its thumb.

2. Freedom, in the Democratic sense understood in this country, does not exist. An individual's life means little. It's full of duties and obligations to the state.

3. Religion is attacked if it suggests obedience to anyone else before the state, or if it emphasizes the importance and dignity of the individual.

4. An individual's leisure time is carefully supervised because the state wants to control his waking thoughts and actions.

5. Education and thinking are controlled to make the masses think and do what the dictator wants.

6. Foreign policies are aggressive, or warlike. Fascism, looking for more living room for its people, seeks to build an empire.

7. To suit its own purposes, the dictatorship directs banking and private investment.

8. The dictatorship controls foreign trade of its people to suit its own ends.

9. Labor is so controlled that free collective bargaining and self-government by labor organizations are abolished. In short: free unions are smashed.

10. Farming is developed intensively so the population can be fed with its own products. Which means: to be self-sufficient.

11. Transportation, besides carrying goods and passengers, is built up to ease unemployment and as a preparation for war.

12. Fascism goes in for big arms programs. This tends to raise living standards. But no one knows how long that could last since no big Fascist state has lasted long enough to show it.

13. Big business and big industrialists are favored and strengthened. Enough private profit is permitted to let the special ruling class get rich.

Tariffs are raised. Huge sums are spent for military purposes. Not only is freedom of the individual disregarded, so are freedom in business dealings and investments, and even freedom in changing jobs.

The fourteen Louisiana delegates to the General Federation of Women's Clubs returned to their respective homes after a most informative and enjoyable trip.

The Federation of 3,500,000 women were urged to use their power to prevent war, as lasting peace is the uppermost idea in every woman's heart. The delegates at the convention passed the resolution to allow 400,000 displaced persons enter the United States. This was voted after much discussion on both sides. Another resolution passed was urging our United States government to maintain a large standing army, as the United States' voice in the United Nations is just as strong as its standing army.

The decorations for the Louisiana table at the Foreign and Territorial Club Luncheon were under the supervision of Mrs. E. O. Haring, president of the New Orleans Woman's Club, the oldest club in the state, and Mrs. A. J. Thomas, of Hypatia club, Shreveport. The table was beautifully decorated with a reed basket filled with cocoanuts interspersed with gardenias. Miss Jackie Todd, of Lake Arthur, in costume represented the Junior Women of Louisiana. Mrs. Will Cousins, president of the first and second districts, New Orleans, served as hostess at the luncheon; and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, past president of Louisiana, served as general hostess.

At the South Central dinner, the Louisiana table was centered with a bowl of gardenias and place cards of open cotton bolls. Mrs. Levy, state president of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, led the group in singing "Louisiana" and then brought greetings from lovely Louisiana.

On Thursday night, which was president's night, Mrs. Levy marched in the processional and sat on the stage with the other state presidents and spoke on Youth Conservation. She was presented with a lovely orchid corsage by delegates from Louisiana.

At the Press and Publicity Luncheon, Louisiana was further honored when they were presented an award for being second in the nation-wide contest for subscriptions to the Club Woman, the General Federation magazine.

Mrs. B. V. Todd, Lake Arthur, accepted an award for the La Clique d'Etude, of Abbeville, as the outstanding club in Louisiana for 1946.

MONROE CLUB WOMAN TELLS OF VISIT TO SENATE WHERE FILIBUSTER WAS IN PROGRESS

The Monroe Chapter of Secretaries International observed its first annual Founder's Day Monday, July 7, at 7:30 p. m., with a dinner meeting at the La Casa Tea Room.

After a delicious dinner, Mrs. Mae Modes, acting as mistress of ceremonies, introduced Mrs. Marie Wamsley, who sang in beautiful voice, "Little Crumbs of Happiness" which she dedicated to the outgoing president, Mrs. Lena Wallace, an "In the Dusk." She was accompanied on the portable organ by Mrs. John Sholars.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, guest speaker, gave a very entertaining and educational account of her recent trip to New York, where she attended the convention of the General Federation of Clubs. She outlined her itinerary up the East coast to Washington and New York and back through the Smoky Mountains and the Shenandoah Valley, describing the scenic beauty of points of interest. Especially interesting was her description of the restoration of historic buildings and homes relative to the Revolutionary and Civil War Eras.

In Washington Mrs. Tisdale visited the Senate Chambers while the filibuster was in progress and heard Senators Taylor and Pepper filibuster against the overriding of the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor Bill. She also attended a luncheon at the Congressional Women's Club at which the recently ousted Premier Naage of Hungary was present.

At the convention of the General Federation of Clubs in New York, Mrs. Tisdale heard several talks on timely topics by various famous women leaders, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt who spoke on "Human Rights" and Mrs. Pearl S. Buck who spoke on "Can the World Be One?" Mrs. Tisdale's discussion of these subjects is an inspiration to all club women who are interested in the future of American women. She stated that American women must take an active part in politics and world affairs, using their, influence to bring about an improvement in world conditions.

Following Mrs. Tisdale's address, officers for the year 1947-48 were installed and new members were initiated in an impressive ceremony in which the lighting of rainbow colored tapers and the presenting of the club flower, the rose, were featured. Officers installed at this time were Mrs. Mae Modes, president; Mrs. Lena Wallace, first vice-president; Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth, second vice-president; Miss Johnetta Sisson, corresponding secretary; Miss Helen McDaniel, recording secretary; Mrs. Marion Tetreau, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Harden, Miss Marguerite Lindle, and Mrs. Rema Jane Allen, directors. New members initiated were Miss Juanita George, Miss Helen Youngblood, and Mrs. Vicci Bennett. A lovely gift was presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. Lena Wallace, at this time.

Guests and members present at this meeting were Miss Marguerite Lindle, Miss Johnetta Sisson, Mrs. Grady Dodd, Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth, Miss Wilma Smith, Mrs. Marion Tetreau, Miss Helen McDaniel, Miss Helen Youngblood, Mrs. Vicci Bennett, Miss Juanita George, Mrs. Mae Modes, Mrs. Lean Wallace, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. Marie Wamsley, and Mrs. Jean Harden.

Miss Sechler Is The Bride Of Mr. Steele

The interest of a host of friends is centered around the announcement of the marriage of Miss Maxine Sechler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sachler, and Mr. Roy Melvin Steele Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Steele all of West Monroe.

The wedding took place in the home of the groom's parents on Friday, June twentieth, with Dr. A. E. Autrey, co-pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the double ring service in the presence of members of the two families and close friends.

White pedestal baskets filled with white gladioli formed the setting for the ceremony performed before an improvised altar banked with white gladioli and woodwardia fern. The scene was reflected in the long mirror at one end of the living room.

Miss Irene Fuller, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a shell pink crepe model with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely azure blue crepe model with gracefully draped skirt. Her corsage was of white split carnations and stephanotis. For luck she wore a sixpence in her shoe.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held and the guests were invited into the flower-banked dining room where the young couple cut their wedding cake before departing for their honeymoon in New Orleans.

The bride's mother, wearing a blue sheer model with corsage of white carnations and the groom's mother in black sheer model with corsage of carnations, extended courtesies during the receiving hours.

The bride's table in the dining room overlaid with lace was centrally adorned with the beautifully embossed wedding cake encircled with gardenias. From the chandelier overhead was suspended a white satin wedding bell showered with narrow white satin ribbons tied with valley lillies. Tall white tapers in silver candelabra gleamed at the four corners.

Mrs. E. M. Henderson, the bride's aunt, presided over the punch bowl.

Mr. Steele was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and attended Louisiana State University, and is now employed by the U. S. postal service. The bride was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and is employed by Louisiana Power & Light Company.

The numerous handsome gifts received by the young couple attest to their popularity. They will be at home with the groom's parents on Montgomery avenue.

The interest of a host of friends is centered around the announcement of the marriage of Miss Maxine Sechler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sachler, and Mr. Roy Melvin Steele Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Steele all of West Monroe.

The wedding took place in the home of the groom's parents on Friday, June twentieth, with Dr. A. E. Autrey, co-pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the double ring service in the presence of members of the two families and close friends.

White pedestal baskets filled with white gladioli formed the setting for the ceremony performed before an improvised altar banked with white gladioli and woodwardia fern. The scene was reflected in the long mirror at one end of the living room.

Miss Irene Fuller, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a shell pink crepe model with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely azure blue crepe model with gracefully draped skirt. Her corsage was of white split carnations and stephanotis. For luck she wore a sixpence in her shoe.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held and the guests were invited into the flower-banked dining room where the young couple cut their wedding cake before departing for their honeymoon in New Orleans.

The bride's mother, wearing a blue sheer model with corsage of white carnations and the groom's mother in black sheer model with corsage of carnations, extended courtesies during the receiving hours.

The bride's table in the dining room overlaid with lace was centrally adorned with the beautifully embossed wedding cake encircled with gardenias. From the chandelier overhead was suspended a white satin wedding bell showered with narrow white satin ribbons tied with valley lillies. Tall white tapers in silver candelabra gleamed at the four corners.

Mrs. E. M. Henderson, the bride's aunt, presided over the punch bowl.

Mr. Steele was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and attended Louisiana State University, and is now employed by the U. S. postal service. The bride was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and is employed by Louisiana Power & Light Company.

The numerous handsome gifts received by the young couple attest to their popularity. They will be at home with the groom's parents on Montgomery avenue.

Miss Graves Will Wed Mr. Breard

Engagement Of Popular Young Couple Announced By Bride-Elect's Parents

A wedding announcement of widespread interest due to the prominence of the two families is made today by Dr. and Mrs. James Q. Graves who announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Mr. Kent Breard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Alexander Breard.

The wedding, .. quiet one, will take place at the First Methodist church in the presence of members of the immediate families. The bride's two neices, Sue Stubbs and Helen Theus will be her only attendants.

Miss Graves, a popular and charming member of Monroe's younger set, is a graduate of Brenau college, Gainsville, Ga. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and a member of Who's Who in American colleges and universities. She is an active member of the Junior Charity league.

Mr. Breard graduated from the Louisiana State University, school of law and is a member of Delta Kappa Eps'lon fraternity. He spent four years in the United States navy with services overseas. He was discharged with the rank of lieutenant. He is now associated with the law firm of Sholars and Gunby of this city.

Allen Wright's Entertain At Barbecue Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wright entertained with a barbecue supper in the beautiful old gardens of their country home with their fourth annual barbecue and extended the many gracious courtesies their home is famed for. The Wright home is built on the site homesteaded years ago and has been in the Wright family for generations.

Comfortable garden chairs were placed under the towering old trees and nearby Mr. Wright presided over the barbecue pit. He was assisted by Mr. Howard Lewis and Mr. Matthew Chaplin.

Forty or more relatives and friends were served the sumptuous barbecued meats and all the delicious accessories.

Among the guests were Mrs. Wright's father, Mr. D. M. Andrews of Fairbanks and Mr. Wright's mother and sister, Mrs. Emma Wright and Miss Bernice Wright of Swartz.

Miss Margie M. Mitchell has returned to Dallas, Texas, after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whitlock and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Blakeney of West Monroe. Miss Mitchell also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson and family in Brookhaven, Miss.

MRS. JAY D. BARNES

Mrs. Barnes, bride of recent date, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sim Butler of Jena, La. She is the former Miss Mary Kathryn Butler. Mr. Barnes is the son of Mrs. L. B. Weydert of St. Francisville and the late Mr. Jay C. Barnes of New Orleans.

Purely Personal

Living as we do in the midst of conflict and vague forebodings how grand it is to get away from it all for a few gracious weeks. Lakes, mountains, rolling hills and the pounding surf on sweeping coast lines lure Monroe vacationists this year. They will forget for the time being that there is such a thing as an alarm clock, a typewriter and jangling telephone.

A vacation idyllic in every respect has been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Carl McHenry and daughter, Miss Mary Wilton McHenry. They will leave on Wednesday for Glacier National Park where in view of tremendous mountain panorama they will enjoy fishing, canoeing, and gaze at the huge glaciers in the shadow of the Canadian Rockies. Later they will travel on to Banff where they will be guests at the Banff Spring hotel. While in Canada, land of amazing contrasts, they will also spend a few days at beautiful Lake Louise.

Miss Barbara Faulk and Miss Dorothea Girault are today treading the decks of a steamer of the White Fleet, en route home from Havana and points in Central America. They carefully planned this sea voyage so that every minute of their cruise would be memorable.

A vacation in the far west has just been completed by Judge and Mrs. William Harper. They were enabled to see all the beauty spots as they were joined in San Francisco by Mr. Harper's brother, Mr. Hugh Harper who took them via the motor route through the famous Redwood forest, the Feather River Canyon, up into Cregon and through the Crater Lake National Park. In Los Angeles they were entertained at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul d'Orr at Sierre Madre. As the guests of Mr. and Mrs. d'Orr they were privileged to attend a buffet supper at Pickfair, home of Mary Pickford in the suburbs of Los Angeles. Several days were also spent in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Frazier are enjoying a restful vacation in Colorado touring the country in their new automobile. Following their stay in Estes Park they will join their son Jimmy in Boulder, Colo. He expected to enroll at the University of Colorado but registered too late so he will return home with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wood Kellogg and two children are vacationing at a beautiful summer resort in Minnesota.

Vacationists who like the calm, unhurried hours in a cool clime would love to spend the summer at Echo Lake, Vt., where Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes occupy their summer home every year. They usually leave in June and do not return home until snow flies. Their home, built on a cliff overlooking beautiful Echo Lake, is buried deep in snow when winter comes but in the summer it's a place beloved by those who like to fish and just laze around in the warm sunshine.

The Arthur Dryburghs are leaving Tuesday in company with their daughter, Mrs. John Ryan and daughter Sally for North Carolina where they will be guests for the remainder of the summer at Pinnacle Inn near Hendersonville. Motoring through the Great Smoky mountains will be one of the highlights of their trip to and fro.

Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Jarrell will take their vacation later in the summer when their son is ready to leave Culver Military academy where he is attending summer camp. They will moter to Culver and enjoy a leisurely trip back home.

Mrs. Thomas Leigh will leave the latter part of the month for a visit with her daughter and son-in-law in Sahara Village, Utah. She will be accompanied as far as Boulder, Colorado by her daughter, Miss Rhoda Kellogg who will take special work at the University of Colorado. They will both be out of the city until September.

Grand Isle is a delightful vacation spot where Monroe families, year after year are lured for the deep sea fishing. Enjoying this sport during August will be Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Thompson and son, Tommy and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Whitledge and daughter, Geraldine. They will leave the first of August for Grand Isle and will occupy one of the beach cabins.

A vacation, ideal in every respect has been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wallace in company with Mrs. Wallace's sister, Mrs. Charles Hughes, of Wichita Falls, Texas. They will motor through the Dells of Wisconsin and visit the beautiful summer resorts along Lake Michigan. They will spend most of their time in Michigan.

We heard a Monroe woman say the other day that she had decided not to take a vacation but to remain at home and spend the summer contemplating the moral qualities of vegetables in her garden. Ever since reading Charles Dudley Warner's book on Vegetables she has had a great interest in the history of vegetables. The bean, for instance . . . . there isn't much dignity in a bean. It is rather a vulgar vegetable without culture or flavor in high society even though it had been grown ever since the Christian era. Corn, "the child of song," is a native of America; asparagus comes from Siberia; muskmelons are Persian; peas, Egyptian; lettuce, Chinese.

"Lettuce is like conversation," . . . . it must be fresh; crips, so sparkling that you can scarcely notice the bitter in it. Lettuce, however like most people who talk a lot usually runs to seed. "Lettuce, like conversation, requires a good deal of oil to avoid friction . . . a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper, some mustard and vinegar and a trifle of sugar."

Miss McGee Is Hostess At Dinner At The La Casa

Interesting visitors in the city, Dr. Edward McCoy Foster and his wife, Dr. Katherine Mickel Foster, were named honor guests at a beautifully appointed dinner party at La Casa tea room last Thursday night with Miss Katie McGee, hostess.

Pink oleanders of pronounced beauty were arranged with artistry for the floral decor of the silver serviced dinner table in the private dining room. The place cards, handprinted orleanders, marked covers for the hostess and her honor guests and: Miss Freeda Mickel, Miss Cliffied Olmstead, Miss Bess Sharp, Mrs. Jeanette Mahaffey, Mrs. Joseph Mickel, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Crandall, Mr. Leon Hammond, and Mr. T. Mickel.

A delicious three course dinner was served.

He carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Mr. J. T. Lewis, Jr., served as best man and the groomsmen were Mr. Thomas Higginbotham, Mr. J. D. McAdams and John B. Higman, Jr. The bride, walking with her father down the candlelit aisle, wore a wedding gown of shimmering white satin fashioned with a tight bodice, sweetheart neckline and long sleeves with points over the hands. The skirt, long and full, ended in a billowing train over which fell a long net of illusion and net. It was caught to a coronet trimmed with rows of narrow lace.

The bride carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli and white glamilias.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Ogden home.

The bride's mother wore a floor length model of blue crepe with corsage of pink glamelias. The groom's mother was attired in a green chiffon model with corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The wedding cake, a luscious three-tiered confection centered the lace-covered bride's table in the dining room. It was cut by the bride and groom before they left on their honeymoon. Frosted frappe and individual wedding cakes were served by Miss Betty Lou Barker, Miss Lois Ann Higman and Mrs. Leon Williams.

Miss Ann Whitsitt presided at the Bride's book where the guests registered.

The bride traveled in a beautiful aqua crepe suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The young couple will spend their honeymoon at Lake Tannycomo, Hollister, Mo., and Yellowstone National Park. When they return they will be at home in Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of the Mer Rouge high school and Northeast Junior college. She obtained her degree from Northwestern State college. She is a member of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority.

Mr. Stamper is a graduate of Gulfport Military academy and is now completing a course of study at Centenary college, Shreveport.

MR. AND MRS. DYER

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dyer was a recent event of interest. Mrs. Dyer was formerly Miss Jewel Dean Hudson.

MARRIAGE OF MISS DEVEREUX AND LT. STOERMER TAKES PLACE AT ST. MATTHEW'S

For something old Miss Helen Devereux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Devereux, wore her mother's handsome antique sunburst pin and for sentiment she wore the bridegroom's gift of Oriental pearls, when she walked down the aisle at St. Matthew's church, this city, to wed Lt. Uvalde Stoermer, son of Mrs. Alma Stoermer of Yokum, Texas, June 28, at 11 o'clock in the morning with Monsignor J. C. Marsh, officiating.

A profusion of white flowers banked the altar and entwined the chancel rail. Cathedral tapers, lighted at the nuptial hour, flamed high in brass candelabra on the altar.

An organ concert was rendered while the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mr. John Devereux, Mr. J. K. Devereux, Mr. John Vaughn and Mr. Hank Norris.

Miss Dottie Loviza of Vicksburg, Miss., sang "Ava Maria", and Hymn, "To The Sacred Heart of Jesus."

The matron of honor, Mrs. M. L. Gilmore of Columbia, S. C., wore a daffodil yellow model fashioned with long skirt, bustle effect. Long lace mitts of yellow were worn and she carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. A blue moonstone necklace added a lovely color contrast.

The maid of honor Miss Mary Louise Devereux wore a bouffant gown of pink marquisette with tight fitting, high-necked bodice and long full skirt. She wore a blue moonstone necklace and long pink lace mitts. She also carried arm bouquet of roses.

The flower girl, Susan Kay Devereux wore a gown similar to the one worn by the maid of honor.

Captain D. A. Maslan of Kansas City, Mo., served the bridegroom as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful white marquisette wedding gown fashioned with a deep ruffle outlining the round yoke. The skirt was long and full. Her veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a coronet. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and valley lilies and white orchids.

The bride changed her wedding raiment, following the ceremony, for a smart two-piece model of blue with accessories of white. The coat was fashioned with a flared back in the prevailing mode.

An informal reception at the home of the bride's parents permitted the bride and groom to cut their beautifully embossed wedding cake.

Following a honeymoon in Niagara Falls, the young couple will be at home in Chicago, Ill., where Lt. Stoermer is stationed with the U. S. Army.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior college and the bridegroom is a graduate of Texas A. and M.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Alma Stoermer of Yokum, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doms and son Joey of Austin, Texas, Mrs. Marion L. Gilmore of Columbia, S. C. The Miss Peggie Patterson of Jackson, Miss., Captain D. A. Maslin of Kansas City. The following were from Vicksburg, Miss.: Miss Margaret Mulvihill, Miss Helen Mulvihill, Miss Katie Mulvihill, Miss Mildred Hennessey, Mrs. Roy Shelby, Mrs. A. A. Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mulvihill, Miss Dottie Loviza, vocalist, Miss Margie Lefoldt, Mr. Harry Young.

Mrs. J. L. Adair, 1400 Forsythe avenue, now recovering from burns received July Fourth, is still a patient in St. Francis Sanitarium.

Mrs. Barberio Tells Of Visit In The East

Mrs. Ernest Barberio of San Antonio, Texas, has just completed a visit in this city with her sister, Mrs. E. R. Dawson. She was en route to her home from Cincinnati, Ohio, where she attended the National Convention of the Woodmen Circle as a representative from Blue Bonnet Grove Number 1972 of San Antonio. The local lodge was represented at the convention by Mrs. H. H. Benoit of this city. She is a member of Parlor City Grove, Number 288.

At the close of the convention Mrs. Barberio and a group of friends took advantage of a most interesting sightseeing tour.

They left Cincinnati, for Washington, D. C., where they visited the Library of Congress, which is considered the most beautiful building of it's kind in all the world, and especially attractive at night. Going through the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, they saw our paper money, government bonds, and postage stamps being printed. They visited the Supreme Court building, the United States Capitol, saw and heard Congress in session.

A trip was made to Mt. Vernon, through old Georgetown, crossing the Francis Scott Key Bridge to Arlington National Cemetery, seeing the Curtis Lee Mansion, visited the tomb of the unknown soldier at the memorial amphitheater. Then drove over the new George Washington highway along the beautiful banks of the Potomac river to Mt. Vernon via Alexandria. Enjoyed a one hour stop at the home of George Washington. Saw the old historic church our first president attended, and sat in his pew.

Experienced a most delightful steamer trip to Colonial Virginia and visiting the United States naval base, crossing to Newport News, arriving at Jamestown Island, the site of the first permanent English settlement in America, founded in 1607 by Capt. John Smith. It was here that Pocahontas married John Rolfe.

In Williamsburg which was settled in 1632, such historical places as Bruton Parish Church, William and Mary College, Powder Horn and the Court house which was built in 1770 were visited. This is the sight of the first theater in America, built in 1716, Raleigh Tavern, home of the first Greek letter fraternity, Phi Betta Kappa, is located here. Leaving Williamsburg and traveling via Yorktown, many points of historical interest were seen. The most outstanding being, the first Custom House in America, Old Court House, Grace Church, Ye Old English Tavern, and the actual point of surrender of Lord Cornwallis to General Washington and Commemoration Monument.

PERSONALS

Miss Ruth Kepner accompanied by Miss Dorothy Chase of Chase, La., and Miss Geraldine Ray of Wisner, La., are enjoying a three weeks' tour. They will leave, Detroit, Mich., via steamer to Toronto, Canada. En route home they will spend one week in New York City and several days in Washington, D. C., where all the points of historic interest will be visited.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haddad and Miss Ann Mickel have returned from a three weeks' automobile tour. They spent several days in Miami, Fla., and the gulf coast at Biloxi, Miss. They also enjoyed a short visit in New Orleans.

Guests in the C. W. Wallace home on Island Drive at this time are Mrs. C. W. Wallace, Jr., and two children, Bill and Larue, of Vicksburg, Miss., Mrs. Charles Hughes of Wichita Falls, Texas, and Mrs. Walter Baker Harris of Jackson, Tenn.

Mrs. John Coulson and Mrs. Sam Willensky spent last Sunday in Alexandria where they attended the convention of the V. F. W. auxiliary. Mrs. Willensky is president of the Hudson Lehy Post 3993. Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. Willensky were among the auxiliary members who distributed gifts to the veterans in the government hospital.

Mrs. Jack Barnett and two children, Jack Ben and Tommie Jo, of Marlin, Texas, are guests in the home of Mrs. Barnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeWitte, 320 Vernon street.

Mrs. Geneva Crockett, former resident of Monroe, announces the marriage of her daughter, Orlean Crockett to Sgt. Shelton D. Bowen, son of Mrs. W. M. Bowen, of Tupelo, Okla. The nuptials took place July 3 at the Barksdale Chapel, Barksdale Field. Major W. A. Lanning, Base Chaplain, officiated. The bride was attended by Mrs. Mildred Durham, Cpl. A. A. Bowen, brother of the groom, was best man. Clarence Durham, cousin of the bride, gave her away. The newlyweds will make their home in Bossier City while Sgt Bowen is assigned to Barksdale Field.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Taylor have returned from a pleasant vacation in Gulfport and Biloxi, Miss.

JUNEMAN-COX WEDDING ATTENDANTS

When Miss Jerry Juneman became the bride of Mr. James Fagan Cox she was attended by, left to right, Miss Maureen Norton of Haynesville, La., Mrs. William Furlow of Alexandria, Miss Annie Sue Miller of West Monroe and Miss Dixie Madden of this city.

BENDELS RETURN HOME FROM VISITS IN NORTH

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Bendel have returned from a visit with their son, Dr. W. L. Bendel, Jr., and his wife and daughter, Susan Marie, at Detroit, Mich., and with Mrs. Bendel's brother, Dr. Louis Gariepy and family also of Detroit, at Harbor Springs, Mich.

Dr. Gariepy and Mrs. Bendel were born at Harbor Springs, which is on the upper Michigan peninsula, and he maintains a summer home there.

WEDDING OF MISS BUTLER AND MR. JAY DAIL BARNES IS EVENT OF MUCH INTEREST

A lovely wedding characterized by beauty and sentiment was solemnized June 15, when Miss Mary Kathryn Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sim Butler of Jena, La., became the bride of Mr. Jay Dail Barnes, son of Mrs. L. B. Weydert of St. Francisville and the late Mr. Jay C. Barnes of New Orleans.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church in Jena, with Rev. Robert G. Donaldson, Rector of Grace Episcopal Church, St. Francisville, officiating.

The altar rail was entwined with southern smilax. Tall white baskets filled with gladioli and calla lilies and tall white tapers in floor candelabra with an arch entwined with greenery formed the background for the impressive ceremony. The family section was marked with white tulle, snapdragons and fern.

Prior to the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. Glen Morgan of Beaumont, Texas, played the "Kashmiri Song," Rachmaninof's "Theme from 2nd Piano Concerto", "Through the Years" and "Adagio Movement" from "Moonlight Sonata." She accompanied Mr. Nick Medica of Jena, who sang "O, Promise Me" and "I Love Thee." The traditional wedding marches were rendered. Sandra Tooke of Monroe, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles. She wore a yellow starched organdy dress over crepe with full floor-length skirt and fitted bodice. Her corsage was of carnations and feverfew.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her wedding gown of duchess satin, fashioned with an elongated bodice, a lace yoke embroidered in seed pearls and long fitted sleeves coming to points over the hands. The full circular skirt fell in folds into a long graceful train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and extended the full length of her train. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white carnations, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. George W. Alsup of Chattanooga, Tenn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her bouffant frock was of lemon yellow starched organdy over crepe, designed with tight fitting bodice and semi-bertha collar with matching elbow length gloves. She wore a Juliet cap fashioned of wired chenille, gladioli and feverfew. From her arm suspended by blue ribbon, hung a large heart-shaped wreath of yellow gladioli, carnations and feverfew with ruffled blue tulle edging.

Miss Helen Stein of Monroe and Miss Miriam Cobb of Jena, cousins of the bride, serving as bridesmaids, wore frocks of blue starched organdy over crepe, identical in design to that of the matron of honor, with matching elbow length gloves and Juliet caps of wired chenille and flowers. Heart-shaped wreaths of blue Esther reeds, carnations and feverfew, outlined with ruffling of yellow tulle, were suspended from their arms by yellow ribbons.

Mr. Barnes had as his best man his step-father, Mr. L. B. Weydert, and those serving as ushers were Mr. Robert M. Butler. brother of the bride, and Mr. Percy H. Christian of Opelousas, La.

Mrs. T. S. Butler, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding, a black sheer dress with a lace trim. She used white accessories and wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. L. B. Weydert, mother of the groom, wore for the occasion a dress of black crepe with bodice of lace over aqua satin. Her accessories were aqua and black and she wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of pastel flowers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The reception suite was beautifully decorated with gardenias, magnolias and gladioli. The bride's table was centered with a pyramid of Marconi daisies, and carnations bordered with ruffled white tulle on a mirrored plaque. The lace cloth was encircled with white satin ribbon, carnations and plumosa fern. At one end of the table was the tiered wedding cake and at the other was the crystal punch bowl. Each was flanked by a semicircle of slender white burning tapers in crystal candelabra. Mrs. Harry Stein of Monroe, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. A. M. Cobb of Jena served the cake. Miss Margaret Luttrell, cousin of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

For travel, the bride wore a surf grey gabardine suit with black straw hat trimmed with imported, handmade silk roses, black accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Following the reception, the young couple left by motor for New York and other points in the East. After their return, they will be at home in Monroe, where Mr. Barnes is associated with KMLB Radio Station.

The bride attended L. S. U. and was a pledge of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority. The groom attended Sewanee and L. S. U., where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included: Mrs. Camilla Barrow, Miss Belle M. Barrow, Miss Eleanor Barrow, Miss Jean Weydert, Miss Betty Sue Kendrick and Mrs. Emile Marchive, St. Francisville, La.; Miss Betty Jean Janssen, Miss Dorothea Schlesinger and Mr. Chas. W. Luttrell, New Orleans, La.; Mrs. E. W. Sehon, Delhi, La.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gammill, Tullos, La.; Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Tannehill, Mrs. B. '. Gallaher and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dickerson, Trout, La.; Mr. Jere Tillery, Shreveport, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scallan and Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Frieman, Pineville, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stein, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tooke, Messrs. James and Dick Tooke, Monroe, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Garrett and Misses Mary and Marjorie Garrett, Alexandria, La.; Mrs. Preston Kennedy, Centerville, Miss.; Mr. W. F. Calhoun, Jr., Archie, La.; Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Butler, Bunkie, La.; Capt. N. D. Butler, Jr. San Diego, Calif.; Miss Katherine Butler, Ruston, La.; and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Murr, Junction, Texas.

OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING

An out-of-town wedding, taking place in Little Rock, Ark., and of interest to friends in this city was that of Miss Mary Ellen Cook, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. Granville Morgan Cook of Russellville, Ark., and Mr. Claude Prentiss McCollum, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McCollum. The service was performed by Rev. Horace M. Lewis of Conway, Ark., at the Methodist church, June 29. with the Rev. Horace M. Lewis of Conway officiating, assisted by the Rev. Earle Cravens.

The altar was banked with palms and woodwardia, interspersed with white gladioli and lighted white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Wallace Cowan, organist, and Mrs. Jack Northington of Jonesboro, soloist, who sang, "Because" and "I Love Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white summer faille, styled with fitted basque waist, bouffant skirt cascading into a train, and leg o'mutton sleeves. Her fingertip veil, fashioned from heirloom lace and imported illusion, fell from a coronet of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Myriam Hull, maid of honor, wore a dress of yellow summer faille with matching gloves. Bridesmaids were Miss Bernyce Colburn, Miss Nan Beth Barger, Mrs. Oscar Nelson, Miss Peggy Jo Davidson of Dallas, Tex., Miss Jane Higginbotham of Imboden and Miss Norma Kathryn McCollum, sister of the bridegroom, of Emerson. They all wore dresses of blue summer faille with matching gloves identical to the maid of honor's. They carried bouquets of Shasta daisies. Eleanor Ray Cook of Little Rock and Iris Ann Stricklin of Paragould, cousins of the bride, served as flower girls. They wore yellow summer faille dresses fashioned similar to the maid of honor, and their bouquets were miniatures of that of the maid of honor. Granville Edward Cook, brother of the bride, served as ring-bearer.

W. H. Malock of Emerson served as best man. Ushers were Miles D. Prator Jr., and Harry S. Autrey of Texarkana. Troy Stewart, Curtis Long and Paul Jameson of Magnolia and Thomas H. Hickey of Russellville.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. A four-tiered wedding cake, encircled with Shasta daisies and maidenhair fern centered the table, which was was covered with a satin-damask cloth. Punch bowls were located on the porch and terrace.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Russellville. For travel the bride wore a navy blue silk shantung suit with blue and white accessories. She pinned a white orchid at her shoulder.

Because many wild greens wilt faster than other greens, they should be used as soon as possible after gathering.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Monroe
Rev. L. T. Hastings, Pastor

The church teaching: Sunday school, 9:45 a. m., E. H. Miller, superintendent.

The church worshipping: 11:00 a. m., and 7:45 p. m.

The church training: 6:30 p. m. Training Union and Brotherhood, Mrs. Forrest Seaman and L. B. Pettit, director and president, respectively.

Morning worship, guest speaker.

Dr. H. M. Weathersby, dean of Louisiana College, Pineville, will supply the pulpit at the morning worship hour, in the absence of our pastor, Rev. L. T. Hastings, who with Mrs. Hastings, is vacationing at Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, Ridgecrest, N. C. Dr. Weathersby has been with us before and our people always hear him with great pleasure and profit. The choir will sing a hymn-anthem, "By Grace Are Ye Saved," by James McGranahan, accompanied by Mrs. Florence Allbritton at the organ.

At the evening worship hour, Dr. Robert G. Lee, pastor of Bellevue Baptist church, Memphis, Tenn., for the past twenty years, will preach. His subject will be "Pay-Day—Someday." He has preached this sermon 298 times in 37 states and Canada. Dr. Lee is proclaimed far and wide, over the South, over the nation, and across the waters as the silver-tongued Southern orator and preacher of great fervor and spiritual power.

Those who are unable to attend morning service may hear him at the 11 o'clock hour over Radio Station KMLB.

Special music by combined youth and adult choirs. Lloyd Walters will also sing, "When They Ring The Golden Bells," by special request. The public is cordially invited to attend all services.

WILL BE OFF FOR CAMP WINDYWOOD

OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING

An out-of-town wedding, taking place in Little Rock, Ark., and of interest to friends in this city was that of Miss Mary Ellen Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Morgan Cook of Russellville, Ark., and Mr. Claude Prentiss McCollum, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McCollum. The service was performed by Rev. Horace M. Lewis of Conway, Ark., at the Methodist church, June 29, with the Rev. Horace M. Lewis of Conway officiating, assisted by the Rev. Earle Cravens.

The altar was banked with palms and woodwardia, interspersed with white gladioli and lighted white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Wallace Cowan, organist, and Mrs. Jack Northington of Jonesboro, soloist, who sang, "Because" and "I Love Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white summer faille, styled with fitted basque waist, bouffant skirt cascading into a train, and leg o'mutton sleeves. Her fingertip veil, fashioned from heirloom lace and imported illusion, fell from a coronet of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Myriam Hull, maid of honor, wore a dress of yellow summer faille with matching gloves. Bridesmaids were Miss Bernyce Colburn, Miss Nan Beth Barger, Mrs. Oscar Nelson, Miss Peggy Jo Davidson of Dallas, Tex., Miss Jane Higginbotham of Imboden and Miss Norma Kathryn McCollum, sister of the bridegroom, of Emerson. They all wore dresses of blue summer faille with matching gloves identical to the maid of honor's. They carried bouquets of Shasta daisies. Eleanor Ray Cook of Little Rock and Iris Ann Stricklin of Paragould, cousins of the bride, served as flower girls. They wore yellow summer faille dresses fashioned similar to the maid of honor, and their bouquets were miniatures of that of the maid of honor. Granville Edward Cook, brother of the bride, served as ring-bearer.

W. H. Malock of Emerson served as best man. Ushers were Miles D. Prator Jr., and Harry S. Autrey of Texarkana, Troy Stewart, Curtis Long and Paul Jameson of Magnolia and Thomas H. Hickey of Russellville.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. A four-tiered wedding cake, encircled with Shasta daisies and maidenhair fern centered the table, which was was covered with a satin-damask cloth. Punch bowls were located on the porch and terrace.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Russellville. For travel the bride wore a navy blue silk shantung suit with blue and white accessories. She pinned a white orchid at her shoulder.

Because many wild greens wilt faster than other greens, they should be used as soon as possible after gathering.

How Many Seconds to Eternity?

Sure as life, we all expect to die some time. But we don't let ourselves vegetate, moping about it. The wisest of us build our lives day by day and year by year to give a maximum of happiness. Having faith in ourselves, inspiring the faith of others--we regenerate our faith in God every time we turn to Him in prayer and in regular Church attendance.

DRESS FOR THE MEN IN YOUR LIFE WHEN YOU GO DANCING ON A SUMMER NIGHT

When the music plays for dancing on your favorite sky-topped roof or star lighted resort terrace, it will seem like a midsummer's night dream if you are dressed the way you like to look in a gown you'll love to wear.

Focus of dancing beauty—shoes and stockings—is accentuated and has added importance this season. The new look for these occasions is a romantic one. You'll be dancing in dresses with longer, fuller skirts which swirl and whirl as you dance. Mistlike, sleek fitting seam-free nylon stockings, as sophisticated as the most soigne dinner dress or strapless, figure-clinging evening dress, provide hemline-to-toe harmony and add a breathtaking loveliness to your dancing feet.

If you wish to be captivating on a midsummer's night, dress for the men in your life. If your fancy turns to black, you'll feel flirtatious in a strapless, black flat crepe, ballerina length dinner dress, the skirt full enough for graceful swirling when you dance. Trimmed with imported black Chantilly lace, a large tri-cornered Chantilly edged scarf doubles as a mantilla, or can be draped across the shoulder for a more covered up look when desired.

If your choice runs to cotton, wear a white cotton eyelet, with a great billowing skirt; or dress for summer dancing in a yellow dotted swiss, strapless and bouffant. Perhaps you'll prefer one of the quilted ginghams, bound East Indian fashion around the bosom, wide flinging skirt of sheer white organdy, banded in quilted gingham. Or select a drifting, dreamy rayon chiffon with a long, full skirt.

Whatever your choice for dancing on a midsummer's night, wear with it the merest suggestion of seam-free stockings—moulded to the leg, without a hint of seaming to shatter the lovely illusion.

N. T. Smith, Pastor
B. C. Smith, Music Director
Mrs. Dorothy Harbour, Church Sec.

Today marks the 5th year of our church and pastor and we come in to this Lord's day, after a glorious revival conducted by our pastor doing the preaching and Buddie Butler leading the song service.

Sunday school, 9:45, and at the 11 o'clock hour, Rev. H. L. Driskell will bring the message. Rev. Driskell preached the first sermon in the beginning of our church.

At the noon hour we will spread on the church lawn and all members are requested to be present and bring their baskets. All former members of our church are cordially invited to worship with us today. If living in the city attend the church where your membership is and then hurry for the noon lunch. Pictures will be taken from within the auditorium and without.

At 1:30 we will broadcast over KMLB, tune in and hear what God has done through his chosen people who are willing to work for Him

B. T. U. and Brotherhood meets at 7 p. m. Evangelist message at 8 p. m., which bring to a close our series of services. Large crowds have been in attendance each night of the meeting. Brother Buddie Butler has certainly stirred our hearts with his fine messages in songs, and with Miss Jo Ann Dunn, at the piano has been a joy to our hearts.

Three men have been ordained from our church to preach and all are now in pastoral work. Three young ladies have surrendered their lives for special missionary work. Don't forget Sunday is homecoming day at Emmanuel.

The church with a welcome to all.

DRESS FOR THE MEN IN YOUR LIFE WHEN YOU GO DANCING ON A SUMMER NIGHT

When the music plays for dancing on your favorite sky-topped roof or star lighted resort terrace, it will seem like a midsummer's night dream if you are dressed the way you like to look in a gown you'll love to wear.

Focus of dancing beauty—shoes and stockings—is accentuated and has added importance this season. The new look for these occasions is a romantic one. You'll be dancing in dresses with longer, fuller skirts which swirl and whirl as you dance. Mistlike, sleek fitting seam-free nylon stockings, as sophisticated as the most soigne dinner dress or strapless, figure-clinging evening dress, provide hemline-to-toe harmony and add a breathtaking loveliness to your dancing feet.

If you wish to be captivating on a midsummer's night, dress for the men in your life. If your fancy turns to black, you'll feel flirtatious in a strapless, black flat crepe, ballerina length dinner dress, the skirt full enough for graceful swirling when you dance. Trimmed with imported black Chantilly lace, a large tri-cornered Chantilly edged scarf doubles as a mantilla, or can be draped across the shoulder for a more covered up look when desired.

If your choice runs to cotton, wear a white cotton eyelet, with a great billowing skirt; or dress for summer dancing in a yellow dotted swiss, strapless and bouffant. Perhaps you'll prefer one of the quilted ginghams, bound East Indian fashion around the bosom, wide flinging skirt of sheer white organdy, banded in quilted gingham. Or select a drifting, dreamy rayon chiffon with a long, full skirt.

Whatever your choice for dancing on a midsummer's night, wear with it the merest suggestion of seam-free stockings—moulded to the leg, without a hint of seaming to shatter the lovely illusion.

DELTA AIRLINES EXPANDS BOARD

Elects Four New Directors States President Woolman

Delta Air Lines announces election of four new directors in an enlargement of the board of directors in connection with a general expansion of the company.

The new directors elected are: R. W. Freeman of New Orleans, Edward H. Gerry of New York City, Winship Nunnally of Atlanta, Richard J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Miami Beach.

Other directors are: C. E. Faulk, chairman; C. E. Woolman, president and general manager; Laigh C. Parker, vice-president of traffic; M. S. Biedenharn, vice-president; Travis Oliver, treasurer; C. H. McHenry, secretary; L. B. Judd, comptroller; and D. Y. Smith.

Woolman, announcing the election, said the new directors were added because of a general expansion of the company, with further extensions in sight.

Mr. Freeman, a native of New Orleans, is president and director of the Louisiana Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Ltd., and was formerly associated in various capacities with the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Chicago, the Wisconsin Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and the Great Lakes Coca-Cola Bottling Company. He is a graduate of Tulane University and prominent in New Orleans civic affairs, now serving as state treasurer and director of the American Cancer Society, and director of the New Orleans Summer "Pops" Concerts, Inc.

Actively interested in aviation, Mr. Freeman was a passenger on the Hawaiian Clipper in 1936 from Honolulu to Manila on the third scheduled flight of Pan-American Airways Pacific flights.

Mr. Gerry is a native of New York City and a graduate of St. Paul's School and Harvard University. He formerly was with the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Company, and is now associated with Gerry Estates, Inc., a real estate corporation. He has a private pilot rating and was a major with the army air forces in the recent war, serving in Africa, England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Mr. Nunnally, a native of Atlanta, graduated from the University of Georgia and Yale University. He was president of Nunnally Candy Company of Atlanta from 1920 to 1940. Mr. Nunnally is presently a director of Coca-Cola Company, a director and executive committee member of the Trust Company of Georgia, and a director of the Columbus Transportation Company.

A pilot since 1929, Mr. Nunnally still flies actively in single and multi-motored planes. He was wing commander and a lieutenant colonel in the Civil Air Patrol from 1942 to 1946, is a former chairman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, former regional vice-president of the National Aeronautics Association, and a director of the Atlanta Aero Club.

Mr. Reynolds, the son of the founder of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, was born in Winston-Salem, and graduated from State College, North Carolina. He has always been interested in ships and his sail boat "Blitzen" won the Honolulu race from San Francisco to Hawaii in 1933.

Mackenize's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Now that the Russian "bloc" of satellite nations in eastern Europe have been designated clearly we shall find it illuminating if we pause to devote a bit of thought to the meaning of the term "bloc."

A bloc of nations, in its generally accepted sense, is a group which has willingly combined to achieve some objective of common interest. Membership in the bloc is voluntary.

Now in examining the Russian bloc we find an interesting deviation from the ordinary definition. The element of willingness is lacking in much, if not all, of this association, that is, willingness on the part of the people as a whole in the various nations. For example, Hungary, Romania and Poland were among countries communized over protests by the United States and Britain that strong-arm methods were being employed so the will of the general public was being smothered.

The most recent demonstration—and it has drawn shocked expressions from the western world—is Czechoslovakia's withdrawal from the Paris economic conference on orders from Moscow. And in passing we can't overlook that Greek troops have been fighting a hot battle near the Albanian frontier against Red guerrilla forces which Greece charges are supported by her communistic neighbors and are aiming to establish a Communist state. A majority report of the United Nations Balkan commission recently upheld the charge that communistic Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria were aiding the Red rebellion against the Athens government.

So the Russian bloc is an unwilling and unhappy one. The more fact that a Communist government may be in control of a country doesn't necessarily mean that it speaks for the population as a whole. It means that the opponents of the government are, for the time being, either afraid to protest or are unable to register a useful opposition.

Moscow had several reasons for creating this bloc. One was to spread communism. Another was to increase the political and economic prestige of the Soviet Union. A third, and very important one, was to extend its sphere of influence westward for military security.

On paper the bloc is a formidable one that at first glance would seem to fulfill all the purposes for which it was built. However, we consider that it is made up of unwilling units we see that it provides a highly unstable barrier between Russia and the western democracies which she distrusts so much.

It is unstable because it cuts across a section of Europe which includes countries that long have been famous for their love of liberty and for their fierce defense of freedom. Among them are sturdy fighting folk like the Bohemians, the Serbs, the Poles, the Czechs, the Slovaks and the Finns.

Can any doubt that Russia will have to sit on the lid of this melting-pot? She herself, better than anyone else, must realize this because many of the populations in her bloc belong to her own Slavic race of fighters who so often have revolted against oppression.

Coercion isn't the right cement to hold a bloc together indefinitely.

CHURCH OF GOD TO HAVE REVIVAL

The Church of God will initiate a series of revival services starting tonight at 7:45 o'clock. The pastor will be in charge.

There will be special music by the "Harmonettes," who are heard over radio station KNOE each Sunday at 7:45 a. m.

POP AND PAT AND THEIR PRODUCT

'WAGON FACTORY' RURAL INDUSTRY

Father-And-Son Shop Near Eros Is In Its 47th Successful Year

If you were told of a wagon factory in Jackson parish only a few miles southwest of Monroe you would probably say, "Oh yeah!" Yet there is one. Not only that, but it has been turning out wagons for the past 47 years.

The owners and operators of this "factory" are C. M. Jarrell and son, Pat, of Eros. Old "Pip" Jarrell has been making wagons since 1900. He does not have any idea how many he has made, but says it will run something over 400.

"Pop" has retired from active work and turned the business over to his son, Pat. He now acts as technical advisor, reception committee and designer.

The wagons are hand made with the exception of the breast yoke which is turned on a lathe. The only other operation done by machinery is drilling the holes for the bolts. The irons, of course, are bought.

It requires from three weeks to a month to make a wagon. They are made of red oak or pin oak, because as "Pop" explained, "That's the best stuff to make them of." The wagon sells for around $100.

They do not have a name for the wagon, but that is not because they do not believe it is a good wagon. "Pop" believes its the best wagon money can buy and you'll believe it too if you listen to him for long.

"Pop" looks like a character out of the Old West, resplendent with high boots and a ten gallon hat—and we don't mean 9 1/2 gallons either.

They live on their 40-acre farm and raise most of their food, keep a few cows, hogs and chickens. They are cooperating with the Dugdemona Soil Conservation district and are installing a complete erosion control program on their farm. They recently finished terracing all their cultivated land and have planted lespedeza for soil building and hay.

"Pop" encourages his neighbors to conserve their soil, saying, "If farmers don't make anything to haul, the wagon business is doomed."

CHURCH OF CHRIST TO OPEN REVIVAL

Starting July 13, Evangelist Homer L. King, from Lebanon, Missouri, will conduct a series of gospel meetings at the Cheniere Church of Christ, about 8 1/2 miles west of West Monroe on the Cheniere road.

These meetings will be held every night at 8 o'clock and will continue through the Sunday morning service, July 20.

Evangelist Homer L. King is well known in quite a number of states as a seasoned evangelist and also as an editor of the "Old Paths Advocate," a church paper.

Consumed raw, watercress and strawberries are good sources of ascorbic acid, important vitamin to the diet. Another rich source is the edible hip of the wild rose.

TRIBUTE TO BE PAID BY MASONS

Western Star To Hold Memorial Service For Lt. Ben Peters

Western Star Lodge No. 24, F. and A. M., will hold a memorial service today for the only member of the lodge, Lt. Ben Peters, who lost his life in World War Two.

Masons will assemble at Masonic Temple at 4:30 p. m. and will go in a body to Riverview Burial park to the grave of their fellow member and a service will be conducted at 5 p. m. in the cemetery.

Lieutenant Peters, son of Mrs. Ben Francis, 316 Calypso street, lost his life shortly before he was assigned to overseas duty. He was highly regarded by all who were associated with him and his funeral held here was largely attended.

As the only lodge member to give his life for his country it was deemed a suitable tribute should be paid him through the memorial service planned today.

DELTA AIRLINES EXPANDS BOARD

Elects Four New Directors States President Woolman

Delta Air Lines announces election of four new directors in an enlargement of the board of directors in connection with a general expansion of the company.

The new directors elected are: R. W. Freeman of New Orleans, Edward H. Gerry of New York City, Winship Nunnally of Atlanta, Richard J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Miami Beach.

Other directors are: C. E. Faulk, chairman; C. E. Woolman, president and general manager; Laigh C. Parker, vice-president of traffic; M. S. Biedenharn, vice-president; Travis Oliver, treasurer; C. H. McHenry, secretary; L. B. Judd, comptroller; and D. Y. Smith.

Woolman, announcing the election, said the new directors were added because of a general expansion of the company, with further extensions in sight.

Mr. Freeman, a native of New Orleans, is president and director of the Louisiana Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Ltd., and was formerly associated in various capacities with the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Chicago, the Wisconsin Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and the Great Lakes Coca-Cola Bottling Company. He is a graduate of Tulane University and prominent in New Orleans civic affairs, now serving as state treasurer and director of the American Cancer Society, and director of the New Orleans Summer "Pops" Concerts, Inc.

Actively interested in aviation, Mr. Freeman was a passenger on the Hawaiian Clipper in 1936 from Honolulu to Manila on the third scheduled flight of Pan-American Airways Pacific flights.

Mr. Gerry is a native of New York City and a graduate of St. Paul's School and Harvard University. He formerly was with the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Company, and is now associated with Gerry Estates, Inc., a real estate corporation. He has a private pilot rating and was a major with the army air forces in the recent war, serving in Africa, England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Mr. Nunnally, a native of Atlanta, graduated from the University of Georgia and Yale University. He was president of Nunnally Candy Company of Atlanta from 1920 to 1940. Mr. Nunnally is presently a director of Coca-Cola Company, a director and executive committee member of the Trust Company of Georgia, and a director of the Columbus Transportation Company.

A pilot since 1929, Mr. Nunnally still flies actively in single and multi-motored planes. He was wing commander and a lieutenant colonel in the Civil Air Patrol from 1942 to 1946, is a former chairman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, former regional vice-president of the National Aeronautics Association, and a director of the Atlanta Aero Club.

Mr. Reynolds, the son of the founder of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, was born in Winston-Salem, and graduated from State College, North Carolina. He has always been interested in ships and his sail boat "Blitzen" won the Honolulu race from San Francisco to Hawaii in 1939.

Mackenize's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Now that the Russian "bloc" of satellite nations in eastern Europe have been designated clearly we shall find it illuminating if we pause to devote a bit of thought to the meaning of the term "bloc."

A bloc of nations, in its generally accepted sense, is a group which has willingly combined to achieve some objective of common interest. Membership in the bloc is voluntary.

Now in examining the Russian bloc we find an interesting deviation from the ordinary definition. The element of willingness is lacking in much, if not all, of this association, that is, willingness on the part of the people as a whole in the various nations. For example, Hungary, Romania and Poland were among countries communized over protests by the United States and Britain that strong-arm methods were being employed so the will of the general public was being smothered.

The most recent demonstration—and it has drawn shocked expressions from the western world—is Czechoslovakia's withdrawal from the Paris economic conference on orders from Moscow. And in passing we can't overlook that Greek troops have been fighting a hot battle near the Albanian frontier against Red guerrilla forces which Greece charges are supported by her communistic neighbors and are aiming to establish a Communist state. A majority report of the United Nations Balkan commission recently upheld the charge that communistic Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria were aiding the Red rebellion against the Athens government.

So the Russian bloc is an unwilling and unhappy one. The more fact that a Communist government may be in control of a country doesn't necessarily mean that it speaks for the population as a whole. It means that the opponents of the government are, for the time being, either afraid to protest or are unable to register a useful opposition.

Moscow had several reasons for creating this bloc. One was to spread communism. Another was to increase the political and economic prestige of the Soviet Union. A third, and very important one, was to extend its sphere of influence westward for military security.

On paper the bloc is a formidable one that at first glance would seem to fulfill all the purposes for which it was built. However, we consider that it is made up of unwilling units we see that it provides a highly unstable barrier between Russia and the western democracies which she distrusts so much.

It is unstable because it cuts across a section of Europe which includes countries that long have been famous for their love of liberty and for their fierce defense of freedom. Among them are sturdy fighting folk like the Bohemians, the Serbs, the Poles, the Czechs, the Slovaks and the Finns.

Can any doubt that Russia will have to sit on the lid of this melting-pot? She herself, better than anyone else, must realize this because many of the populations in her bloc belong to her own Slavic race of fighters who so often have revolted against oppression.

Coercion isn't the right cement to hold a bloc together indefinitely.

POP AND PAT AND THEIR PRODUCT

'WAGON FACTORY' RURAL INDUSTRY

Father-And-Son Shop Near Eros Is In Its 47th Successful Year

If you were told of a wagon factory in Jackson parish only a few miles southwest of Monroe you would probably say, "Oh yeah!" Yet there is one. Not only that, but it has been turning out wagons for the past 47 years.

The owners and operators of this "factory" are C. M. Jarrell and son, Pat, of Eros. Old "Pip" Jarrell has been making wagons since 1900. He does not have any idea how many he has made, but says it will run something over 400.

"Pop" has retired from active work and turned the business over to his son, Pat. He now acts as technical advisor, reception committee and designer.

The wagons are hand made with the exception of the breast yoke which is turned on a lathe. The only other operation done by machinery is drilling the holes for the bolts. The irons, of course, are bought.

It requires from three weeks to a month to make a wagon. They are made of red oak or pin oak, because as "Pop" explained, "That's the best stuff to make them of." The wagon sells for around $100.

They do not have a name for the wagon, but that is not because they do not believe it is a good wagon. "Pop" believes its the best wagon money can buy and you'll believe it too if you listen to him for long.

"Pop" looks like a character out of the Old West, resplendent with high boots and a ten gallon hat—and we don't mean 9 1/2 gallons either.

They live on their 40-acre farm and raise most of their food, keep a few cows, hogs and chickens. They are cooperating with the Dugdemona Soil Conservation district and are installing a complete erosion control program on their farm. They recently finished terracing all their cultivated land and have planted lespedeza for soil building and hay.

"Pop" encourages his neighbors to conserve their soil, saying, "If farmers don't make anything to haul, the wagon business is doomed."

CHURCH OF CHRIST TO OPEN REVIVAL

Starting July 13, Evangelist Homer L. King, from Lebanon, Missouri, will conduct a series of gospel meetings at the Cheniere Church of Christ, about 8 1/2 miles west of West Monroe on the Cheniere road.

These meetings will be held every night at 8 o'clock and will continue through the Sunday morning service, July 20.

Evangelist Homer L. King is well known in quite a number of states as a seasoned evangelist and also as an editor of the "Old Paths Advocate," a church paper.

TRIBUTE TO BE PAID BY MASONS

Western Star To Hold Memorial Service For Lt. Ben Peters

Western Star Lodge No. 24, F. and A. M., will hold a memorial service today for the only member of the lodge, Lt. Ben Peters, who lost his life in World War Two.

Masons will assemble at Masonic Temple at 4:30 p. m. and will go in a body to Riverview Burial park to the grave of their fellow member and a service will be conducted at 5 p. m. in the cemetery.

Lieutenant Peters, son of Mrs. Ben Francis, 316 Calypso street, lost his life shortly before he was assigned to overseas duty. He was highly regarded by all who were associated with him and his funeral held here was largely attended.

As the only lodge member to give his life for his country it was deemed a suitable tribute should be paid him through the memorial service planned today.

JUVENILE COURT GROUP TO MEET

Commission To Discuss Methods Of Combatting Juvenile Delinquency

The Louisiana Juvenile Court commission will conduct a public hearing here on July 18 to consider various methods of combatting juvenile delinquency, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, chairman of the Juvenile Probation Advisory Board announced Saturday.

The meeting, scheduled for 2 p. m. at the parish courthouse, is one of a statewide series.

Purpose of the discussion, Miss Rodgers said, will be to provide an opportunity for all interested persons and public officials to present to the commission their views on steps necessary to reduce law violations among Louisiana youth.

Mrs. Rodgers said that through the public meetings, the commission hopes to prepare recommendations for subsequent enactment into law.

The commission, Mrs. Rodgers explained, was appointed by Governor Davis in November, 1946, to make a survey of juvenile delinquency with the objective of protecting children and modernizing the juvenile court system.

Questions of immediate concern to the commission, Miss Rodgers said, include creating juvenile court and court districts, defining the jurisdiction of judges in juvenile cases, requiring special qualifications for juvenile court judges, establishing a system of juvenile social services, and improving juvenile education in schools and churches.

Members of the commission are Judge Chris Barnette of the Caddo Juvenile Court, chairman; Mrs. Rodger P. Sharp of New Orleans; W. S. Terry, Jr., of Baton Rouge; Dr. Elizabeth Wisner of the Tulane School of Social Work; Judge Frank Voelker of the Sixth Judicial District, and the executive secretary, Mrs. Ethel K. Muse of Baton Rouge.

Other meetings are set at Alexandria, July 16; Shreveport, July 17; Lake Charles, July 22; Thibodaux, July 23; Baton Rouge, July 24, and Covington, July 25.

THREE TO ENTER MINISTRY

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—The names of the strange towns went by like railway cars. . . .

And who remembers them now . . . Gela . . . Ragusa . . . Licata . . . Agrigento . . . Niscemi . . . Caltagirone? Soft musical names spoken in the soft Sicilian syllables that always end on a half-sob, as if the pleasant language reflected the long heartache of their island history.

But four years ago the names were live unpronounceable pinpoints on the maps of scores of American infantry and tank platoons moving across the dry face of Sicily.

They meant populated places where death and comedy held alternate rendezvous.

For there never was a military campaign quite like Sicily in its first few days. The troops were never sure whether they would get flowers or a hand grenade in the face . . . And they sometimes got both in the same town. They never knew whether the next enemy soldier would meet them with a bottle of "vino" or a machine gun blast.

It was a strange war even for Sicily, overrun by the forces of practically every empire since Crete, and a football through time for every Mediterranean power.

The Italian army was dissolving into happy, drunken, dirty fragments, washing apart like a sand castle in a heavy tide. But the German army was coiled like an iron spring, tempered and ready.

We came ashore at Scrabbly Gela, sunbaked and unwashed since the Greek dramatist Aeschylus died there in 456 B. C. The German tanks rolled in waves against the slender beachhead, and when they recoiled, beaten, more bloody dead lay there than at any time since Agathocoles treacherously put 5,000 inhabitants to the sword three centuries before Christ was born.

And then the towns began going by like railway cars . . . Naro . . . Favara. . . . Caltanisetta . . . Marsala . . . Trapani . . . and Castelvetrano, where broken plane doors flapped in a windy graveyard of Axis airpower.

The tomatoes, plump and sweet in the fields, took the place of water. The Italian prisoners poured in by tens of thousands, and there were souvenir flags and pistols and Fascist banners for everyone. It was a new Roman holiday—with ice cream cones for sale on one corner, and German tank death waiting around the next.

But in the west the German tanks were few, and Patton and his pistols wheeled into beautiful Palermo, a spacious capital in ruins, in power and pomp.

Light Sicilian ladies with the kisses of their departing German sweethearts still damp on their lips turned willing mouths to new conquerors. Thus it has always been in Sicily.

The war swung east then against veteran Teuton troops dug into the seacoast and rugged mountain villages. The gaudy days were over. The artillery guns pounded all day, and lit the sky by night. The bulldozers took over and built new roads around the blownup bridges. Doughboys bled again on unnamed hills.

And the towns went by more slowly now, like a jerky freight train, and the cars were colored red . . . Troina, that hill of horror . . . "Bloody Ridge," a crag populated only by American and German dead . . . San Stefano, with its creekbed so sown with chain mines that eight soldiers died when one man jostled a wagon . . . And Brolo, where our surprise landing broke the Nazi line.

Remember, soldier, the tossed flowers and hazel nuts and almonds? The watermelons and the wine? And Mt. Etna, smouldering on the right? Lying in a foxhole at night you could see it wore a halo, and wondered when you'd get yours.

Randazzo . . . Milazzo . . . Spadafora . . . and Messina . . . the end of the Sicilian campaign, with the Germans still firing from Italy across the straits.

The towns went by like railway cars . . . And who remembers them now?

W. A. Langford to add to a one-story frame building that is used as a residence, located at 312 Morris avenue. The total cost will not exceed $200 and the owner will be the contractor.

H N. Free to erect a one-story frame building to be used as a residence, located at 2107 Jasmine street. The total cost will not exceed $4,800 and day labor will be used.

About 2,145,000 passenger autos were produced in the United States last year together with 933,000 trucks and busses. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica 1947 Book of the Year, this is less than 64 per cent of the number of units produced in 1941 when, in addition to the cars and trucks, automotive plants also produced nearly $500,000,000 worth of armaments.

FARM AND HOME WEEK ARRANGED

Large Attendance Expected At L. S. U. Aug. 12 To Aug. 14

Special recognition will be given the flying farmers of Louisiana during the big Farm and Home Labor Saving Show which will be held at the Louisiana State University agriculture center in Baton Rouge in connection with Farm and Home Week, at L. S. U., August 12 through August 14, according to J. J. Joyce, Jr., parish agricultural agent of Ouachita parish.

Mr. Joyce said that W. P. Sellers, state supervisor of the agricultural extension service farm labor program, has issued an invitation to all farmers who own planes to fly to Baton Rouge during the show and take part in a program in their honor. An effort is being made to contact all flying farmers and all who own planes are urgently invited to get in touch with Sellers at University Station, Baton Rouge 3, Louisiana and find out about the program that is being planned.

Ten Farm and Home Labor Saving shows were held in different communities last year, the agent said, with a total attendance of more than 40,000 people. The show in the U. S. U. agricultural center August 12 through August 14 is expected to be the biggest and most varied held yet. It will feature not only the latest products of the farm and home equipment manufacturers but also homemade inventions of ingenious farmers from throughout Louisiana.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 Louisiana farm men and women are expected to attend the Farm and Home week, which is being resumed this year after being discontinued during the war.

NEXT OF KIN TO MEET JULY 25

Plans To Be Discussed For Return Of War Dead

Lt. Colonel C. D. Castle, Forth Worth, quartermaster depot, will visit Louisiana to hold meetings with the next of kin concerning the return of war dead, regardless of race or creed in all branches of service who died between September 3, 1939 and July 1, 1946.

The first meeting will be held in New Orleans July 14, and north Louisiana will be visited as follows: Winnfield, courthouse, July 24, 9:30 a. m.; Columbia, courthouse, July 24, 3:30 p. m.; Monroe, courthouse, July 25, 9:30 a. m.

Four new national cemeteries are to be established under the plans at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, Guam in the Marianas, at San Juan, Puerto Rico and Juneau, Alaska. These national cemeteries will provide final resting places for any armed forces personnel or honorably discharged veterans who may wish to be buried in Hawaii, Guam, Puerto Rico or Alaska addition to those who died during World War II.

America's dead of World War II rest today in more than 150 temporary United States military cemeteries overseas. Next-of-kin of the deceased are now being asked by the war department to state where they desire their loved ones buried. Options open to the next-of-kin provide for burial of the individual deceased member of the armed forces in a private cemetery in the United States, in a national cemetery in the United States, in a permanent American military cemetery overseas or in a cemetery in a foreign country which is the homeland of the deceased or of the next-of-kin.

Action by Congress will be required before the permanent military cemeteries or the new national cemeteries may be established. Once the permanent military cemeteries are established they will be cared for by the American battle monuments commission. The office of the quartermaster general has supervision only over all national cemeteries in the United States and abroad.

Land for the new cemeteries may be purchased if Congress so directs, or may be acquired by outright gift from the country concerned.

Following World War I, eight permanent American military cemeteries were established in France, Belgium and England. A total of 30,907 World War I dead rest in these cemeteries.

BARBERS' CLINIC ESTABLISHED HERE

Local No. 651 Again Takes Lead; Science School Graduates Five

Monroe Local No. 651 of the Barbers' Union, which led in establishing barber science and hair styling schools in Louisiana, again in first in another project for the betterment of the profession, officers of the organization announced yesterday.

They revealed that a "clinic," devoted to training in the care of hair and application of aids to complexion, had been opened in the Ouachita Parish High School extension building on South Grand street and is enrolling journeymen barbers and apprentices from all over Northeast Louisiana. The instructor is Leon Johnston, financial secretary of the local, who also has taught the barber science school.

Like the science school, the clinic is being sponsored by the Ouachita Valley Vocational School. Harold P. Willis, director of the vocational institution, said Saturday that, if the clinic is successful in its trial here, a motorized unit is to be provided to tour the state and conduct classes.

Final examinations before the state barber board at Baton Rouge were passed last Monday by five students who had completed training in the Monroe barber science school. They were J. G. Evans of Winnsboro, W. H. King and R. C. Hayden of West Monroe and C. O. Jackson and T. E. Calvert of Tallulah. The graduates, who were accompanied to Baton Rouge by Instructor Johnston, are to receive their master barber diplomas this week.

3 AGENCIES TO JOIN PROJECT

Tensas Basin Board To Receive Bids For Bayou Construction

The Tensas Basin Levee board will receive bid for the construction of the Black Bayou floodgate structure of the West Monroe ring levee, August 14 at the regular meeting of the board.

At a recent conference held in Monroe with D. L. Pyburn of the department of public works, and E. A. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita Parish Police jury and Arden B. Smith, president of the Tensas Basin Levee board, an agreement was reached by the three agencies to finance the project.

A complete survey had been made by the department of the public works for the proposed structure, and adequate facilities will be provided to insure the people of West Monroe against flood conditions which have been previously caused by impounded water within the ring levee.

Work on this structure is to begin immediately after the acceptance of bids and is expected to be completed before the next high water season.

JUVENILE COURT GROUP TO MEET

Commission To Discuss Methods Of Combatting Juvenile Delinquency

The Louisiana Juvenile Court commission will conduct a public hearing here on July 18 to consider various methods of combatting juvenile delinquency, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, chairman of the Juvenile Probation Advisory Board announced Saturday.

The meeting, scheduled for 2 p. m. at the parish courthouse, is one of a statewide series.

Purpose of the discussion, Miss Rodgers said, will be to provide an opportunity for all interested persons and public officials to present to the commission their views on steps necessary to reduce law violations among Louisiana youth.

Mrs. Rodgers said that through the public meetings, the commission hopes to prepare recommendations for subsequent enactment into law.

The commission, Mrs. Rodgers explained, was appointed by Governor Davis in November, 1946, to make a survey of juvenile delinquency with the objective of protecting children and modernizing the juvenile court system.

Questions of immediate concern to the commission, Miss Rodgers said, include creating juvenile court and court districts, defining the jurisdiction of judges in juvenile cases, requiring special qualifications for juvenile court judges, establishing a system of juvenile social services, and improving juvenile education in schools and churches.

Members of the commission are Judge Chris Barnette of the Caddo Juvenile Court, chairman; Mrs. Rodger P. Sharp of New Orleans; W. S. Terry, Jr., of Baton Rouge; Dr. Elizabeth Wisner of the Tulane School of Social Work; Judge Frank Voelker of the Sixth Judicial District, and the executive secretary, Mrs. Ethel K. Muse of Baton Rouge.

Other meetings are set at Alexandria, July 16; Shreveport, July 17; Lake Charles, July 22; Thibodaux, July 23; Baton Rouge, July 24, and Covington, July 25.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—The names of the strange towns went by like railway cars. . . .

And who remembers them now . . . Gela . . . Ragusa . . . Licata . . . Agrigento . . . Niscemi . . . Caltagirone? Soft musical names spoken in the soft Sicilian syllables that always end on a half-sob, as if the pleasant language reflected the long heartache of their island history.

But four years ago the names were live unpronounceable pinpoints on the maps of scores of American infantry and tank platoons moving across the dry face of Sicily.

They meant populated places where death and comedy held alternate rendezvous.

For there never was a military campaign quite like Sicily in its first few days. The troops were never sure whether they would get flowers or a hand grenade in the face . . . And they sometimes got both in the same town. They never knew whether the next enemy soldier would meet them with a bottle of "vino" or a machine gun blast.

It was a strange war even for Sicily, overrun by the forces of practically every empire since Crete, and a football through time for every Mediterranean power.

The Italian army was dissolving into happy, drunken, dirty fragments, washing apart like a sand castle in a heavy tide. But the German army was coiled like an iron spring, tempered and ready.

We came ashore at Scrabbly Gela, sunbaked and unwashed since the Greek dramatist Aeschylus died there in 456 B. C. The German tanks rolled in waves against the slender beachhead, and when they recoiled, beaten, more bloody dead lay there than at any time since Agathocoles treacherously put 5,000 inhabitants to the sword three centuries before Christ was born.

And then the towns began going by like railway cars . . . Naro . . . Favara. . . . Caltanisetta . . . Marsala . . . Trapani . . . and Castelvetrano, where broken plane doors flapped in a windy graveyard of Axis airpower.

The tomatoes, plump and sweet in the fields, took the place of water. The Italian prisoners poured in by tens of thousands, and there were souvenir flags and pistols and Fascist banners for everyone. It was a new Roman holiday—with ice cream cones for sale on one corner, and German tank death waiting around the next.

But in the west the German tanks were few, and Patton and his pistols wheeled into beautiful Palermo, a spacious capital in ruins, in power and pomp.

Light Sicilian ladies with the kisses of their departing German sweethearts still damp on their lips turned willing mouths to new conquerors. Thus it has always been in Sicily.

The war swung east then against veteran Teuton troops dug into the seacoast and rugged mountain villages. The gaudy days were over. The artillery guns pounded all day, and lit the sky by night. The bulldozers took over and built new roads around the blownup bridges. Doughboys bled again on unnamed hills.

And the towns went by more slowly now, like a jerky freight train, and the cars were colored red . . . Troina, that hill of horror . . . "Bloody Ridge," a crag populated only by American and German dead . . . San Stefano, with its creekbed so sown with chain mines that eight soldiers died when one man jostled a wagon . . . And Brolo, where our surprise landing broke the Nazi line.

Remember, soldier, the tossed flowers and hazel nuts and almonds? The watermelons and the wine? And Mt. Etna, smouldering on the right? Lying in a foxhole at night you could see it wore a halo, and wondered when you'd get yours.

Randazzo . . . Milazzo . . . Spadafora . . . and Messina . . . the end of the Sicilian campaign, with the Germans still firing from Italy across the straits.

The towns went by like railway cars . . . And who remembers them now?

VOCATIONS ARE BEING TAUGHT

Carroll Institute Is Opened For Training Negro GI's

The Carroll Vocational institute, Oak and Eleventh streets, Monroe, built and organized by leading Negro citizens to care for the training needs of veterans of their race, is now in full operation. Efficient World War Two instructors are in charge and it has been given official approval for teaching automobile and other essential trades.

A new building was designed and erected through efforts of Prof. Henry Carroll, principal of the Monroe Colored High School and as he was one of the principal organizers of the institute, it bears his name.

The building was started in April and completed and placed in operation for classes June 2. Since it opened a number of school officials from other places in Louisiana have visited the institute in order to gain benefit of work in progress here.

Automobile mechanics are now being taught but later other lines will be added, and it is believed that the school may become a permanent vocational institute for Monroe colored men who seek this special training.

M. H. Carroll ranks as dean of the school and L. L. Cowart is managing director. The advisory board is headed by the chairman, Rev. P. C. Keal and on his committee are leading colored preachers and professional men of the Negro race.

Business concerns of Monroe that have supplied material or money or have in other ways aided in the establishment of the institute are listed and the following are named: Slagle-Johnson Lumber company, Louisiana Roofing company, Jones Electric company, Pierce Pharmacy, La-Henri-Anna Beauty Shoppe, Miller's Funeral Home, Lamothe Funeral Home, Good Citizens Funeral Home, Community Cleaners, Pendleton's Service Station, Roy and Vance, Steele Lumber Company, Monroe Hardware company, Jones' Barbecue, Radio Station KNOE, Monroe Plumbing company, Motor Supply Company, Standard Office Supply company, and Central Oil company, No. 1.

United Electric Service, Coon Welding Company, Houston Bootery, Acme Funeral Home, L. and H. Wrecking Company, Central Savings Bank and Trust Company, Ouachita National Bank, Ritz Theater, Johnson Beauty School, Clark Refrigeration Company and Automotive Parts Company.

GI INSURANCE FACES DEADLINE

August 1 Final Date For Renewal Minus Physicals

August 1 is the deadline for veterans holding lapsed National Service Life Insurance to reinstate it without physical examination, according to Gilbert Faulk, home service chairman of the Ouachita Red Cross chapter. Until then, policies can be reinstated, he said, by paying only two monthly premiums, without interest, on the amount of insurance to be reinstated. Applicant must submit a signed statement that he is then in as good health as on the date the policy lapsed.

After August 1, it was announced, any lapsed NSLI insurance can be similarly reinstated within the term period by payment of only two monthly premiums, without interest, but "satisfactory evidence of good health in the form of a complete physical examination is required."

"However," Mr. Faulk pointed out, "the existence of good health shall not be denied because of a disability or disabilities, less than total in degree, resulting from active service between October 8, 1940, and September 2, 1945, both dates inclusive, if application is made prior to January 1, 1950."

A lapsed permanent NSLI policy may be reinstated at any time, except that a policy which has been surrendered for cash or paid-up insurance cannot be reinstated. All premiums in arrears must be paid, together with interest compounded annually at the required rate, from their respective due dates.

Health requirements for reinstating permanent NSLI insurance are the same as those for term insurance, except for policies running on extended term basis.

YOUTH INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

Bobby Fant, 17, of 211 Lazarre Ave., West Monroe, was injured when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a cab at the intersection of Hall and Harrison streets at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Police reported that Fant, who was traveling north on Hall, collided with the cab which was going south on Harrison and which was executing a left turn. The cab, owned by the Owl Cab Co., was operated by Booker T. Payton, 24, Negro, of 1215 Olive St.

Fant, rushed to St. Francis Sanitarium for treatment by a Mulhearn ambulance, was reported to have suffered fractures of both ankles, a lacerated chin and bruises and cuts.

KNITTING CHAMPION AT 94

MRS. MARY JOHNSTON

NONAGENARIAN OUTCLASSES RIVALS AS ACE KNITTER

Mrs. Mary Johnston, 94, Donates Red Cross 4,500 Hours

A life replete with teeming interest that shows little slackening of enthusiasm and physical energy even when but six years short of the century mark, is the experience of one of Monroe's most interesting residents. She is Mrs. Mary Johnston, mother of Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Sr., of 1000 Riverside Drive. But most amazing of all, Mrs. Johnston has a Red Cross knitting record that far surpasses any other woman's similar showing in Ouachita parish. She has a total of 4,500 hours to her credit. In other words, broken down into days of eight hours each, she was 472 days' work to her credit.

Mrs. Johnston is one of the few persons living in Monroe today who has had the experience of living through four wars, all of which are written ineffacibly on her resourceful memory, and she has been affected by these events and has made patriotic contributions to her country, directly and indirectly. She well recalls the War Between the States, the Spanish-American War and the two World Wars. In the war that recently ended, she established as stated a record such as no other local woman of any age was able to achieve in the enormous amount of knitting that she did for soldiers and their families.

At the request of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross, a reporter of the Morning World was asked to interview this remarkable woman who towers above all others here in her special line of activity.

Seated in an easy chair, in her daughter's attractive home, Mrs. Johnston and her daughter were visited by a reporter. Mrs. Johnston, straight as an arrow, active in mind and body, with hearing unimpaired, modestly assured that she was not unusual and that she saw no occasion for a special writeup. The Ouachita Parish Red Cross chapter, however, had a different idea, and at request of its members, the details of Mrs. Johnston's contribution were given. She herself refused to offer any data along this line but here is what was told of her achievements. She saw that every article asked for was knitted and submitted, and also there were unfailing two of every kind prepared. The articles knitted comprised 17 pairs of sox for men in the navy; 55 U. S. army sweaters; 58 pairs of special walking sox; and 16 war relief sweaters. During the war she gave 3,000 hours' work and since the close of the war, 1500 hours' work or a total of 4,500 hours.

S. W. Bennett, Georgia born, father of Mrs. Johnston, settled among the pines, 15 miles west of old Trenton in the 1850's. He erected a large log house, the most elaborate of any in the vicinity and his holdings, worked by a small army of slaves, extended in several directions. He was a believer in education and through his efforts an academy was established near the site of the present Calhoun. There the Bennett children were educated. There were 13 children in the family but only four boys and four girls lived to reach maturity.

All moved on smoothly for the family until the War Between the States occurred. Battle after battle was fought and the fortunes of the South hung in the balances. Then came the siege of Vicksburg, and when that citadel of the Mississippi surrendered to General Grant, word went around that the Yankees planned to dash through north Louisiana to Texas.

Then the Bennett family, like many others, picked up a few possessions and fled westward. But they got only to Homer when word came that the Yankees were not planning to invade Louisiana. The Bennetts thereupon remained at Homer which was their home for many years. Three brothers of Mrs. Johnston, were engaged in the war but fortunately all emerged unwounded.

Slaves, although legally freed, remained with the Bennett family for many years.

At the age of 35, Mary Bennett was married to a widower, Joseph Johnston, who was left with a small brood of children. Upon his marriage to Miss Bennett, he removed to Monroe and was instructor in the so-called male academy. This was the forerunner of the present Ouachita Parish High School.

To the Johnstons were born three children who are at the present time, Mrs. Fudickar, with whom Mrs. Johnston resides in Monroe, Mrs. Grover C. Hill, Shreveport, and J. Bennett Johnston, a Shreveport attorney.

The Johnstons took up their home right on the site of where the Fudickars reside at 1000 Riverside today. The house was erected about 1869 and is of such abiding material, a superior grade of cypress, so that recently when repairs were in order, the lumber was found in as perfect condition as the day it came from the mill.

In his time as academy educator, Mr. Johnston taught many of the sons of well known Monroyans of today. The Kaliskis, Marcus and Emile, were among the number as was the late J. J. Potts and many others. Later in life, Mr. Johnston removed to Bossier and practiced law up to the time of his death in 1910. Upon the death of her husband, Mrs. Johnston removed to Monroe and has resided here ever since.

Brothers, sons and grandsons of Mrs. Johnston have been active in the wars in which the country has been involved and this fact has made an indellible impression—probably that is one reason why she has been so zealously enthusiastic over her own contribution to the Red Cross in war time.

When not knitting, Mrs. Johnston is engaged in solving involved cross word puzzles. These and the cultivation of an extensive flower garden take up much of her time. She regrets she can not go galloping down town on a spirited mount or span the river in a canoe. These were dea[r] prized sports of her girlhood. [T]he other day when working on her flo[w]ers, she fell. Instantly she had a vis[ion] of the aged mother of President T[ru]man and her injured hip.

"I got up as quickly as possible [and] rubbed my hip to see how it was [go]ing to behave," she said, "but [for]tunately it was only a bruise!"

In church affiliation, Mrs. John[ston] is an Episcopalian and she has b[een] ardent in her support with both t[ime] and money. She likes to relate [that] when Mrs. Fudickar was christe[ned] at the age of 6 months, she mad[e a] great scene by crying constantly [and] lustily. The rector told the mo[ther] that this was a sign that the b[aby] would develop into a stead[fast] churchwoman.

Mrs. Johnston is proud, and righ[tly] of her eight grandchildren and [...] great-grandchildren, besides her [...] daughters and son. The passing y[ears] have dealt lightly with this unu[sual] woman and she looks forward to [the] future with interest such as a m[uch] younger woman would show for, [in] spite the ups and downs of life. [She] feels she has performed her d[uty] raised a splendid family, and [...] there is little more to be desired

Carroll Institute Is Opened For Training Negro GI's

The Carroll Vocational institute, Oak and Eleventh streets, Monroe, built and organized by leading Negro citizens to care for the training needs of veterans of their race, is now in full operation. Efficient World War Two instructors are in charge and it has been given official approval for teaching automobile and other essential trades.

A new building was designed and erected through efforts of Prof. Henry Carroll, principal of the Monroe Colored High School and as he was one of the principal organizers of the institute, it bears his name.

The building was started in April and completed and placed in operation for classes June 2. Since it opened a number of school officials from other places in Louisiana have visited the institute in order to gain benefit of work in progress here.

Automobile mechanics are now being taught but later other lines will be added, and it is believed that the school may become a permanent vocational institute for Monroe colored men who seek this special training.

M. H. Carroll ranks as dean of the school and L. L. Cowart is managing director. The advisory board is headed by the chairman, Rev. P. C. Keal and on his committee are leading colored preachers and professional men of the Negro race.

Business concerns of Monroe that have supplied material or money or have in other ways aided in the establishment of the institute are listed and the following are named: Slagle-Johnson Lumber company, Louisiana Roofing company, Jones Electric company, Pierce Pharmacy, La-Henri-Anna Beauty Shoppe, Miller's Funeral Home, Lamothe Funeral Home, Good Citizens Funeral Home, Community Cleaners, Pendleton's Service Station, Roy and Vance, Steele Lumber Company, Monroe Hardware company, Jones' Barbecue, Radio Station KNOE, Monroe Plumbing company, Motor Supply Company, Standard Office Supply company, and Central Oil company, No. 1.

United Electric Service, Coon Welding Company, Houston Bootery, Acme Funeral Home, L. and H. Wrecking Company, Central Savings Bank and Trust Company, Ouachita National Bank, Ritz Theater, Johnson Beauty School, Clark Refrigeration Company and Automotive Parts Company.

"NO TIME MUST BE LOST," TARZAN TOLD DALLAS, "IF WE ARE TO REACH THE LAKE OF BLOOD AND YOUR FATHER BEFORE CATLIN AND MUNGO GET THERE!"
THE APE-MAN WAS RIGHT. AT THAT MOMENT, THE TWO EVIL MEN BATTLED DESPERATELY TOWARD THEIR DAZZLING GOAL--DIAMONDS!
FORCING THEMSELVES ONWARD, THE JUNGLE MAN AND THE GIRL CROSSED OPEN VELDT. SUDDENLY THEY WERE CHALLENGED BY A HERD OF ELEPHANTS.

MOON MULLINS
by Frank Willard
OH, BABY! NOW THAT'S JUST TH' KIND OF A KID I ALWAYS WANTED TO MARRY.
I AND YOU BOTH-BUT YOU GO AHEAD. YOU BEEN WANTIN' TO LONGERN ME, MOON
SAY, KAYO-I GOT A IDEA.
WELL, SPILL IT.
OH!
NOW YOU DO YOUR STUFF.
HELP!
HUH?
WHAT'D YOU DO THAT FOR, KID?
7-13
WELL, MY BRUDDER MOON IS NUTS TO MEET THAT DAME AND HE FIGGERED THAT IF I PUSHED HER IN AND HE FISHED HER OUT, IT'D BE A CINCH TO GET HER TELEPHONE NUMBER.
OH, I SEE.
HOW CAN I EVER THANK YOU, MR.-ER-AH--
MR. MULLINS. BUT JEST PLAIN MOON TO YOU, BABE.
MR. MULLINS, I WANT YOU TO MEET MY HUSBAND.
I DIDN'T GET TH' NAME.
AND YOU DON'T GET THE TELEPHONE NUMBER, EITHER.
WELL, IT WAS YER OWN IDEA.
AW, DRY UP.

THE NEWLY INSTALLED FURNACE, ACTING AS A SOUNDING BOARD, CONVEYS BARNABY POORE'S VOICE TO THE SURPRISED CHESTER IN THE CELLAR!!
IT WAS SMART OF YOU, BARNABY, TO LET GUPPY TAKE THE RAP FOR US--
RIGHT, LUKE - WE'LL LAY LOW FOR AWHILE--
SO, MR. POORE IS THE GUILTY ONE!
I'VE GOT TO GET TO THE POLICE WITH MY BIG NEWS BEFORE THAT BARNABY POORE DOES ANY MORE DAMAGE!
7-13
SO LONG, RICHARD-- I JUST REMEMBERED AN IMPORTANT ERRAND -- SEE YOU LATER--
THANKS, SON- WE'LL BRING BARNABY POORE IN FOR QUESTIONING, RIGHT AWAY!
CAN MR. GUPPY LEAVE NOW, SIR?
FROM THE WAY YOUR NEW EVIDENCE STACKS UP, I'D SAY IT WON'T BE LONG, YOUNG MAN--
THE SERGEANT'S PREDICTION CAME TRUE A FEW DAYS LATER!!
THIS IS THE END OF THE LINE FOR YOU, BARNABY POORE!
THIS IS SHOCKING! THE MONSTER I INSTALLED AS HEAD OF COMMUNITY HOUSE!!
MR. GUPPY IS BEING RELEASED TODAY!
AND I SHALL PUT THAT FINE GENTLEMAN IN IMMEDIATE CHARGE OF CENTERSIDE HOUSE!!
UNCLE BIM, THERE'S ONE OTHER THING!
SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE TO SPARE YOUNG RICHARD POORE THE SHAME--HE WAS SO PROUD OF HIS DAD--- GOOD NOTION, CHESTER!
7-13
I'LL SEND THE BOY AND MR. GUPPY ON A LITTLE CAMPING TRIP TILL THE TRIAL IS OVER-- SWELL!! MAYBE I CAN GO ALONG--

I KNOW THIS SOUNDS SILLY, OFFICER, BUT I WAS REPLACING THESE FLOWERS—NOT STEALING THEM
AND WHO ARE YOU?
I'M AN EXPERT ON CHILD CARE—
THIS YOUNG LADY WAS ACTING UPON MY ADVICE —SOME WAYWARD YOUNGSTER TOOK THE FLOWERS— HE RAN OFF WHEN HE SAW YOU COMING
O.K.—BUT TELL ME MORE ABOUT THIS CHILD CARE BUSINESS—
I'M FORMING A MOTHERS CLUB IN AN EFFORT TO SHOW MOTHERS HOW TO RAISE THEIR CHILDREN PROPERLY—
I WONDER IF YOU'D DO ME A BIG FAVOR?
IF I CAN—
WOULD YOU MIND GIVING MY WIFE A LITTLE ADVICE?
GLADLY—
DEAR—THIS LADY IS AN EXPERT ON CHILD CARE —MEBBE SHE CAN HELP US OUT WITH OUR PROBLEM
HMPH
OF COURSE I DON'T WANT TO INTERFERE—
OH—THAT'S QUITE ALL RIGHT—
AS A MATTER OF FACT I WANT TO WATCH THIS!

OH, DEAR, AM I GOING TO HAVE TO YANK HIM OUT OF BED AGAIN THIS MORNING ?
THERE MUST BE A MORE PLEASANT WAY OF STARTING THE DAY THAN THIS !
DAGWOOD, I'LL NEED FIVE DOLLARS FOR THOSE THINGS I BOUGHT AT THE AUCTION YESTERDAY
TAKE IT OUT OF MY WALLET IN MY POCKET
THEY'RE DELIVERING THEM TODAY-- YOUR WALLET IS ON THE BATHTUB
POUR OUT MY COFFEE
DON'T YOU WANT TOAST, POP ?
OR AN EGG ?
HAVEN'T TIME--- HAVE MY COAT AND HAT READY AND THE DOOR OPEN
G'BYE, DEAR!
SPLAT
DO YOU CALL THAT A KISS ?
SWISH
MAMA, WILL YOU BUTTON THE BACK OF MY DRESS?
JUST A MOMENT, COOKIE, MAMA HAS TO RELAX A MINUTE, AFTER DADDY LEAVES IN THE MORNING
GREAT SCOTT-- I FORGOT MY WALLET
IT'S UPSTAIRS ON THE BATHTUB
JUST AS A MATTER OF INFORMATION, LADY, WHAT WAS THAT ?
JUST OUT OF CURIOSITY, BLONDIE, WHAT WAS THAT I HIT ON THE WAY OUT ?
YOU WAIT'LL YOU GET HOME

MOTHER-WHY ARE YOU LISTENING TO THAT BALL GAME?
ALL YOUR FATHER TALKS ABOUT IS BASEBALL-I'M GOING TO LISTEN TO THE BROADCAST OF THE GAME AND FIND OUT WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT-AND WHAT'S SO INTERESTING !!!
"BUTCH" McSLATS IS PLAYING ON FIRST BASE-
DANNY GILDUFF WAS CAUGHT NAPPING AT SECOND BASE!
HOMER BONER WAS THROWN OUT AT HOME!
HANS SANFEET WAS CAUGHT TRYING TO STEAL THIRD BASE!!
CASEY DROVE TO CENTER FIELD AND BROUGHT HOME DUGAN AND ENNIS-FATSO THOMPSON GRABBED A FOUL RIGHT OFF THE FENCE IN RIGHT FIELD!!
KEN RUNSOM WAS SAFE WHEN HE SLID INTO THE PLATE!!
OTTO KOKO SPEARED A BEAUTY IN CENTER FIELD-
CLAUDE HISFRIEND SHOT THE BALL THROUGH THE SECOND BASEMAN AND SHORTSTOP!!
GREAT HEAVENS! WHAT A CRUEL GAME-CATCHING HENS-STEALING BASES-THROWING A MAN OUT OF HIS HOME !!! SHOOTING HOLES THROUGH PEOPLE -- IT'S TOO HORRIBLE FOR WORDS-

DON'T YOU FALL OFF THAT ROPE, MYRTLE! THAT'S MY NEW UMBRELLA YOU'RE PLAYING WITH!
HERE YOU ARE, FOLKS! ALL YOU CAN DRINK FOR A NICKEL!
SHUCKS, FREDDIE, I CAN DRINK MORE THAN THAT!
DON'T BET
UNTIL YOU TASTE THE STUFF!
BUT YOU CAN'T QUIT ON THE KIDDIES, SLUG, AND BESIDES, YOU MAKE SUCH A BEAUTIFUL ELEPHANT!
I DON'T SEE WHY WE SHOULD PAY A DIME WHEN WE CAN SEE IT ALL FROM OUR OWN YARD!
THEY'LL ALL TALK ABOUT IT AT BRIDGE CLUB!
DON'T WORRY, ALICE-IT'S ONLY A PHONY SNAKE!
AND DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE BIG SIDE SHOW IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE MAIN PERFORMANCE!
AND DON'T TELL ME, ARNOLD, THAT YOU'RE CARRYING WATER FOR THE ELEPHANT, 'CAUSE I DON'T THINK THAT ELEPHANT DRINKS WATER!
I WORK ALL AFTERNOON TO MAKE RUTH A COSTUME AND THEN MYRTLE HOGS THE SHOW!
WE'VE GOT A QUITTER IN HERE! EUSTICE DOESN'T WANT TO BE SHOT OUT OF A CANNON!
I DON'T CARE IF YOU ARE THE GREAT BOZO. YOU CAN'T SINK HATCHETS IN MY NEW IRONING BOARD!

JUNGLE JIM
Registered U. S. Patent Office.
"BRADLEY, I'M COL. BOWNE. WANT A BIT OF HUNTING IN LOKISTAN?" JIM GRINS: "THE FORBIDDEN BORDER STATE? WHAT WOULD I BE HUNTING?"
"MY MISSING INTELLIGENCE AGENT, MAJOR BIXBY-- AND WHATEVER IS BREWING. WE CAN'T FIND OUT. CAN YOU?" JIM AGREES TO TRY. THE MAHARAJA OFFERS, "I'LL WRITE THE SHAH THAT YOU'RE COMING."
KOLU ARRIVES BY PLANE, AND THE "HUNTERS" SET OUT FOR THE MOUNTAIN KINGDOM, WHERE STRANGERS ARE STAKED OUT FOR TIGER BAIT.

FLASH GORDON
Registered U. S. Patent Office.
KANG COMMANDS: "TEST YOUR BENT-RAY, ZUGO." THE RAY-SCIENTIST CACKLES, "FIRST, I ELECTRIFY THE PROTECTO-DOME, SO THE RAY CAN'T CURVE BACK ON US--"
"MY RAY CAN TRACK AND HOME ANY LIVING CREATURE, INCLUDING MAN," ZUGO GLOATS. "THAT CAGED ARMOSAUR IS THE PLANET'S FASTEST, HARDEST-TO-KILL ANIMAL..."
ZUGO OPENS THE CAGE BY RADIO-CONTROL. THE ARMOSAUR LEAPS AWAY, ZIGZAGGING THROUGH THE FOREST WITH FIERCE SNARLS.
THE BENT-RAY BEAM, WITH LIGHTNING SPEED, FOLLOWS THE RAGING BEAST'S LEAPS -- TO END IN A BLAST OF FLAME THAT SHATTERS ITS ARMOR.
FLASH STUDIES THE RAY-MACHINE, BUT PLAYS HIS JAILBIRD ROLE: "I COULD STICK UP BANKS WITH THAT!" KANG SNEERS. "I'M GOING TO STICK UP THIS WHOLE PLANET OF MONGO WITH IT!"
